OBITUARIES

Mrs. Saul M. Smith Dies At 52

Mrs. Saul M. Smith, a leader in Marin's Jewish community, died at her home today after a two-month illness.

Mrs. Smith, 52, of 157 Via La Cumbre, San Rafael, had lived in Marin for nine years. Her husband is co-owner of Ed's Auto Supply, San Rafael.

She was a member of the board of directors of the Marin Jewish Community Center and a former president of the Marin Jewish Community Sisterhood. An active member of the Marin chapter of Hadassah, Mrs. Smith formerly served as vice president, program chairman and publicity chairman of that organization.

She was a member of the Marin chapter of B'nai B'rith Sisterhood and Temple Rodef Sholom. She also served on the Marin County Real Estate Board.

In addition, Mrs. Smith pursued interest in onomatology, the study of the origin and meaning of names.

A native of Cambridge, Mass., Mrs. Smith graduated from Brooks School of Pedagogy, Boston.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Edward M. and Richard M. Smith, both of Greenbrae; three sisters, Mrs. Dorothy Alpert of El Cerrito, Mrs. Esther Woolf of St. Louis, Mo., and Dr. Rose Winston of Boston, Mass, and three brothers, Coleman Wexler of San Rafael, Arthur M. Wexler of Miami, Fla., and Charles R. Wexler of Chestnut Hills, Mass.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Inurnment will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

GEO. SEHLMEYER

SACRAMENTO (AP) — George Sehlmeyer, 83 for 30 years master of the California State Grange, died yesterday at his Sacramento home.

Sehlmeyer, who fought for favorable water and agricultural legislation, was serving as president of the Grangers Business Organization at the time of his death. He had retired as head of the Grange in 1959.

He wrote and was chiefly responsible for the enactment of the California Marketing Act in 1937 and was one of the first to suggest a sales tax to aid schools.

CLIFFORD FAUST

Requiem Mass for Clifford Edmund Faust, 62, of 1354 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, who died Wednesday after a long illness, will be held at 9 a.m. Monday at St. Peter's Church in San Francisco.

Burial will be at Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno.

N. W. WHITMORE

Nicholas W. Whitmore, 77, of Santa Rosa, father of Mrs. Jean Hedemark of San Rafael, died yesterday in his home after a long illness.

A native of Ross, Whitmore lived in Marin County until about 15 years ago when he retired as a brakeman for Northwestern Pacific Railroad and moved to Santa Rosa.

Surviving are his wife, Margaret; a daughter, Mrs. Hedemark, and two grandchildren.

Funeral will be held at 8:45 a.m. Monday at the Welti Chapel of the Roses, 27 Sonoma Avenue, Santa Rosa. Burial will be at Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno at 12:15 p.m.

DOTTIE JOHNSON

Mrs. Dottie Johnson, 92, of 650 Canyon Road, Novato, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Johnson came to California from Oklahoma in 1947 after the death of her husband. She had lived with a daughter, Mrs. Alton B. Bench of Novato, for the last four years. She was a member of the Seventh Day Adventist Church of Novato.

Surviving, in addition to Mrs. Bench, are another daughter, Mrs. Marion L. Dobson of Erick, Okla., two sisters, Mrs. Reat Bullen of Williams, and Mrs. David Noye of Texola, Okla., and a brother, Troy Hicks of Erick, Okla.

Funeral will be held in Erick, Okla.

LARRY RAY

Funeral services for Larry E. Ray, a former Novato resident, will be held at the Redwood Chapel in Novato at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Ray died Thursday at a hospital in Eldridge, Sonoma County, where he had been for eight years. He was 24 years old.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. H. E. Plummer of Atherton. His father, Joe L. Ray died in Yuma, Ariz., in 1947. Young Ray was a native of Yuma.

Also surviving are two brothers, Richard Ray of the Marine Corps, and James Ray of the Navy; a sister, Martha Ray of Atherton; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dutcher of Santa Rosa and Mr. and Mrs. Will Ray of Yuma. He also leaves several aunts and uncles in the Novato area.

Burial will be at Marin Memorial Gardens in Novato at 1 p.m. Monday.

FRANCES HINKLE

Mrs. Frances A. Hinkle of 2098 Huckleberry Road, Lucas Valley, a 17-year resident of Marin, died in a local hospital yesterday after a brief illness. She was 74 years old.

She was a native of Illinois.

Active in amateur theater, she was a member of the Ross Valley Players, the Sausalito Little Theater and the Terra Linda Little Theater. She was also a member of the Corte Madera Women's Club.

She and her husband, H. Lin Hinkle who survives her, were married in Ohio 49 years ago.

She also leaves a daughter, Martha Press of San Anselmo, and three grandchildren.

Private services will be held at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

JULIEN SIRVAIN

Funeral services for Julien Sirvain of Clear Lake Highlands, Lake County, were held at Clear Lake Thursday. He died at his home Tuesday after a brief illness. He was 85.

Sirvain, a retired real estate man, was a native of Auburn, Placer County. He and his wife, Pearl Sirvain, who survives him, moved from San Francisco to Lake County 20 years ago.

Other survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Giusti and Mrs. Willette Ralphs, of San Anselmo; a son, Bert J. Sirvain of Kentfield; six grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

CRASH INJURES OAKLAND FIREMAN

Patrick H. Caulfield, 30, of Oakland, suffered a cut forehead and shoulder injury when his Volvo sedan, shown being righted here, rolled over after being hit by the car of Lauretta M. McCourtney, 18, of 36 Sidney Street, Mill Valley, as he tried to enter the San Quentin overpass from Highway 101 at 1:10 a.m. today. Caulfield, an Oakland fireman, was treated at Kaiser Hospital, Oakland. The California Highway Patrol said Caulfield attempted to turn from the wrong lane.

Soviet luminaries.

Visiting Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai is asking the Kremlin to open new Sino-Soviet "peace talks," east European sources said.

The sources said Chou is telling the Kremlin he wants the bi-lateral talks to take place in Peking sometime early next year.

According to the sources, the Kremlin may agree and postpone its scheduled December meeting of 26 Communist parties to plan a world Communist conference next year.

Three Drivers Draw Fines

Three Marin County men were fined in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for drunken driving on Highway 101.

Edwin Joseph Schmidt, 42, of 71 San Gabriel Drive, Fairfax, was fined $166. He was arrested by California Highway Patrol Oct. 9.

James Wendell Martin, 35, of 1 Felipe Court, Tiburon, also was fined $166. He was arrested by Marin County sheriff's officers Oct. 29.

Wayne Dahl, 34, of 41 Granada Drive, Corte Madera, was fined $276. He was arrested by the patrol July 26.

Carpenter Falls, Injures Ankle

A 42-year-old Napa carpenter suffered a cut under the chin and an injured ankle when he fell from a scaffolding while working on a new building at 914 Mission Avenue, San Rafael, at 10:45 a.m. yesterday.

Wayne Edward Armstrong was treated at San Rafael General Hospital. The hospital said a cast was placed on the ankle, but did not say whether it was broken.

Police said a cement dolly pivoted on the scaffolding, throwing Armstrong to the ground.

MARIN FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

10:14 a.m., Novato — Overheated blower motor in furnace sent smoke throughout home of Oliver Williams, 1417 Cambridge Street, Novato.

11:32 a.m., San Rafael—False alarm, Bayview and Marin streets.

3:40 p.m., Forest Knolls — Backfire caused carburetor fire in the car of William Rafferty of Castel Rock Road, Woodacre, opposite the Roma Market.

7:12 p.m., San Rafael — Fluorescent light bulb burned out and smoked at San Rafael General Hospital; no damage.

10:15 p.m., San Rafael—False alarm at Woodland Avenue and Eva Street.

11:13 p.m., San Rafael—False alarm at Mission Avenue and B Street.

Rousselot Denies Birch Society Attacks Press

SAN MARINO (AP)—The public relations director of the John Birch Society denies a charge that the society has attacked the press.

Replying to a California Newspaper Publishers Assn. accusation, John H. Rousselot told a news conference yesterday:

"We reserve the right to call the news media's attention to incorrect statements about the John Birch Society."

Rousselot said the society has a program called "Operation Monitor" in which members of the society contact news media to "encourage corrections or ask for a chance to give the society's position. In some cases, the members get a little bit too excited."

The association's board of directors this week approved a campaign "to help offset any abuse or vilification that tends to undermine the readers' confidence in their newspapers."

Lost Marin Boy Is Found Safe

A 17-year-old San Rafael youth, who spent 35 hours in rugged country west of Lake Tahoe, was found unharmed, yesterday afternoon.

Richard Van Dyne, of 50 Woods Street, became separated from his father Jame O. Van Dyne, while deer hunting Thursday morning. A search party was organized, and the boy's father, a member of the party, found him late Friday afternoon.

The Associated Press reported that the youth was lost in the rugged Jackson Springs area, about 15 miles northeast of Placerville.

Gets Medal

Navy Lt. (j.g.) John N. Hartman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney B. Hartman of 38 Bigelow Avenue, Mill Valley, was recently awarded the Armed Forces Expeditionary Medal while serving aboard the gasoline tanker Elkhorn, a unit of the Seventh Fleet in the Far East. The medal was awarded for the ship's actions during the Gulf of Tonkin incident.

Home Damaged During Absence

Soneone entered a San Rafael woman's apartment while she was away this week and did $400 damage to its interior, but took nothing.

Eleanor Lou Wilcox of 540 Canal Street, Apt. 7, said the break-in occurred between 7 a.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday.

She told police the intruders broke a sliding glass window to gain entry, then broke glass items, tore clothing and dumped food on the living room and kitchen floors, then helped themselves to several bottles of beer and the contents of a bottle of bourbon.

Youths Booked For Assault

Two brothers were booked by San Rafael police last night on a citizen's arrest charge of assault filed by a San Rafael hotel manager.

They were Andrew Joseph Carrino, 20, and John Anthony Carrino, 19, both of 5 Meadow Avenue, San Rafael.

Police said the complaint was filed by Joseph J. Graham, manager of the Wilkins Hotel, 1135 Fourth Street, who said the youths were among several whom he had ordered to break up a loud party in a room of the hotel.

Graham charged the Carrinos, with the others' help, "roughed him up." Police said they took a large billy club from another youth.

Today is Saturday, Nov. 7, the 312th day of 1964 with 54 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter, Mars and Venus. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Evangelist Billy Graham was born on this day in 1918.

On this day in history:

In 1805, the Lewis and Clark expedition sighted the Pacific Ocean at the mouth of the Columbia River.

In 1874, Harper's Weekly ran the first cartoon depicting an elephant as the symbol of the Republican Party.

In 1917, the Bolsheviks overthrew the Russian provisional government of Alexander Kerensky and Lenin assumed power.

In 1962, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt—the widow of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt—died at the age of 78.

A thought for the day — President Franklin D. Roosevelt said: "The truth is found when men are free to pursue it."

TIME AND TIDE

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Learn Not To Give Up Game Without A Struggle

When you've won several rubbers in a row, your opponents tend to be depressed. Keep playing and make the most of your psychological advantage.

When you've lost several rubbers in a row, you may be the depressed one. Stop playing as soon as you conveniently can.

East had lost five rubbers in a row before playing today's hand, and was sure that nothing good could possibly happen. He won the first trick with the ace of spades and despairingly returned a spade to dummy's king.

NO PROBLEMS

Declarer had no problems. He lost the trump finesse but then had an easy time drawing the rest of the trumps. He gave up one club trick, and East had another rubber to moan about.

East can defeat the contract if he is alert instead of depressed. A glance at the dummy makes it clear that his side can get only one spade trick and no diamond trick.

Three additional tricks are needed to defeat the contract, and they must be found in hearts and clubs.

OPTIMISM REQUIRED

East should reason that West may have a high heart and the ace of clubs or conceivably the ace-king of hearts without a high club. West cannot have all three of the missing high cards in view of South's bidding.

Since two tricks will not defeat the contract, East must try for a club ruff.

In short, East must optimistically return a club at the second trick. West takes the ace of clubs and returns the suit, hoping that East can ruff at once.

DRAW QUICKLY

Declarer tries to draw trumps quickly by taking the ace of hearts and returning a trump, but West steps up with the king of hearts and returns a third club for East to ruff. The ruff defeats the contract.

It is true that East can defeat the contract only if West has two of the missing three high cards and if South has three clubs. This is a lot to expect, and East should have more fear than hope as he returns a club at the second trick. Still, it costs East nothing to make the attempt.

Nobody wins either a medal or a rubber for giving up without a struggle.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 2 NT, and the next player passes.

You hold:

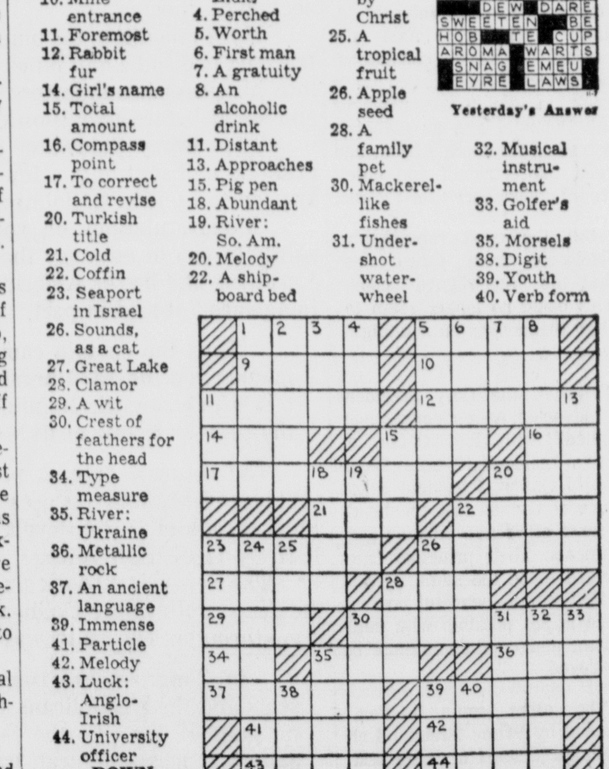

♠ A 6 3 2
♥ 9 8 5
♦ 9 8 7 5

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to bid a major suit if he has one (or four cards or more). If partner bids three spades you will raise to four; otherwise you will bid three no-trump.

Minority Housing Issue Not Dead, Churchmen Feel

Church forces that led the unsuccessful fight against passage of Proposition 14 at Tuesday's election, are pausing to assess what happened, and what they should do about California voters' decision to repeal the Rumford "fair housing" Act.

The proposition, passed at the election, amends the State Constitution to prohibit the Legislature for enacting laws affecting any individual's right to refuse sale or rental of private residence. Hence, the proposition was condemned beforehand by church groups and civil rights leaders as legalizing discrimination in housing.

While several lay groups have indicated they will seek court action to block enactment of Proposition 14, the first—as yet, largely unorganized—reaction of church organizations is that moral pressure and "good example" will have to replace political or legal tactics to abolish prejudice in housing.

First example of this to appear publicly is the statement issued by The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Episcopal Bishop of California. He cited the words of Joseph B. Barnwell, chairman of his diocese's Intergroup Relations Committee:

In reviewing the decision of the people of California to abandon the law as companion and protector of morality in housing practice, we are disappointed but not discouraged . . . We can only conclude they want morality but on a voluntary basis . . .

"The intergroup relations committees throughout . . . California must continue to demonstrate the real concern of the Church in race relations . . . Housing is one key to better understanding among races. Where one lives determines whom we see at church, in our schools . . . in our work."

The statement urged voluntary efforts to provide greater opportunity in housing for minorities, in order to improve understanding among races through acquaintances as neighbors.

Several members of Marin County anti-14 groups, asked "what next?" point again and again to the moral issue at hand, and predicted developments of community drives to encourage minority housing opportunities.

Ex-Convict To Address Luncheon

A former convict and narcotics addict turned evangelist, will speak at Wednesday's noon luncheon of the Christian Business Men's Committee of Marin at the Traveler's Restaurant, 706 Third Street, San Rafael.

Arnold J. Vander Meulen will tell how he became interested in religion at the famed Pacific Garden Mission in Chicago's Skid Row area, then surrendered himself to the Federal Bureau of Investigation on an old felony charges, and was sentenced to Southern Michigan Prison. Deciding to enter the ministry, Vander Meulen supervised a Bible school in the prison, with an eventual enrollment of more than 700 inmates.

The convict-preacher was paroled after serving two years in prison, and began his evangelistic career.

Vander Meulen will describe the program of the Pacific Garden Mission, which ministers to thousands of human derelicts each year, and which figured prominently in the lives of widely-known evangelists Billy Sunday and Mel Trotter.

Reservations for the luncheon should be made before Tuesday noon, with M. K. Taylor, 935 Lootens Place.

Minister Proves Very Versatile

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — The oldest and most modern methods are used by the Rev. Jerry L. Schmalenberger, 30, pastor of First Lutheran Church.

He pilots his own airplane on preaching engagements, keeps in touch with the church office via two-way car radio, and stages mock trials in courtrooms to dramatize the Ten Commandments.

And, for three summers, he has held services tailored for tourists, campers and weekenders at nearby Indian Lake, using a theater.

Christ preached from a boat, and Mr. Schmalenberger sometimes preaches from a rowboat while the congregation sits on shore.

Barbershop To Bach At Church Event

Barbershop to Bach will be the range of the program for tomorrow evening's "Expressions in Music" presented annually by the Wesleyan Service Guild of the Novato Community Methodist Church.

The vocal and instrumental concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the church. Funds from the benefit performance will be added to the church women's group's campaign to furnish a stained-glass window for the sanctuary.

A barbershop quartet that recently won sixth place at the Far Western Division Sing-Offs in Sacramento, will feature Frank Sutliffe. Arden Deines, Ralph Clymer and Maurice Carlson. Janice Tschache, nine-year-old piano student, will play classics; a Terra Linda High School string quartet will play. It consists of Laura and Linda Ritter, Julie Hastings and Paul Lewis.

Col. Leonard McCormack of Novato will play a piano solo.

Retirement Project For Interfaith Group

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP)—American Religious Town Hall Meeting Inc. of St. Paul, Minn. — a conference of Protestants, Roman Catholics, Jews and others promoting tolerance — is developing an interfaith senior citizens complex 30 miles southwest of here.

Seventh-Day Adventist Bishop Albert A. Leiske of St. Paul, conference moderator, says the complex should be ready later this year for 92 senior citizens of all races, colors and faiths, including atheists. It is believed to be the first of its type in the nation.

ROMAN CATHOLIC DIPLOMAT—The Rt. Rev. Alberto Giovanetti, 31, shown at the Vatican last September with Pope Paul VI, has been named the church's first permanent observer to the United Nations. Vatican Names First United Nations Aide

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Vatican's first permanent observer to the United Nations is a veteran diplomat who also describes himself as "an expert on the Holy See in World War II."

The Rt. Rev. Alberto Giovannetti, a cheerful Roman, arrived recently as the Roman Catholic Church's resident observer, following a personal audience with Pope Paul VI.

In an interview, the 51-year-old representative of the Vatican state made these points:

—It is not likely that the Vatican will take the final step toward becoming a member of the United Nations.

—The role of his mission is nonpolitical. He will spend most of his time working with the U. N. social and humanitarian interests in fields where the church traditionally has been active.

—The Vatican named a permanent observer at this time "because since the time of the late Pope John XXIII the church has become more internationally minded."

The Vatican mission is the sixth to represent a nonmember state at the United Nations on a permanent basis. The others are West Germany, South Vietnam, South Korea, Monaco and Switzerland.

Describing the Vatican's position, Msgr. Giovannetti said "we are like Switzerland, helping to further the activities of the United Nations but not as a member state because we do not want to become politically involved."

"In any event," he added, "as Pope Pius XII said, 'Catholics are the best suited to understand the universality of the United Nations.'"

Msgr. Giovannetti began his mission to the United Nations where he was the Vatican's representative to the U. N. trade and development conference.

Msgr. Giovannetti said he saw his primary duties as "reporting to the Vatican and following closely those activities of the United Nations concerned with discrimination, protection of minorities and especially the problems of the developing countries."

Msgr. Giovannetti, who speaks French, German and English as well as Italian, has written a number of books including: "The Vatican in the War," "Rome Open City" and "The Red Book of the Persecuted Church," the last concerned with postwar oppression of Catholicism.

Rabbi To Review Novel 'Herzog'

Congregation Kol Shofar members will observe Jewish Book Month by gathering Monday evening to hear Rabbi Saul E. White of San Francisco review the book "Herzog" by Saul Bellow.

Rabbi White is minister to Congregation Beth Sholom.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Jewish Community Center, Mission at Forbes Avenues, according to Walter Hotzner, vice president of the congregation.

Women's Fellowship Plans For Meeting

The next meeting of the Women's Fellowship of the Community Congregational Church of Belvedere-Tiburon will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 18, at the home of Mrs. George Coleman, 27 Acacia Avenue, Belvedere.

Members will work on sewing projects for the new church building and for mission needs. Dr. Benton Gaskell, minister, will continue his discussion of the history of the Congregational Church in America. Mrs. Tyler Seeley is in charge of the sewing.

New Minister To Be Installed

Ministers from Marin County and other Bay Area churches will participate tomorrow afternoon in ceremonies installing the Rev. Ralph J. Fortune as new minister of the First Baptist Church of San Anselmo.

The services will begin at 3 p.m. in the sanctuary of the church at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Sais Avenue. A reception for Dr. Fortune and his family will follow, in the church's social hall.

Dr. Fortune recently was called to the San Anselmo congregation from Huntington Park, Los Angeles County.

Morality's Improvement Begins In Self

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Have America's moral standards gone to pot?

Sweeping judgments on a nation's morals are always subject to two hazards. First, they are unfair to individuals who live by their own ethical codes, regardless of what others are doing. Second, people do not agree what constitutes immoral conduct.

To some, immorality primarily means sexual misbehavior. Others have a broader definition, which includes lying, cheating or theft. Still others believe the most immoral thing you can do is to hate, scorn or mistreat a fellow human being.

Whatever criterion you choose to apply, you can adduce evidence that immorality is currently widespread in American society.

Those who are primarily concerned about licentiousness can point to such things as the sharp increase in venereal disease rates among teen-agers; the steady rise in illegitimate births; the high divorce rate; and the testimony of pastors, high school principals and college deans about the casual attitude of many young people toward premarital sex relations.

To Prof. Harvey Cox, a distinguished moral theologian, the root of the problem is that young people today are growing up in a "sex-saturated society" in which they are "constantly bombarded through clothing styles, entertainment, advertising and courtship mores with perhaps the most skillfully contrived array of erotic stimulants ever amassed."

In other words, there's no point in wringing your hands over sexual immorality unless you're prepared to do something about the aphrodisiacal culture—the sexy books, dirty movies, titillating TV shows and leg-art advertising—which promotes it.

But that won't be easy to do, Professor Cox says. There is money to be made—big money—in the exploitation of sex. And billion-dollar industries can be remarkably insensitive to outcries about what they're doing to moral standards.

Those to whom "immoral" is a synonym for "dishonest" also can find plenty to brood about in contemporary American life. The well-attested prevalence of petty fraud in income tax returns, the well-nigh universal custom of filching office supplies for personal use at home, the large percentage of students who readily acknowledge (on anonymous questionnaires) that they cheat on examinations whenever possible: all point to a general laxity in observance of the commandments against lying and stealing.

Most disturbing, perhaps, is the evidence that many people no longer are horrified or outraged when they learn that a Billie Sol Estes has parlayed non-existent fertilizer tanks into a business empire, or that a Bobby Baker has amassed a "fortune" while serving in a modest-salary job as Senate secretary. There seem to be millions of Americans who simply take for granted that people will get away with all they can—and who respond to "scandals" with a collective shrug.

And what of those who feel that mistreating your fellow man is the ultimate immorality? They can hardly contemplate the American scene with optimism. They see evidence of continuing racial injustice and hatred—by no means confined to one section of the country. They also see a widespread callousness toward human suffering which manifests itself in many different ways — from senseless crimes of violence at one extreme to a polite indifference toward the plight of the poor at the other.

What can be done to raise moral standards? The question is an old one—as old as the Bible. The Bible's answer is that repentance, like charity, begins at home.

Jesus put it quite succinctly: "Why do you look at the speck of sawdust in your brother's eye, with never a thought for the great plank in your own? You hypocrite! First take the plank out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to take the speck out of your brother's."

Addition Is Going Up At St. Raphael's

Construction has started on addition of three offices to the rectory at St. Raphael's Church at 1100 Fifth Avenue.

The expansion will add 850 square feet to the building at an estimated cost of $25,000, and will provide additional combination office-sitting room spaces for the five priests in residence and the many parishioners who come to consult with them.

Architect for the project is Francis Constable of Sausalito; contractor is Custom Builders, San Rafael. Tentative completion date is December or January.

Mormons Ready Annual Two-Day Bazaar Event

The annual Mormon Bazaar will be held next Friday and Saturday by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Greenbrae.

The sale, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day, will be at 319 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, according to publicity chairman Helen Norman.

Items to be on sale will include homebaked cookies and other holiday goodies, handworked gift items such as aprons, quilts, handkerchiefs, Christmas decorations, and a "nearly new" table bearing assorted clothes and gifts.

Student Minister In Unitarian Training

Richard Harris, student at the Starr King School for the Ministry in Berkeley, is working part time for a year with Karel F. Botermans, minister of the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin, as part of his training.

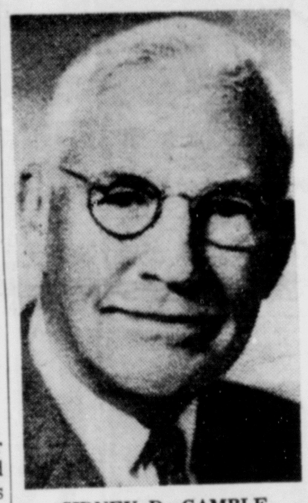

Harris formerly was assistant director of music in the First Unitarian Church of Portland.

Soap Fortune Heir Finds More Satisfaction In Helping Others

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A tall, white-haired man, born to wealth, today heads an enterprise dedicated to giving away money and goods—on a large scale — to impoverished people around the earth.

"We're up against an insuperable job," says Sidney D. Gamble, president of Church World Service and chairman of its board of managers. "We can only scratch the surface."

SIDNEY D. GAMBLE
Soap to succour.

But though the need seems always to exceed the effort, the interdenominational agency has become a far-reaching arm of American compassion. It and Catholic Relief Services form a huge church network of mercy in action.

Altogether they annually distribute about $200 million dollars worth of clothing, medicine, blankets and food, including government-provided surplus grain, to destitute people of many lands.

Besides the materials, doctors, builders, farm specialists and other technicians are sent to help the needy.

It is a versatile operation, involving such things as resettling masses of refugees, reconstructing villages wrecked by natural disasters, planting trees to stop erosion, and feeding and sheltering victims of earthquake, fire and flood.

"We have to keep flexible enough to be ready for the disasters which are sure to come," Gamble says. "There are always about a dozen of them a year, and three to five major ones somewhere in the world.

"We never quite know what new emergency tomorrow will bring."

For instance, within hours after Haiti was battered by a hurricane last month, the agency sent air shipments of drugs, blankets and survival biscuits from Miami, and had a freighter loading additional foodstuffs and supplies at a Houston center.

Many projects are of a more permanent kind. For example, on the Greek island of Symi, whose people were suffering from lack of water, the agency last month completed an unusual solar-powered plant to distill sea water and double their supply.

Gamble, 74, the roving overser of good works, was there for the plant's dedication. In a sense, he personifies the church program, in that it consists of a generally affluent American Christianity sharing its abundance with the world's poor.

He grew up in a prosperous business family, grandson of the founder of Procter and Gamble Co., Cincinnati, but home and church influences turned his interests from personal fortune to the world's unfortunate.

"It's a good life," he said.

"There's satisfaction in doing what we're able to do. But with nearly half the world's people lacking basic necessities, there is always more that needs doing."

Gamble customarily works behind the scenes, seldom gives interviews or public addresses, yet presides over the planning and fund-raising for an agency serving as relief arm of most of the nation's major Protestant and Orthodox churches.

World Council Pledges Aid To Racial Stands

BERLIN (UPI) — The executive committee of the World Council of Churches, in a resolution on racial tensions in the United States, pledged support to the National Council of Churches and its member churches who played an "important role" in passage of the Civil Rights bill.

Racial violence in the U.S. "should not make Christians waver in their commitment to the fight against discrimination and prejudice," the committee said, in Tutzing, West Germany. "On the contrary, such disorder should make them all the more aware of the urgency of social reconciliation and reconstruction and lead them to redouble their efforts."

Academy Official Attends Conclave

Dr. Sumner Walters, rector and headmaster of the San Rafael Military Academy, addressed the annual convocation of the Episcopal Diocese of Eastern Oregon, meeting Thursday and yesterday at Bend, Ore.

Earlier in the week, Dr. Walters visited former students of the Academy now attending the University of Oregon, Oregon State University and Willamette University. He also met with the directors of admissions for the three institutions.

THE BOOK PAGES

A Treat For Animal Lovers Written With Warmth, Skill

By DON KEOWN

There has been a surplus of books in recent years by people who have established rapport with animals, and who are anxious to describe their experiences.

Sometimes the results are cloyingly cute, sometimes just plain dull.

Era Zistel, however, is one of those who can write with unrestrained affection about her animal friends, and still emerge with dignity. Her "The Gentle People" demonstrates that ability.

It is a series of accounts of the relationships she and her late husband developed with both the domestic and wild animals that have lived with them at their Catskills home. Her subjects range from the usual cats and dogs to goats and such wild creatures as opposums, raccoons and flying squirrels. Mrs. Zistel speaks and thinks of the small animals that have become her charges as her children, but succeeds in doing so without becoming nauseating.

Perhaps this is because her affection is so obviously genuine and sensible. Her thoughtfulness of wild animals is clearly just one aspect of a thoroughly decent character. And it is plain that her concern for animals goes beyond bare love to real understanding of them.

True, too, she has been blessed with some subjects of surefire appeal.

"The Gentle People," then, is a book to be treasured by animal lovers, even the most knowledgeable of whom will find themselves picking up new facts about their four-footed friends. And those who do not especially admire wild creatures may well find themselves acquiring a new enthusiasm if they venture into its pages.

Mrs. Zistel writes with both warmth and skill. If the public is not already satiated with books of this kind, "The Gentle People" should enjoy a sizeable readership. Animal books of lesser merit have won best-seller recognition.

THE GENTLE PEOPLE by Era Zistel, Holt, Rinehart and Winston Inc., 143 pages, $3.95.

A NATION OF IMMIGRANTS by John F. Kennedy, revised edition, Harper & Row, 111 pages, softcover, 95 cents.

JOHN F. KENNEDY was a sincere humanitarian, a perceptive scholar, and a shrewd and effective politician.

Sometimes there was a conflict between humanitarian and politician, and the compromises that resulted did not always please JFK's liberal admirers.

But on the question of immigration, humanitarian Kennedy never wavered.

His book, "A Nation of Immigrants," reflects his dedication to the cause of immigration reform. It also shows the humanitarian, the politician and the scholar thinking and working in harmony.

Harper & Row has published in softcover format a revised and expanded version of the booklet upon which the late President was working at the time of the assassination.

It is an eloquent and persuasive appeal for a lowering of our barriers. It is an authoritative history of the immigrant movement that has meant so much to a growing America. And it is a presentation of specific recommendations for reform.

The Kennedy text is brief. To fill out the book, Harper & Row has included such worthwhile material as an introduction by Robert Kennedy detailing his brother's dedication to the cause of liberalized immigration, a map and chronology table of major immigrant movements, a text of the late President's proposals to Congress in July of 1963, a bibliography of selected reading on the subject and illustrations.

But it is the Kennedy message itself that is most impressive, for it represents JFK at his finest, pointing out an American problem and urging its solution.

HOBBYISTS will be looking forward to Nov. 19 when Crown will publish "The Complete Book of Model Raceways and Roadways" by Louis H. Hertz, who previously authored a book on model railroading.

THE RACING FORM suffices as reading material for most "horse players" who visit Bay Meadows or the other tracks to wager a few dollars on the ponies. But for more serious students of the sport, track authority William Robertson has written "The History of Thoroughbred Racing in America," to be published Nov. 30 by Prentice-Hall. It's a 640-page whopper that will sell for $19.95 until Christmas, $25 thereafter.

Sleuths & Suspense

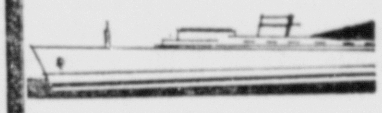

THE GUARDIANS by Steve Brackeen, Holt Rinehart and Winston, Inc., 192 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.

With an authentic background of political struggle for the reigns of state party leadership, "The Guardians" weaves in enough intrigue, murder and bloodshed to bring out a fast-paced and highly entertaining mystery.

Major Kinsaker, who knew John Guthrie as a boy and helped him get the governorship, wants to take it away from him. But he needs something to blacken Guthrie's character.

Jim Practice, ex-alcoholic, and Guthrie's aide, catches on to the plot. As he unravels the tangle of both the major's and the governor's lives he finds drunkenness, madness and an illegitimate child in the background. Practice almost loses his girl, too, what with his ex-wife lurking about. But that problem and all the others are ironed out smoothly in a well-written narrative.

The Stereo Scene With Sunier

By JOHN SUNIER
KBRG Program Manager

New releases on the Angel label:

ARIAS BY BEETHOVEN, MOZART AND WEBER—Maria Callas/Paris Conservatoire Orchestra/Nicola Rescigno—Angel Stereo S36200:

If records sold only by their covers (and too many do, unfortunately) this one would be a sell-out even to Callas-haters. The photo, courtesy of Vogue Magazine, shows a slim, slim Callas in sexy gown and is a knockout. Would that the Callas voice had lost its weighty vibrato along with the body! How anyone with any sort of musical awareness can listen to these cracked and sour renditions without extreme pain is beyond this reviewer. The Beethoven aria, "Ah, Perfido!" is the major piece in this collection, about a quarter-hour long, and the most excruciating of the six selections. How such recordings get released is a mystery to me.

ARIAS AND SONGS—Feodor Chaliapin—Angel Great Recordings of the Century COLH 141:

Now here is a voice! Listening to the dramatic, hypnotic bass voice of Chaliapin, one can understand the wild enthusiasm which American audiences of the 1920's had for him. Both his voice and his personality were "built on a scale larger than life," according to friends. He was a national figure in his Russian homeland and greatly revered. This hour-long collection spans a fantastic variety of music: operatic, art song, folk music. There are opera arias by Gounod, Rossini, Moussorgsky and Rachmaninoff; a gorgeous song by Glinka, "Doubt!" selections from Orthodox Liturgy by Gretchaninov, four touching songs by Ibert from the film "Don Quixote"; and folk melodies such as "Down the Petersky" and "Volga Boatman's Song."

The sound of these records, spanning 1926 to 1933, is not too bad. It has sufficient bass response to make one's hair stand on end at Chaliapin's fantastic fullness and firmness on the low, low notes.

What a shame he never recorded a complete "Boris Godounov"—but there is an LP in this same series of excerpts therefrom (COLH 100).

BERLIOZ: Symphonie Fantastique, Otto Klamperer conducting the Philharmonic Orchestra—Angel Stereo S36196:

Klemperer is certainly one of the world's greatest living conductors. That his usual slower tempii make Berlioz' exciting music somewhat less so for this listener should not prevent his fans from adding this excellent performance to their collections. The sound is especially rich and full in stereo.

CONSULT HUBBY

When Buying Gift For His Workshop

To the ladies: do you want your husband to give you a surprise gift for Christmas?

Or would you rather know ahead of time what you're getting so you can have a hand in its selection?

We'd be willing to hazard a guess that the younger women answer "yes" to the first question—and that the (pardon the expression) older women answer "yes" to the second.

BUT THAT'S only a guess.

This isn't: If you plan on getting something for your husband's workshop, don't make it a surprise. Tell him what you have in mind and, if he approves, let him make the actual choice himself.

This is especially true if you plan on purchasing an electric power tool for the workshop. There are so many different kinds for so many different purposes that you would be lucky indeed if you selected exactly the one he has been hoping to buy some day.

Few men can afford to outfit a home shop at one time. As a result, a shop just grows, like Topsy.

THE MAN first acquires the hand tools he needs, then moves into the power tool field, usually with one or more of the portable machines. From that point on, he begins to think about the larger, stationary tools—the jigsaw, table saw, bandsaw, lathe and the many others. And usually he has a favorite he wants first.

His inclination toward one machine over all others is based on the kind of work he expects to be doing most of the time. If it's scrollwork, he'll be thinking about a jigsaw. If it's cutting curves in heavier stock, he can't wait until he gets his hands on a bandsaw.

Will he be handling a lot of lumber and/or plywood? Then he's dreaming about a table saw or radial saw. And if woodturning has his attention, he probably already has his eye on a lathe.

ENTIRELY ASIDE from the type of electric tool he covets, dad may be partial to a certain make or variation of the machine. Or he may have decided that, when he can afford it, he'll get one of the combination power tools that he has been pricing secretly for months.

Now, it may be that Mom knows her husband's every wish—and can select exactly the machine he wants: the proper type, make and size. In that event, let her go to it. But if she has the slightest doubt about the matter, she'd better talk it over with him.

Effective immediately, we expect to be boycotted permanently by the School of Romanticism.

Free Plan For Yard Storage

To provide much-needed storage for all outdoor living furniture and accessories, Masonite Corp.'s home service bureau has prepared a free plan designed for anyone's back yard.

This storage unit is permanently attached to the house, garage or carport. Covered with Masonite Panelgroove, the structure has two doors leading to garden storage areas on walls lined with Peg-Board panels.

A cupboard accessible from the outside stores cooking utensils and provides room for a fold-up table which drops down to become an efficient work surface. On the inside of the storage unit is a work table for the gardener. Privacy for the outdoor living center is afforded by a modern fence detailed in the plan.

Full details on the construction of the storage unit and fence are available in this plan, AE-324. For a free copy, send a post card to the Home Service Bureau, 29 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606.

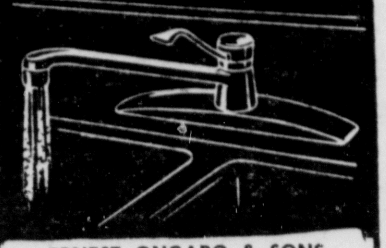

Life-size Santa Claus

EARLY NOVEMBER is not too early to start thinking about your Christmas decorations, especially if you plan to make your own. A jolly Santa always lends a happy note to the holiday decor. For an Easi-Bild pattern for this life-size Santa standing six feet tall, send $1 to Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., and ask for Life-Size Santa Pattern No. 575. The figure can be cut from plywood, hardboard or other weatherproof panelboard. Coloring instructions are included. And a small platform on Santa's back permits the stacking of dummy Christmas packages. There are even directions on how to wire and light Santa's lamp, creating a most unusual effect.

BIG WHEEL AT SCHOOL

Frederick Limpert, 12, of 35 Maple Avenue, Kentfield, claims this is easy. He has been navigating his unicycle for two months after learning the balancing act by holding onto a bulkhead near the home. He rides the 'cycle to Kentfield School, where he is in seventh grade, with his books in a knapsack on his back. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Limpert, approve. Mrs. Limpert says the unicycle is much easier to navigate than a regular bike and if you fall, you usually plunge forward or backward, landing on your feet. (Independent-Journal photo)

RUNNING BOARD PASSENGER

Daddy Drives Away —Cathy Clings Along

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"Daddy" murmured 3-year-old Cathy Hardy, "you drive too fast."

And from where Cathy stood, indeed daddy did.

Daddy — Jack Hardy, 32, of suburban South San Gabriel—told sheriff's deputies he said goodbye to Cathy yesterday in their driveway and then drove off in his pickup truck to some auto races in nearby Gardena.

Some 15 miles later—after he'd sped over the busy San Bernardino and Long Beach freeways —Hardy heard a small cry as he slowed down at a freeway off-ramp.

He looked out—and there was Cathy on the running board, grimly holding on for dear life.

Deputies said the little girl was none the worse for her wild ride and cheerfully offered some back-seat driving as her father plucked her from her narrow perch.

BRAVES MUST STAY PUT FOR A YEAR

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The National League ordered the Braves today to play their games in Milwaukee next season but unanimously voted the club permission to move to Atlanta in 1966.

The league, in its meeting here, directed the Braves to fulfill its lease with Milwaukee County which runs through next year, then adopted a resolution saying that it was in the best interests of the league for the team to move to Atlanta the following season.

Mysterious Explosions Hit Saigon

SAIGON (UPI) — A series of explosions rocked Saigon today, rattling windows in the U.S. Embassy. Forty-five miles to the north, the South Vietnamese air force carried out a massive bombing attack against the heart of the Communists' infamous "zone."

Cause of the explosions on the Saigon outskirts was not known. Military sources said the thunderous blasts could have come either from fighter - bomber strikes just outside the city or Vietnamese army demolition teams destroying old ammunition.

Air Activity around the capital reached unprecedented heights as Vietnamese planes hit the Communist zone in revenge for the Reds' spectacular Nov. 1 mortar raid on U.S. nuclear bombers. Other aircraft searched for a missing American observation plane.

Against this noisy background authoritative sources said U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor would return to Washington for post election talks and discuss plans for bombing military targets in Communist North Vietnam and neutral Laos.

Communists in the north have been operating from a "privileged sanctuary" to infiltrate into South Vietnam. They also have used the Ho Chi Minh Trail which runs through Laos parallel with the South Vietnam border to bring men and supplies into the south.

Smoke Bomb Livens Party

A red smoke bomb livened up the party for 300 Terra Linda High School girls who were holding a slumber party in the school gym early today.

But San Rafael police suspected the bomb was set off by one of the girls, rather than any outsider.

Police said the device, which went off at 1:15 a.m. inside a rear door, damaged nothing but the paint on the door.

They said it appeared the bomb must have been detonated from inside the building, but none of the girls had anything to say on the subject.

American Health Better Than Before

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report by the Public Health Service says that on the whole Americans were healthier during the year ending in June 1964 than during the previous 12 months.

The service's National Center for Health Statistics reported Friday a lower rate of colds and flu.

Russ Defense Chief Claims U.S. Threats

Anger Shows As Malinovsky Rips McNamara

COMBINED AP & UPI

MOSCOW — Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky today accused U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara of threatening to destroy the Soviet Union. He warned: "Don't touch us."

The red-faced marshal, apparently flushed with anger, made his remark at a Kremlin reception following the annual Red Square parade in honor of the Bolshevik Revolution. The Soviet Union unveiled the biggest missile it has yet shown in public, along with a series of other missiles, in the military review before the Kremlin walls.

"We don't do as the U.S. defense secretary who threatens at any moment to destroy the Soviet Union," Malinovsky said.

NO PUSHING

". . . Those who threaten to destroy other nations are not serious people . . . nobody must imagine that he can have an easy victory in fighting us . . . the Soviet army can't be pushed around."

Visiting Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai grinned and drank to Malinovsky's words.

But Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin strode over to U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler and, diplomatic sources said, apparently tried to soften the effects of Malinovsky's remarks.

FIVE TYPES

The Soviet military trundled five new types of rockets out of its secret armories—one of them the biggest ever shown publicly in the Soviet Union.

A television commentator called the huge weapon a "younger sister" of the rocket power plant that hurled the first three-man space ship into orbit last month.

But the appearance of the world's Communist leaders together atop Lenin's Red Square tomb failed to dispel the shadow cast by the ideological dispute with Peking.

Presiding over the festivities marking the Bolshevik Revolution was the Kremlin's new Communist party chief, Leonid Brezhnez, surrounded by top figures in Russia's new "collective leadership."

Standing with Brezhnev were Premier Alexei Kosygin, President Anasas Mikoyan and other

Girls Revive 50-Mile Hike

The 50-mile hike got a mild revival this morning as a group of Redwood High School girls left before dawn headed for Point Reyes Station.

An anonymous caller told the Independent - Journal that a group of ten left the High School before light. But by about 9:45 a.m., the group seemed to have dwindled. Only two hikers were seen passing through Forest Knolls at that time.

The girls were taking the same route as many groups of teen-agers who made the jaunt two years ago. The fifty-mile hikes were the suggestion of the late President John F. Kennedy, and the idea spread across the nation.

78-Year-Old Widow Is Found Slashed

Special to the I-J

BLACKSTONE, Va.—A 20-year-old San Anselmo soldier was held here today, charged with the brutal, knife slaying of a 78-year-old widow.

Pfc. Hugh Leroy Erwin Jr., whose parents live at 238 Sanders Avenue, was found outside the woman's home Thursday evening. One of his hands bore a bloodstain, according to Blackstone Police Chief L. Bruce Farley Jr.

Inside, in the bedroom of the home, officers found the slashed body of Mrs. Edward H. (Lila) Ward. She had been stabbed repeatedly about the neck and chest. A steak knife with a five-inch blade was found stuck in her throat.

Police described it as the most brutal killing they had seen.

Police and Nottoway County authorities were still trying to determine a motive for the killing today. Erwin was held without bail. No hearing date on the murder charge against him had yet been set.

AT CAMP PICKETT

Blackstone is about 70 miles southwest of Richmond. According to information from the Richmond News Leader, Erwin was stationed at nearby Camp Pickett where he was undergoing training with the 11th Armored Cavalry Division from Fort Meade, Md. The division is due to return to Fort Meade within a few days.

Erwin had reportedly gone to Mrs. Ward's home at 8 p.m. Thursday to call on Rev. Ralph Johnson, associate minister of the Crenshaw Methodist Church. He rents an apartment from Mrs. Ward.

Erwin had visited him there on several previous occasions.

GETS CALL

On this particular visit, Johnson was at church. The minister told police that he received a telephone call at 9:15 p.m. while at church from Erwin. The soldier asked Johnson to come home as something had happened to Mrs. Ward.

Johnson and a member of the church went to the home and found Erwin standing outside. There was blood on one of his hands, Johnson said. He and the church member took Erwin directly to the police station without going into the home.

Police then went back to the home and found the body. Dr. Eps Harris, Nottoway County medical officer, said Mrs. Ward died at about 9 p.m.

Erwin has been in the Army about two years.

His mother would give no information to the Independent-Journal about the boy today.

Services for Mrs. Ward were held in Blackstone today. She is survived by a son, Edward H. Ward Jr. of Ozark, Ala.

Novato School Vote Must Be Held In April

Three newly elected trustees of the new Novato Unified School District will have terms ending next June 30, County Council Douglas J. Maloney reported yesterday.

Under the circumstances there will have to be another trustee election in April for the three seats.

Maloney checked the law with the state attorney general's office yesterday, and learned there was no alternative to the short term requirement.

Trustees elected to the short terms are Gordon M. Leathers, Marett B. Boissevain and William H. Kirk.

Kuchel Argues For Shipyards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) met with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other Pentagon officials today to discuss the future of the Navy's shipyards in California.

Kuchel said he emphasized the importance of the Navy yards at San Francisco, Mare Island and Long Beach, all of which, the senator said, have "excellent efficiency ratings."

The big yards at San Francisco and Mare Island would be vitally important in event of an emergency, Kuchel told McNamara in urging that no action be taken to close down or reduce drastically the work programs at these yards.

TOO MUCH LITTER

Close Campus, Residents Urge

Thirty-two residents of the Homestead Boulevard area in Almonte have asked the county board of supervisors for a closed campus at Tamalpais High School.

They cite throwing of litter causing a health hazard and "noticeable rat infestation," careless smoking, sitting and lying on public and private roadways stopping traffic and "disruption to the peace and quiet of the community."

Petitioners request that students be restricted to the campus during the course of school business and that when Homestead Boulevard is used by students it be used as a means of access or egress.

The petition, signed by Nickolas Hainovsky of 21 Homestead Boulevard and 31 others, is to be on the supervisors agenda Tuesday afternoon.

A meeting has been set by school administrators with petitioners at 8 p.m. Monday in the teacher's lunch room to discuss the subject, according to Principal Robert H. Prather.

Student congress yesterday discussed the problem and came up with some recommendations among them that a "brunch flag" be flown if the grounds adjacent to school were messy the day before. This flag would mean the mid-morning brunch time would be eliminated and the time used for class work.

Should the brunch flag not be flown, that is, no litter, then students might be let out of school five or 10 minutes earlier that week on Friday, reported Pete de Fremery, a Tam news reporter.

Closed campus was proposed last February following misbehavior by some students and complaints being made by Homestead Boulevard residents that students were playing in the street and their yards. A student behavior code was drafted calling for stricter punishments and the campus was not closed.

"Conditions on Homestead Boulevard . . . have become intolerable," the petition said. The residents said that owners of apartment houses in the vicinity are losing tenants because of the public nuisance and threat to personal safety.

Shakespeare Drama Bias Is Charged

Tamalpais High School has been requested to withdraw Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" as a sophomore class English text on grounds it is anti-Semitic.

Request has been made by Harold Heller of 186 Elm Avenue, Mill Valley, who has two youngsters in the sophomore class.

Heller, a Jew, objects to Shylock, the Jewish merchant in the play who demands a pound of flesh.

Heller's request has been forwarded to the Tamalpais Union High School District office. Robert H. Prather, school principal, said yesterday a committee of five has been appointed to review allegations and draft a refutation, he said.

The committee consists of three English teachers, Harry L. Belgrade, Sir Francis Drake High School; Maurine Ballard, Redwood High School and Mrs. Lois Wadsworth, Tamalpais; and Albert L. Lavin, district English supervisor who teaches English one half time at Drake, and James L. Pierce, district coordinator of curriculum.

Prather explained that the school's policy is to advise teachers that if anyone complains about a textbook as being offensive in language or being against his religious belief, that the student be given another text to read.

District Supt. Chester G. Carlisle will decide what is the next action to be taken after the committee makes its report and, if deemed necessary, will take the matter up with the board of trustees.

Mink, Video Thieves Sought

San Rafael police today hunted two men believed to have taken a TV set, a portable stereo player and a $750 mink jacket from a woman's apartment at 4 p.m. yesterday.

The items, valued at a total of $1,098, were stolen from the apartment of Marina M. Giarnello of 845 Las Gallinas Avenue, Apt. 18.

Her landlady, Mrs. Sissel I. Johansen, told police she saw two dark-haired men leave with the items, but was too far from them to get precise descriptions.

Storm May Bring Some Light Rain

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Light rain is likely over much of California into early Sunday, the Weather Bureau reported today.

A storm was charted 400 miles off Santa Maria. The forecaster said it is likely to cause showers in the Santa Barbara — Santa Maria area this afternoon, spreading over much of the state tonight and early tomorrow.

Fighting Results In Two Bookings

Two San Rafael men were booked for drunkenness and disturbance after police allegedly found them fighting in front of the Mission Inn, 720 B Street, San Rafael, at 1:20 a.m. today.

Booked by San Rafael police were John Thomas Thomas, 33, of 14 Center Court and Henry Waple Touchstone, 31, of 720 B Street, Apt. 3.

ROCKETS IN MOSCOW'S RED SQUARE

Rockets on carriers roll through Moscow's Red Square today during a parade marking the Bolshevik Revolution's 47th anniversary. The Soviet military brought out five new types of rockets from secret armories, one of them the biggest ever shown publicly in the Soviet Union. It was termed a "younger sister" of the rocket power plant that sent the three-man space ship into orbit last month. Photo from the Soviet agency Tass. (AP Wirephoto via cable from Moscow)

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Pay-TV Firm Suspends Operation

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The largest-ever pay television program rejected by California voters, has suspended operations while seeking to have a ballot initiative declared unconstitutional.

The Coaxial Cable Pay-TV System had acquired some 6,000 subscribers in the west Los Angeles and San Francisco areas since it began operations last summer.

Sylvester L. Weaver, president of Subscription Television Inc., told a stockholders meeting yesterday that operations would be suspended "soon" and "temporarily" pending outcome of litigation.

U. S. Shy Of New Bolivia Regime

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Bolivia's new president says he intends to keep close to the United States, but his three-day-old military regime still awaits recognition from the U.S. government.

"We must keep particularly close relations with the United States," President Rene Barrientos said in an interview. "We hope to obtain recognition soon."

The United States, which has pumped 300 million dollars into poverty-stricken Bolivia in the past 12 years, reportedly has some misgivings over the political upheaval that toppled strongman President Victor Paz Estenssoro. U.S. officials are said to be studying the revolt in which 50 persons were reported killed and 200 wounded.

Trial Due

TUEBINGEN, Germany (UPI)—Three former Nazi guards will go on trial here Monday on charges of complicity in the murder of prisoners at the Stutthof concentration camp near Danzig, Poland, in 1943.

Two Whites Charged With Negro Slayings

MEADVILLE, Miss. (AP)—Two white men have been charged with murdering two Negroes whose mutilated torsos were found in the Mississippi River.

Officers identified the prisoners as James Ford Seale, 29, whose brother was recently arrested in connection with the shooting of a Negro near Natchez, and Charles Marcus Edwards, 31, a Ku Klux Klansman.

The victims were Charles Eddie Moore and Henry Hezekiah Dee, 19-year-old Meadville Negroes.

Discovery of the bodies came during a search for three civil rights workers who were missing in Neshoba County after being arrested in Philadelphia on a speeding charge. Bodies of the other three were found later, buried near Philadelphia.

The FBI announced the arrest of Seale and Edwards by FBI agents and local officers yesterday. Officers indicated Moore and Dee were beaten to death. No motive for the slayings was made public.

One Missing After Ships Hit Off Gate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Coast Guard said today that one man apparently was lost at sea and another injured when a small boat, the Hoti, and the Danish motor vessel Marit Maersk collided last night.

The survivor, Vincent J. Portell of Oakland was taken off the Danish Vessel when it sailed into San Francisco. Portell was injured in the mishap and was taken to the State Public Health Hospital.

A Coast Guard spokesman said there was little hope that James Powers, also of Oakland, who owned the boat, would be found.

The small boat apparently was on a 25-mile cruise from Bodega Bay to San Francisco.

Barry Would Keep Burch In GOP Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, returning to the capital for the first time since his presidential bid was shattered, has urged retention of Dean Burch as Republican national chairman, despite cries from GOP moderates for Burch's scalp.

"My recommendation would be to keep him because for the first time in memory we finished the campaign in the black," Goldwater told an airport news conference yesterday on his arrival from Phoenix.

He added that Burch, whom he had selected for the job as chairman, had done a "very, very commendable job." Goldwater urged a thorough analysis of the election returns and said the GOP would be wrong "going off half-cocked before that is done."

Burch said he would call a meeting of the GOP National Committee after the first of the year to discuss "all questions of interest to the party, including that of my chairmanship.

Asked what would be the effect if the National Committee refused to give him a vote of confidence, Burch said "it would be rather hobbling."

Praise for Goldwater came from former GOP Rep. John Russelot of California, who said the Arizona senator "has been willing to fight for a strong, conservative position and is to be congratulated for articulating it so well." Rousselot is director of public relations for the John Birch Society.

In Los Angeles, Former California Gov. Goodwin J. Knight said Goldwater should relinquish his leadership of the Republican party.

Parties To Honor Bride-Elect Susan Smith

By MOLLY MARIN

A host of parties are planned for Susan Lenore Smith, daughter of the Leon C. Smiths of Tiburon, and James MacQuire who will be married on Nov. 27. The engaged couple will be honored at cocktails next Saturday by the Raymond Hornbys Jr. at their home in Kentfield. The following day, they will be entertained in the Morrison Road home in Ross of the Curtiss Haydens Jr. In San Francisco, the Horace Guittards and Carl Livingstons will honor Susan and James at cocktails on Nov. 19.

HOME AGAIN after spending over a month in Europe, are the G. R. Schiffmans of Tiburon. Mrs. Schiffman is a writer and writes under the name of Elizabeth St. Davids.

The Schiffmans flew to Paris where they spent three days. There they visited Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Rinck, the brother and sister-in-law of Daniel Rinck of Mill Valley. The Rinck family are famous for designing furniture, reproducing antiques and for refinishing antiques in France, and Mr. Rinck of Mill Valley is in the same business. While in Paris, the Schiffmans attended the Antique Fair at the Grand Palais as guests of the Rincks.

From Paris they traveled to the French Riviera, to a home of a friend, Madame Battistine Pallance, in Menton, which is on the French-Italian border of the Riviera. Many dinner parties were given for the Schiffmans as Mrs. Schiffman, a former resident of Menton, has many friends there.

From the Riviera, they traveled back to Paris and on to London, England, where they stayed with Tony Patterson in Kensington, a first cousin of Mrs. Frederick Manley of Tiburon. They also visited Mrs. Schiffman's parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Woolf in Sussex.

MR. AND MRS. WESLEY Webster of Lyford's Cove and their daughter, Weslynne, will entertain guests at a cocktail dinner party tonight in honor of Walter Wohler, who has just arrived from Tahiti. Attending the dinner will be Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Hugon of San Bruno and their son Ronnie, Mr. and Mrs. Mate' Keans of San Francisco; Mrs. Earl Jones of San Francisco, owner of the Bel Aire Hotel in Tahiti, and Mr. and Mrs. George Berticevich of Tiburon, and their son, George.

MRS. CHARLES WETTSTEIN

Marinite Is New District Deputy

Mrs. Charles J. Wettstein of San Rafael has received an appointment as district deputy to Court Santa Rosa, Santa Rosa; Court Our Lady of Charity, Napa; and Court Salesian, San Francisco. The two-year appointment was made by Mrs. Paul Haberstroh, state regent, California State Court, Catholic Daughters of America.

Mrs. Wettstein, who is a trustee of Court St. Raphael 1406, Catholic Daughters of America, has also served as grand regent of Court St. Mary, Daly City and as Francisco Archdiocesan chairman of Women for Decency.

Marin Women

Joanne Murray Is Married

Joanne Murray and Raymond Giacomino exchanged nuptial vows this morning at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley in an 11 o'clock ceremony performed by the Rev. Francis Scanlon.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lloyd Creemer of Mill Valley, was given in marriage by her father in the double ring rites. She wore a full length gown of white silk organza with bell skirt and French Chantilly lace trim.

Her maid of honor, Jacqueline Cline of Mill Valley was attired in a full length gown of deep pink crepe in empire style.

Best man for the bridgeroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Giacomino of Mill Valley, was William Kott of Mill Valley. Ushers were Rodney Young and Lonnie Smith, both of Mill Valley.

Following a reception in the home of the bride's parents the young couple left immediately for Camp Pendleton, where the bridegroom is stationed with the U. S. Marine Corps. They will live in San Clemente.

Joanne has one sister, Lynne Murray of Mill Valley, and Raymond has one brother, Kenneth Giacomino of Mill Valley.

Council To Preview Movie

A preview will be shown at the Friday meeting of the Marin Motion Picture and Television Council starting at 9:45 a.m. at the Tamalpais Theater.

A business meeting will follow in Huxley Hall at the Methodist Church in San Rafael. Members are asked to bring a sandwich to the meeting.

Mrs. Hazel Nelson, Fairfax Theater manager, and Ed Gates, Tamalpais Theater manager, will present information compiled from Marin County theaters concerning widespread vandalism occurring at the theaters.

SEW SIMPLE

New Buttonholes Are Great— But Interfacing Pulls Tight

By EUNICE FARMER

First, let me tell you that my buttonholes (the Farmer method) are the very greatest, they are not only easy to make, but wow! What an improvement over the ones I made the way I learned to do it in high school. One problem, they seem to pull the interfacing too tight. What am I doing wrong?

Mrs. V. H.

Dear Mrs. V. H.:

Thanks for the compliment, I'm always delighted to hear from you readers when you have tried one of my methods and like it. I have an idea that you didn't read instructions carefully enough. You never make your buttonholes through the interfacing, it's too heavy and will certainly pull the garment front too tight.

Fold the interfacing out of the way, baste a strip of organdy on the wrong side of the fabric and make your buttonholes. After they are completed, carefully cut away the organdy from around the buttonhole. Baste the interfacing in place again.

Carefully cut an oblong the size of your buttonhole through the interfacing, bring the welts through the interfacing and catch-stitch in place.

For complete, detailed Buttonhole instructions, send your request to Sew Simple, in care of this paper. Be sure to enclose a long, self-addressed envelope for this free leaflet.

SHORTEN PANTS

Here are my simple directions for shortening pre-cuffed pants:

1. Turn cuff down and with pinking shears cut off just ABOVE the line of machine stitching. Set cuff aside for later use.
2. Measure desired "in-seam" length and cut off remaining material, again with pinking shears.
3. Insert cuff inside leg and re-sew to pants, matching seam on seam, crease on crease.
4. Turn cuff up and tack at each seam to hold in place.

Mrs. Claude D. Wetwall Sr., of Lake Mills, Wisc., wins this week's Tailor Trix pressing board for this suggestion.

Perk up last year's suit by adding a velveteen overblouse and then slip stitch velveteen over the back part of the suit collar.

Another new idea: If you have a Chanel suit (no collar) that buttons down the front, cut off part of the front edge so that the two fronts just meet instead of lapping. Add a heavy braid as a binding for the cut edge. Make a jersey or double-knit overblouse the same color and you'll have the "newest look." This is one of the fun things of sewing, to be able to add new touches to your old clothes, it costs very little money and just a little time, but think of the way you'll feel with your "pepped up suit."

Much as I try, I simply can't get the shape pressed right on any suit that has the curved seam in the front over the bustline. It seems to pull and not lay flat.

Mrs. R. G.

Dear Mrs. R. G.:

This is a rather common problem which I've noticed among my students, so glad you brought it up so that I can explain the construction to you. These curved seams actually are the drafting result of two darts. For this reason, you must press them carefully to avoid removing or shrinking out all the shape that you will need.

Note carefully the shape of the two sections of your garment front before you stitch them together. The front section has an inner curve—the side section has an outer curve. Pin the two sections together, carefully easing in the large curved section, then machine stitch. Before pressing, you must clip the seam allowance almost to the stitching line on the front section (inner curve). Notch some of the excess fabric from the outer curve of the side section.

When you press this seam, keep the bust section on the end of your padded pressing board, rotate around the bust area as you press and you will not shrink out the shape that you will need for this type of construction.

There's still time to send for your copy of "Christmas Quickies to Make." Send a self-addressed, stamped long envelope and 25 cents to Sew Simple in care of the Independent-Journal for your copy. There are ideas for every member of your family.

Corinthian Club Follies Tonight

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

The Editor's Notebook

Curiouser And Curiouser Are Marin Voter Habits

BEFORE THE 1964 general elections go finally into the history books, there are some curious aspects worth noting.

Voter registrations in Marin are almost equally split between Democrats and Republicans, the latter having a nominal plurality of 700 or so over the former.

Tuesday's vote result was hailed as a Democratic landslide and so it was in Marin as far as President Johnson's campaign went. He polled nearly 17,000 more votes in Marin than did Senator Goldwater.

But there were contests for five partisan offices on the ballot here and the Republicans won four, the smallest margin being Senator-Elect Murphy's 6,000-plus plurality over interim-Senator Salinger. Since Senator Salinger made many more campaign visits and appearances and had more people making organized efforts in his behalf here, than did Murphy, the result was all-the-more surprising.

Republican Congressman Clausen's 16,000 vote margin over challenger McCabe in Marin was surprising in its degree. That is, Clausen was expected to win, but by a considerably smaller margin.

The victories of State Senator McCarthy and Assemblyman Bagley over their respective Democratic opponents were "par for the course."

What all this adds up to is the high incidence of "split-ticket" voting, which means the voters are increasingly independent in thought and action—a healthy development.

Governor Brown made a statement lamenting the lack of party-ticket voting in California and indicated he thought it was unhealthy. But he didn't explain how the growth in the number of independent voters "who think for themselves" is supposed to be unhealthy.

NOT LONG AGO "THE Editor's Notebook" went to some lengths to point out that all-too-many people base their ballot decisions on personalities instead of issues.

One aspect of Tuesday's elections tended to disprove that contention.

The highest vote attracted by anything or anybody on the ballot was County Measure "B" to set up a county transit district. It drew more than 52,000 YES votes, without absentee votes, still being counted as this was written.

The next three highest votes went (in order) to Prop. 6 YES, Prop. 16 NO, and Prop. 1 YES—all more than 50,000 each.

(And to measure how well informed you were on these measures, just try to recall from memory the subject of each of the propositions just mentioned.)

PERHAPS THE BIGGEST local surprise was the 40,000-vote total rolled up by Dr. Gwen Campion in winning election to the Marin Hospital District board.

You can bet that the politicos will not overlook this vote-getting ability, and she will be urged (if she has not already been) to consider running for some higher office here in Marin.

The hospital district is NOT countywide, so all voters of Marin were NOT eligible to vote in that contest; yet Dr. Campion polled more votes than the three victorious supervisor candidates combined.

Just under 90 per cent of Marin registered voters actually cast votes — fewer than in some past elections. This is difficult to understand and impossible to forgive.

NOT THE LEAST curious aspect of the results is that nearly 2,000 of the 75,000 Marinites who cast ballots did NOT choose to vote for anybody for president.

Incidentally, Eric Hass, socialist-labor candidate for president received 9 votes in Marin. Kirby James Hensley received one vote out of the 75,000 cast in this county. That put him 100 per cent ahead of the Prohibition Party candidate, E. Harold Johnson Sr., who received no votes at all in Marin.

THE PASSAGE OF Proposition 14 must be viewed as a strong vote to preserve the right of the individual "to sell his property to whomever he wants."

Trouble is, it voids the right of a member of a group being discriminated against to acquire property.

The white majority was intent on protecting its rights, but in the process ignored the rights of others. It seems to be human nature to look after oneself first, even at the expense of the other fellow.

But none of us can really be very proud to live in a place where the right to discriminate against a fellow-American, because his skin is a different color, is now legally licensed. And the state legislature is now prohibited by the constitutional amendment from doing anything about it.

DRUGS CAUSE INCREASING PROBLEMS

Pep pills, sleeping potions and mood drugs are being misused on such a widespread scale that they have become "a public health problem of major proportions," according to a survey made by the New York Academy of Medicine.

The report pointed out that 500 million dollars is spent annually on such drugs, and that the consequences of misusing them "are many, including death; temporary or permanent damage to the brain, or nervous system; poisoning and addiction."

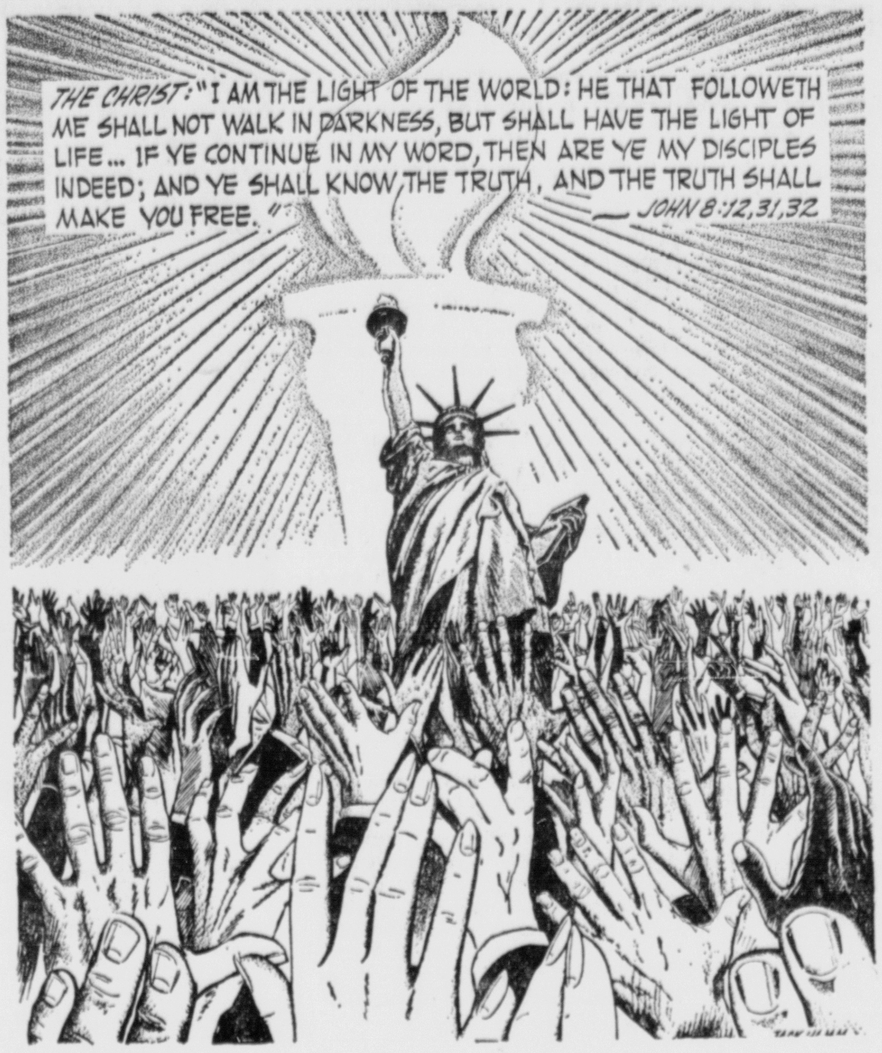

The academy urged new laws and stricter enforcement of current statutes to combat illicit drug traffic. It also called for keeping potentially harmful drugs from thrill-seeking youngsters and mentally ill adults.

While legal restrictions are essential, they can only do part of the job. Effective steps should also be taken to assist those attracted to drugs to build up within themselves a greater sense of self-mastery based on reverence for self as a child of God.

"If anyone wishes to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me." (Matthew 16:24)

Teach me, O Jesus, to master myself rather than depend on others to impose restraints on me.

Actor's Workshop Notes Fate Of 14

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This letter is to extend to you directly our appreciation for your excellent and encouraging comments on our production of "The Wall," with the tie-up to the fight on Proposition 14, in the Oct. 24 issue of the Independent-Journal. I received a clipping of the editorial today (Nov. 4).

We have been feeling the effect of those "mixed" reviews, of course; and on this day after the approval of Proposition 14, the parallel situation is ironic and certainly regrettable.

Thank you for your interest and concern.

Thoughts After Johnson's Win

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Your editorial of Nov. 4 was interesting . . . I would like to comment on a couple of points made therein.

. . . This is an almost identical editorial which I'll bet occurred in almost every newspaper throughout the land. It does express a most sporting thought—that the election is over and we should all let bygones be as such and hooray for winner. Such a plea overlooks the fact that the huge majority of news media and the commentators employed by them performed a most effective hatchet job on a decent, honorable and kindly man — Senator Goldwater. However . . . we shall stand behind the president and vice-president . . . for the next four years . . . until some unseemly action takes place which I cannot stomach, then, brother, scream I shall, and, loudly!

The victory of Lyndon Johnson, I prefer to believe, was effected by a coalition of moderate Republicans and right-wing Democrats . . . Which brings us to that term—moderate Republican. Anyone who claims to be a moderate Republican is actually throwing his donations to the wrong party; he, or she, is actually a Democrat. A Republican is a Republican, period. The rules . . . were amply defined by Senator Goldwater. As for the Civil Rights Bill . . . It merely opened old wounds just starting to heal after one hundred years and held up the south to abuse and ridicule; we in the north couldn't have cared less about it. About the anti-poverty bill it is incumbent on the government, it seems, to impoverish the rest of us to make solvent a small fraction of one per cent of our people.

I could go on, but this letter is too long now. However . . . watch our appeasement of Russia in the United Nations after January 1. My guess, Russia shall not lose her vote and will not, I repeat, will not pay the millions she is in arrears now.

Dangerous Path For School Pupils

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In reference to the enlightening article in your newspaper of Oct. 30, concerning access to Gallinas Elementary School in the Santa Venetia area, the parents of our 263 pupils wish to thank you. Your genuine interest in our problems has given us renewed hope that soon something will be done to correct the very unfair way we have been overlooked in the planning and development of this area.

For your further information, Mr. Charles L. Condrotte, Business Manager for the San Rafael School District has written to Mr. Frost, County Road Commissioner requesting a pedestrian crosswalk to be painted at Meadow and Adrian Way, where a school path exits on to another dangerous, blind curve area.

Thank you again and may we wish you continued success in your most informative, up-to-date newspaper.

Post-Election Acts A Matter Of Choice

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The Independent-Journal has been eminently fair in its treatment of the many controversial issues which the recent election has sought to solve. Would it not now be apropos for you to suggest that electors who feel disappointed in the outcome in whole, or in part, still possess a fundamental American privilege,—viz., the power to make a choice?

We can support the winning candidate, abide by the results of propositions which have been passed and thus make democratic government operate successfully, or we can refuse, thereby bringing the edifice of American government to ineffectiveness or ruin.

Even the passage of Proposition No. 14 leaves us a choice, for within the context of its provisions the California citizen reserves the right to treat any prospective buyer of his property as a respectable human being and American citizen exactly as he himself would expect. One recalls that somebody during the recent heated campaign, who refused to vote in the Senate for the Civil Rights Bill, insisted that it was a matter of the heart, not a subject curable by law. Accordingly is it not clear that Proposition No. 14 cannot force anyone to act either un-American or un-Christian? It is a matter of choice.

A New Johnson Must Develop For Role In Foreign Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new President Lyndon B. Johnson—new to himself and everyone else, here and abroad—will have to develop now that he has been elected to the White House on his own for a full four years.

This is in handling foreign affairs, a field where his experience has been very limited until now. It's a reasonable guess he will try to perform here as he did on the American political scene so long.

IT CAN BE simply stated: Try to get all you want but compromise if necessary to make some progress.

As vice president, he was never more than a shadow, a good-will ambassador, of President John F. Kennedy, who ran foreign affairs with a strong hand of his own.

After he became president, and until now, Johnson made no overseas trips. For one thing, there was no vice president if anything happened to him.

FOR ANOTHER, he apparently felt he had a full-time job establishing himself at home and trying to get his programs through Congress. He did so well it was his success here that laid the base for his presidential campaign.

As president he had foreign problems to deal with, but from within the White House, and never as a first-hand participant in solving them on the scene, as might be done through conferences.

He'll still have to worry about his programs in Congress, but the Democrats are even stronger there as a result of the elections. There will now be a vice president, just in case, and the foreign field can't be pushed aside longer.

ONE OF THE first moves, probably, will be visiting foreign leaders, perhaps taking part in some kind of conference on the NATO alliance which is getting shakier, and perhaps summit talks with the Russians.

This will be the first time in this generation, at least, that the foreign leaders ever met any president like Johnson, for whom success and approval by the public are a necessary part of his daily diet.

Since he has a great sense of the spectacular, he can be expected to seek some sensational early triumph that he can point to. Over the long run he will probably try to do in foreign affairs what he did with Congress and politicians.

THIS MEANS getting something done.

In short, in each instance he will seek some measure of success, compromising where he has to instead of insisting upon having everything his own way.

After beating Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, Johnson said he accepts his victory as a "mandate for unity." He was talking about trying to unify the divided forces at home.

It is hardly an accident he mentioned unity. For him it means trying to bring divergent forces together. It's the way he operates.

It will not be surprising if out of his visits abroad comes some progress in problems which have been standing still. He may accomplish far more than Kennedy.

BARKER ON CHINA

Chinese Waging War On Ghosts

By GEORGE BARKER

THE CHINESE strongly believe in ghosts. This disturbs the Red brass in Peking no little. The Reds regularly denounce such beliefs as "unscientific and unbecoming to a true Marxist." As a part of their anti-ghost campaign, they have forbidden the making of ghost movies, operas and the writing of ghost stories.

As a firm non-believer in ghosts, the Reds have my sympathy for the magnitude of the task they have undertaken. They have a tough job on their hands. Even in such a sophisticated city as Hong Kong, belief in ghosts is the general rule. Ghost stories are a popular feature on Cantonese Rediffusion.

A particularly brutal murder by a jealous homosexual occurred in the room three doors from mine at the cheap, crumbling, little hotel I lived in in Hong Kong in 1960. Three days later the murderer committed suicide by drowning himself in Gin Drinker's Bay. This was just the kind of sensational story that Hong Kong's lurid Cantonese press plays up big. Business at the hotel dropped sharply and two-thirds of the rooms on my floor were empty. Everyone was afraid to go near the murder room for fear of ghosts.

I WAS SHORT of ready cash and sensed an opportunity to get the murder room at a reduced rate. I approached the manager and he was delighted. Yes, he would give me the room for half-price. I consulted a Chinese doctor friend and he told me not to be so eager; that the manager would give me the room for nothing just to get it occupied and the hex taken away. I let the matter hang for two days, then went to see him again. He said he thought I didn't really want it, so he had made a storeroom of it! It took three months to get the hotel filled to capacity once more.

This was not my first experience with Chinese fear of ghosts. Four years earlier I had lived in a plush apartment halfway up the Peak, with a magnificent view of the Harbor. My houseboy, Ah Lee, told me, no, he wasn't afraid of ghosts. Then I got in late one night and wanted to talk to him about some urgent business coming up the next day. I went into his uqarters and tapped him on his shoulder, saying, "Lee," in a soft voice to waken him. He sat bolt upright in bed, flung his arms wide, and let loose with a horrendous scream. Then he saw who it was and, clutching his heart, he breathlessly explained, "Oh, Mister George! I thought you was ghost!"

THE NEXT morning, a bit embarrassed, Lee told me that "Chinese people believe all men have ghosts." He further stated it was the Christian belief, too.

"Oh?" I said.

"Of course," he said. "What about 'the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost?' "

I suppose it is in the interests of science to do away with ghosts in China. However, with their disappearance another colorful and exciting tradition will have put on the drab uniform of conformity, thought control and Maoism.

Ghosts won't die easy in China; they have their roots too deep in the Chinese collective unconscious mind. Besides, how do you kill something already dead?

Fast-Paced Inaugural Is Planned Jan. 20

The Theme Will Be 'Peace'

By DAN RAPOPORT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Atop Capitol Hill overalled carpenters are nailing fresh lumber into place.

Other workmen are erecting shiny steel scaffolding.

At the bottom of the Hill, on Independence Avenue, there is more activity.

The signs were unmistakeable. The Capitol is being prepared for the presidential inauguration next Jan. 20.

Straddling the center marble steps of the Capitol is a huge stand. On it the chief justice of the United States will administer the oath of office to President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Directly across from the stand, and on what is usually the plaza parking area, a three-story skeleton of steel has been erected and is being readied for the cameras that will televise the ceremony to the nation.

By January the plaza will be blanketed with seats and bleachers. Some of the facilities, such as the main stand and the television platform, are almost like permanent structures. Hence, construction must be started well in advance.

While workmen are creating the physical side of the inauguration, planners are taking care of the thousand and one arrangements.

In a small building on Independence Avenue a sign hangs identifying the office of the presidential inauguration committee. Currently working there is a "pre-inauguration" committee consisting of two representatives of the local Democratic and national Republican parties and a staff of about 25.

This staff—which will eventually grow to about 300—is in contact with city and military authorities, planning all events except for the ceremony itself. Among others, that leaves the parade and the inauguration ball.

Handling the inauguration itself is the Joint Congressional Committee on Ceremonies. The bi-partisan panel is headed by Sen. B. Everett Jordan (D-N.C.).

Both groups are set on doing things pretty much as they've always been done — with one change. They hope to shorten the quadrennial ritual and the traditional parade down Pennsylvania Avenue that follows it.

In 1961 at the John F. Kennedy inauguration, the city and the military managed to overcome an overnight blizzard and have the streets pretty well cleared. But spectators shivered in the freezing cold as they watched the inauguration or the parade. The parade did not end until darkness.

In 1965 the plan is to start the ceremonies earlier, probably about 11:30 a.m., so that the oath is taken at high noon. Addresses will be kept brief. The parade route will be shortened for non-military units and the parade itself will be tightened up.

Counting on these time savers, the military has been saying with considerable precision that the parade will last absolutely no longer than two hours and 31 minutes.

For the planning now going on it made no difference who won the election. Both President Johnson and Senator Barry Goldwater had agreed in advance that the theme of the parade would be "peace."

U.N. Involvement In Business Shows Up In Contrasts

Petrochemical Talks Set; Africa Mining Questioned

By ARTHUR FLETCHER
Worldwide Press Service

UNITED NATIONS—The extent of business involvement in United Nations matters is newly evidenced here in two contrasting situations.

Most important is the prospective U.N. conference in Teheran on the Development of Petrochemical Industries in the Developing Countries. At least 50 companies from 10 countries are preparing papers for it.

In another arena, the running dialogue over liquidating colonialism, the involvement of business is involuntary and the tone is far short of the cooperative atmosphere anticipated for the Nov. 16-30 session on petrochemicals in Iran.

This other aspect of the U.N.-business relationship is taking shape in a report criticizing the operations of mining companies in South West Africa, the disputed Mandate of South Africa.

A sub-committee of the General Assembly's committee on ending colonialism will shortly bring out a study. Consolidated Diamond Mines Ltd. and the Tsumeb Corp. are the only companies named in a preliminary statement but we learn that others will be included in the full report.

The sub-committee charges the companies with being part of interlocking companies with a strong say in the policy-making of their countries. It is alleged, for example, that the companies support South Africa's apartheid policy and that South Africa extended her racial policies to South West Africa in the interest of the companies. The members of the sub-committee are Denmark, Ethiopia, Mali, Syria, Tunisia, USSR, Tanganyika-Zanzibar, Yugoslavia.

Around the calmer technico-economic tables at Teheran, business interests will be clear cut. Subjects will range from chemical formulas to the economic horizons of the burgeoning petro-chemical industry. Chemicals grew from an estimated world output of 10 billion in dollars in the late 1930s to 50 billion dollars in 1955; they bid fair to top 100 billion dollars next year.

For example, F. N. Bumgartner and P. L. Richards of Esso Chemical Co. have submitted a working paper on recent trends in the world petrochemical industry. And a group of German companies under the leadership of H. Sonsken of Badische Anilin and Soda-Fabrik AG offer processes for the production of basic chemicals and intermediates from petroleum hydrocarbons.

In between—or perhaps far out—is a paper from Alfred Champagnat, managing director of the Societe International de Recherche B.P., a French subsidiary of the British Petroleum Group. He foresees a possible annual production of 20 million tons of proteins for human use from petroleum fermentation and the cultivation of micro-organisms.

This would require 40 million tons of petroleum per year, says Champagnat—enough to "justify the effort." At the same time, 40 million tons is a bagatelle for an industry now topping 1 billion tons a year.

The paper by Harisch C. Bijawat of Union Carbide India, may explain, at least by inference, why this inter-regional conference is being held in Teheran.

He notes that petroleum feedstocks will become the principal source of organic chemicals in India's current plan; i.e., by 1966. And by 1971 six petrochemicals complexes representing an investment of 1 billion dollars will be in operation. If, say experts here, foreign private investment helps out.

The siting of this petro-chemical conference serves to remind that there is a history of protest in the U.N. regional economic commission and its petroleum seminars against the flaring of natural gas in the Middle East and Iran.

But the basic reasons for the Teheran session are: The urgency of the need for fertilizers in the needy countries; the potential role of plastics in agriculture (for irrigation pipe, silo covers, etc.) and in construction where other materials are scarce; and the fact that seven Western countries and Japan now produce over three-quarters of the world's total of basic organic chemicals.

This top eight, ranging in output from the U.S.'s 33 billion dollars to Canada's 1.5 billion dollars, also include in order: The USSR, West Germany, Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

Many industry observers believe that Japan, now in seventh place (Canada is eighth) will move up to third in the next decade, displacing West Germany.

Non-Aligned? 47 Nations Have Task Deciding

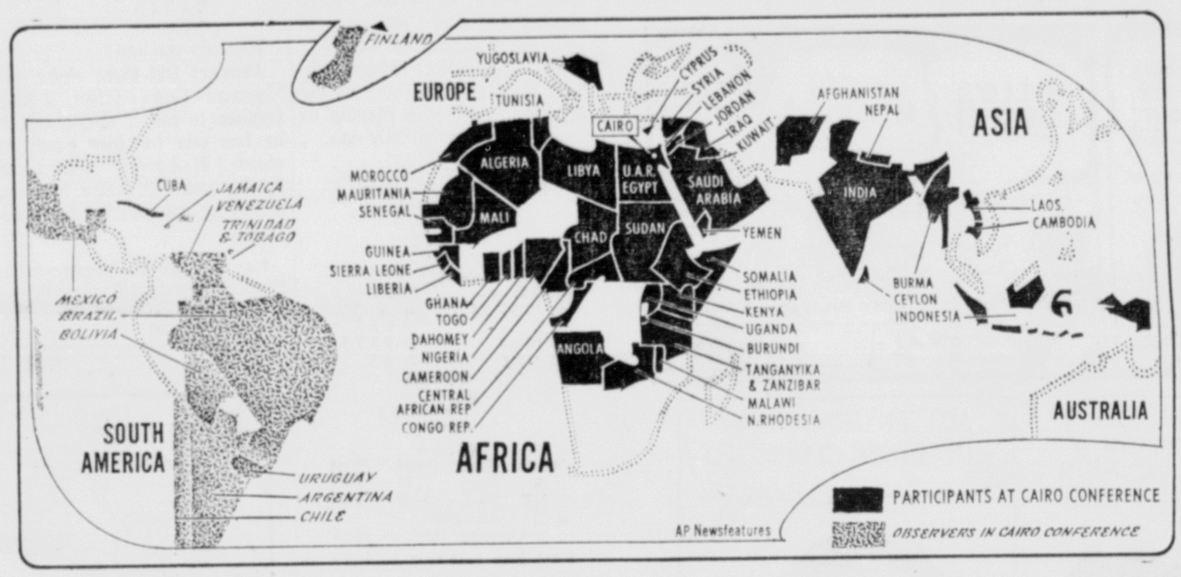

Sukarno Helps Shake Up Talks Held In Cairo

By RICHARD F. NEWCOMB
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The trouble with being a "non-aligned" nation is that sometimes it's hard to decide who you're non-aligned with.

Take the recent conference at Cairo.

Forty-seven nations gathered there to discuss matters on which they were "non-aligned"—that is, not taking the side of either the East or the West, the Communist bloc or the Free World.

Moise Tshombe, premier of the Congo, showed up, figuring he was non-aligned. But right away the trouble started. His host, President Gamal Abdel Nasser, decided Tshombe was not non-aligned enough and locked him up in a spare palace for three days.

Tshombe never did get to the conference, but it went on nevertheless, its solemnity somewhat shaken.

In due course, the conference issued a 31-page document entitled "Program for Peace and International Cooperation". Among other things, this urged the United States to "negotiate the evacuation" of its naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba; called for an "urgent" Geneva conference on the Indochina problem; appealed to all outside countries — mainly the United States—to "terminate all foreign interference in the internal affairs" of Southeast Asia; denounced Western colonialism and foreign bases; called for a break in diplomatic relations with Portugal and an embargo on trade with South Africa, and urged "unrestricted and unfettered independence" for Cyprus.

But the most remarkable disclosure from Cairo was that the "non-aligned" countries could no longer seem to align themselves on non-alignment.

Sukarno, the fiery president of Indonesia, was clearly "non-aligned" with Red China, as were President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, President Sekou Toure of Guinea and the heads of some other new African governments. Their principal tenet seemed to be the same as that of Red China—peaceful co-existence is not possible with capitalism, and capitalism must be destroyed.

The other main faction, headed by Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and President Tito of Yugoslavia, contended that peaceful co-existence should first be established and then the outstanding problems between nations should be settled.

At the Belgrade conference in 1961, the non-aligned nations decided to send a mission to Washington and Moscow to ask the big powers to halt testing of nuclear weapons. When the same question came up at Cairo, Shastri suggested that a mission now be sent to Peking to urge Red China to halt its plans to test nuclear devices.

Sukarno led the opposition to this, showing just how non-aligned he was. The conference defeated Shastri's motion, but he and other moderates did succeed in softening some of the more bitter resolutions aimed at the West.

Sukarno fought against resolutions recognizing borders as of the date a nation achieved independence, and one saying territorial changes brought about by force should not be recognized. Both of these hit right at Indonesia's aggression against Malaysia, and both were passed.

Sukarno was not happy. He did not attend the final sesion of the conference.

Neither did Moise Tshombe, but he had a better excuse. Nasser wouldn't let him. That might have been because Tshombe's forces, aided by the West, are currently thwarting Red China's attempts to move into the Congo.

When Tshombe got back home, he received a hero's welcome. At least he was aligned with somebody.

This Week In The World

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The distinguished looking man with those familiar black-rimmed glasses stepped out into the brilliant sunshine from his hilltop home in the Paradise Valley section of Phoenix.

He climbed into his blue Lincoln Continential and traveled two and a half miles to the Camelback Inn and into his press headquarters in the Peace Pipe Room and stood before television cameras.

Then Barry Goldwater quoted the text of a telegram he had sent only a few hours earlier. It was addressed to Lyndon B. Johnson, Johnson City, Tex.

"Congratulations on your victory," he read. "I will help you in any way that I can toward achieving a growing and better America and a secure and dignified peace," it said in part.

Thus the curtain came down, in traditional manner, on the 1964 presidential election, a contest which saw the Republican party knocked to the canvass in one of its worst defeats ever.

The returns, both in popular votes and in percentages, represented a greater landslide than that in which Franklin D. Roosevelt defeated Alf Landon in 1936 by 11,072,014 votes.

The Republicans took six states, five of them from the deep South where Goldwater had predicted a GOP breakthrough. The sixth was his own, Arizona.

In Congress, the Democrats won 47 house seats and the Republicans 10, for a net Democratic gain of 37. In the Senate, the Democrats gained at least one seat, with the contest in Nevada still in doubt.

A major GOP figure who survived the debacle was Gov. George Romney, seeking re-election in Michigan, where the Johnson plurality approached a million votes.

At week's end, a battle was raging for control of the Republican Party. Former Vice President N Nixon blamed the defeat in part on New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller for lack of enthusiastic support of the top of the ticket. Nixon said Rockefeller was the party's "principal divider."

Rockefeller, in turn, said Nixon made a "peevish post-election utterance."

Around The World Around The Clock

La Paz, Bolivia—President Victor Paz Estenssoro was overthrown in a military revolt against his regime led by Vice President Rene Barrientos, who took over as head of a ruling military junta. Paz fled to Peru.

Moscow—Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai arrived for the first top level Sino-Soviet talks in three years and received a cool but polite welcome. No significant thaw in the Communist giants' ideological dispute was indicated.

Detroit—Strikes were called by the United Auto Workers Union at nine Ford Motor Co. plants around the country, idling more than 26,000 workers. The dispute was over local issues unresolved in the recently negotiated national agreement between the firm and union.

London—Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced he would seek to renationalize Britain's steel industry. It first was nationalized in 1945 by the Labor government of Prime Minister Clement Attlee but later turned back to private interests by the succeeding Conservative government.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

A-Energy Is Needed For Supplying Water

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Completion of an engineering study on power requirements for transmission of water over the Tehachapi mountains to Southern California, announced by William E. Warne, director of water resources, marks another step in the progress being made on the gigantic effort to supply the thirsty south with surplus waters of the north.

The study, made by the Fluor Corporation, Ltd., of Los Angeles, bears out Warne's thinking concerning the use of nuclear-generated electricity for the big hoist over the mountains.

While no final decisions have been reached, and are not likely to be for at least a year, the report indicated water could be delivered to Perris Reservoir in Riverside County in 1991, for about $44.90 per acre-foot, if state nuclear power is used.

The project is scheduled to be operating at capacity in 1991. The report estimated the power bill under a state-operated nuclear plant would amount to 33.5 million dollars a year, compared to 42.6 million dollars a year for power from other sources, which would be about 27 per cent higher.

Many sources of potential energy were investigated during the study. These included conventional power plants fired by gas, oil or coal. One proposal was to pump coal, powered and transported by water in a pipe, from coal mines in New Mexico or Utah, to a power plant in Southern California.

Requirements for power in operating the project to capacity appear to stagger the imagination, but the project is a failure unless the power is available. Warne says:

"The energy requirements for pumping are high, particularly at the 3,165-foot-high Tehachapi mountain crossing, over which the project will pump 108 million gallons of water per hour, more water than the combined summer flow of four of the state's largest rivers, the Feather, American, Bear and Yuba.

"The state water project's total energy requirement in 1991, when full pumping capacity will be used, will exceed 12 billion kilowatt hours. This is two billion kilowatt hours greater than the city of Los Angeles used in 1963 to meet all of its needs.

"The project will have 18 pumping plants, the largest being the one that makes the 'big lift' over the Tehachapis."

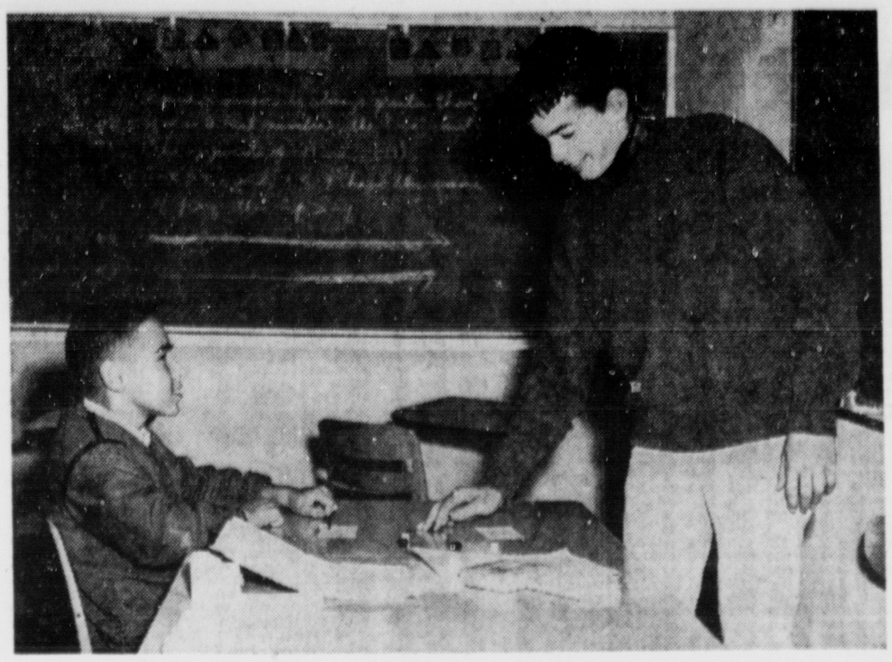

One question to be settled is whether to put a nuclear plant on the Ventura County coast, and send the power some 60 miles to the Kern County site, or whether to build it nearer the site.

Studies are under way for a coastal saline conversion plant which would provide about 15 million gallons of fresh water per day. A plant of this capacity would provide an advance for the technology of conversion, and would provide reliable data on which to base cost estimates for future large-size plants, the report says.

It appears to be almost inescapable that the power demands of the future will demand the construction of more and more nuclear plants throughout the state as the source of electricity for California in all fields.

THEY PLAY IT AT YALE — Dave Wehe (seated) and Andy Warburg, Redwood High School Math Club members, match wits in "Wff 'n' Poof," a dice game originated at Yale University and designed to develop mathematical logic. The game has simple and increasingly complicated forms.

WFF 'N PROOF

They Shake Dice To Learn Math

By PAM MYERS
Redwood High School Student

Dice roll, the air is tense, Las Vegas? No, it's a meeting of Redwood High School's mathematics club.

The game is "Wff 'n Proof," which challenges mathematical logic. It was introduced as part of the club's new trend toward math for fun.

"Wff 'n Proof" is a series of games, of which the first few are quite simple and have been mastered by children as young as 6. The final games are challenging even to university professors. Until now a small group at Yale University has been through several hundred versions of "Wff 'n Proof."

The purpose of the game, as defined by Layman Allen, professor of law at Yale, is to teach something about mathematical logic and provide practice in abstract thinking.

The club is now working on the first game of the series called "Shake a Wff." The object of this dice game is to put the best possible combinations of letters in the right order of a special playing mat before the opponent can do so. Then the player calls, 'Wff!" and his partner checks to see if he has made any mistakes. The first winner of nine games wins a match.

The math club is planning on speakers, contests, Wff 'n Proof tournaments, field trips, and pot luck dinners to catch the interest of students who think math clubs are only for brains.

Redwood Senior Selected For Citizen Award

Senior Joan Troppmann was selected for Redwood High School's "Good Citizen" award to be presented by El Marinero chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Miss Troppmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Troppmann of 6 Key Largo Cove, Corte Madera, was chosen by the Redwood faculty. She is now eligible for the DAR's national "Good Citizen's Award" for 1964-65.

First she will compete within California which is divided into 10 districts. The winner from each district is determined by an American history test. A $25 government bond is awarded to the winner. District winners compete for the state honor, winner of which receives a $100 bond. The national award includes a $1,000 scholarship.

Navy Promotion

John R. Knight has been promoted to fire control technician second class in the Navy while serving aboard the guided missile cruiser Boston, operating out of Boston, Mass. He is a son of Mrs. Jeanne E. Knight of 4 Ranch Lane, Larkspur.

Youth Injured In Collision

A Kentfield youth suffered minor injuries when his car collided with another on Turnagain Road in Kentfield at 4:10 p.m. yesterday.

The California Highway Patrol said Drew W. Sullivan, 17, of 25 Idlewood Road, Kentfield, was driver of a car hit by the sports roadster of William D. Burns, 17, of 113 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera.

Sullivan was hurt, but said he would see his own doctor.

'Advocate' Is Premiered By Prisoners At Quentin

More than 150 San Quentin Prison staff members and guests attended the Northern California premiere of Robert Noah's "The Advocate" presented by the San Quentin Drama Workshop last night at the prison.

The play depicting events leading to the execution of political radicals Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, accused of killing two men in a payroll holdup in Braintree, Mass. in 1921, was directed by Rick Cluchey, assisted by Stan F. McGinnis and Hal Waddell.

Members of the cast included Cluchey in his 18th drama workshop production as the attorney for the condemned men; Don Baxter as Vanzetti; Roberto Castro as Sacco; Joseph Shaheen as Papa Sacco and David Stanley as Judge Ballantine.

Forgery Suspect To Face Superior Court

Owen K. Perry, 38, of Corte Cordova, Greenbrae, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday following preliminary hearing on two counts of forgery before Judge Leonard A. Thomas in municipal court.

He allegedly forged and passed checks for $147.86 and $145.26 to defraud the Cellars, 534 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Red Cross Drive Is Under Way In Marin Schools

The annual Marin County elementary and high school Red Cross membership drive is under way this month, according to Dr. Bert Corona, San Rafael School District superintendent and chairman of educational relations for the county's Red Cross chapter.

All funds collected from the 30,000 Marin public, private and parochial pupils will be used exclusively on Junior and High School Red Cross programs, according to Stanley Friese, assistant county schools superintendent and chairman of the membership drive.

He reported that Marin County youngsters prepared 600 boxes of school supplies for Alaskan earthquake victims, entertained and prepared favors for patients in this county and in Sonoma State Hospital, and participated in a number of international friendship projects, during the last year.

TAM QUEEN—Ruby McLin of Marin City was named homecoming queen by Tamalpais High School students yesterday. She will reign over the homecoming dance which begins at 8:30 p.m. today in Ruby Scott Auditorium. Her court of princesses are Joan Taylor, Shelley Smith, Sandy Richardson and Nancy Gorrill, all of Mill Valley.

Frank C. Tose, Coast Guard seaman apprentice, son of Mrs. Emma M. MacKenzie of 491 Wilson Avenue, Novato, is serving at the Sand Island Coast Guard Base at Honolulu, Hawaii.

Ford Smarting Over Strikes At Plants

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. still was smarting today from a United Auto Workers' strike which hit nine key plants yesterday and endangered Ford's vision of continuing production and sales records.

Some 25,000 UAW members struck four Ford assembly plants, two stamping plants and three parts manufacturing plants. The walkouts followed failure to settle local-level contracts which supplement the national labor agreement reached Sept. 18.

Ward's Automotive Reports said the Ford strike would cut some 7,000 cars and 1,000 trucks from this week's anticipated production totals.

A company spokesman estimated Ford's auto production—about 10,000 per day — was slashed 16 per cent by the stoppages at the assembly plants. He said truck production, rated at 1,800 daily, was cut 34 per cent.

And, he added, if the strike continues at the parts plants, other assembly plants would be affected in time.

In Navy Basic

William A. Cary, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cary of 125 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, and Bill Kibler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Kibler of 9 Womack Court, Novato, are undergoing Navy basic training at the San Diego Naval Training Center.

Women Injured As Cars Collide

Two San Rafael area women suffered head and neck pains after a two-car crash south of the Golden Gate Bridge toll plaze at 6 p.m. yesterday.

Seeking private medical treatment, according to the California Highway Patrol, were Joan E. Paladini, 28, of 125 Trellis Drive, San Rafael, and Virginia O'Brien, 36, of 529 Appleberry Drive, Marinwood.

The Patrol said the Paladini car, in which Mrs. O'Brien was riding, was hit from the rear by that of Leone McGowan of 14 Madeleine Lane, of the Country Club tract near San Rafael.

FROM PACIFIC TO ATLANTIC

The fuzzy head belongs to a lost baby sea lion only one year old and found in a culvert near Palm Beach, Fla. The youngster is a native of California and probably escaped from a water show somewhere on the Florida coast. He weighs 52 pounds now but should grow to about 600 pounds. Cuddling the fuzzy youngster is Frank Weiss of Miami.

Two Marinites In Treble Clef

Two Marin County students at the University of California have been selected for membership in the Treble Clef Society on the Berkeley campus.

Julie Banning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George V. Banning of 7 Tamalpais Avenue, Belvedere, a humanities major, is a new member of the women's choral group. She is a 1963 graduate of Redwood High School and a member of the English Club, Phi Lambda Sigma, an honorary language club, and the modern dance club.

Susan Beare, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. K. Beare of 17 Moncada Way, San Rafael, has been elected to the group for the second year. A sophomore at Cal, she was elected personnel and correspondence secretary of the organization.

Schooner Wanderer Called A Total Loss

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — The 96-foot schooner, Wanderer, once owned by actor Sterling Hayden of Belvedere is a total loss on a South Seas reef.

Capt. William King, who skippered the 70-year-old vessel on her last and aborted voyage, said his navigational error brought the Wanderer aground last Sunday night on the Rangiroa Island reef in the Tuamotu group 150 miles northeast of Tahiti.

King arrived in Tahiti yesterday aboard a French naval rescue ship with his 11-year-old son, David, and five crewmembers.

The skipper said it was a rainy night when he took bearings on what he thought was the lower tip on Rangiroa. It wasn't the tip, however, but the island peninsula and the Wanderer hit the reef and lost her keel.

The 11 aboard took 20 minutes to abandon ship and spent the night on the reef in a rubber raft. In the morning they returned to the ship, sent an SOS, removed two dories and went to Rangiroa where they awaited their rescue Tuesday.

Five crewmen remained with the $100,000 vessel to do salvage work. They are Larry Mildoon and Leonard Duck of Fresno, Terry Reilly of San Francisco, Carol Hobart, a girl from Honolulu, and an unidentified Tahitian.

King was hired to sail the two-masted schooner to Panama.

Hawaiian Singing Group Is Formed

A Hawaiian singing group has been formed by Arthur C. Wigell, director of Redwood High School's choir.

The group of seven boys and 23 girls is a direct result of Wigell's trip to Hawaii this summer and his desire to share his appreciation of Hawaiian music and their musical language. It will meet at various times in other members' homes and learn Hawaiian songs.

Mrs. Summers Talks

Mrs. Mary Summers, president of the Marin Conservation League, addressed students and faculty attending the 50th anniversary celebration of the school of architecture and allied arts at the University of Oregon in Eugene yesterday. Mrs. Summers received a bachelor's degree in landscape architecture from the university 25 years ago.

Dirty Piece Of Cardboard Wins Place In Art Show

BALTIMORE (AP) — A dirty piece of cardboard, four feet by six, is among 42 works of art selected for exhibition in the 24th annual "Life in Baltimore" show which opens tomorrow at the Peale Museum.

The cardboard, titled "Dust Horses — Photo Finish," carries a price tag of $100 and has been officially classified as art by a panel of out-of-town judges.

But Morris Martick, proprietor of a West Baltimore tavern that is a favorite hangout for artists, found the cardboard last spring in "a typical garage restroom—grimy, greasy, windowless." He said the cardboard was being used to fill an empty space above a partition separating the restroom from the repair shop.

The pattern left on the cardboard by years' accumulation of dust was "an image of horses," he said.

"It was very abstract, but the image was there."

Martick described the work as "found art," which he defines as any by-product of human activity with esthetic value. Natural phenomena such as driftwood, pebbles and seashells are excluded.

'Sunday In New York' Brings Talent To Barn

By KARL BARRON

"Sunday In New York", Norman Krasna's Broadway hit of several seasons back, is concerned with the sex life — or lack of it — of one Eileen, who styles herself "the only 22-year-old virgin in the world."

Although the Ross Valley Players' production of the show which opened at the Barn in Ross last night offers an excellent cast and imaginative staging, I found myself not really caring whether Eileen was or wasn't.

Krasna's brittle dialogue contains lots of humor, and the situations are funny, but actually the funniest portions of the show are the scene changes.

Rubber faced comedian Tom Barker and a long-legged blonde named Peggy Grieg team up to expertly change scenes and steal them in the process. With each doing seven or eight gem-like characterizations, director Patricia Washburn has used their talents to lend a zany quality to the entire show.

Allan Atkin's setting is delightful, and one of the show's stars is a sectional sofa which runs the gamut from seduction couch to Fifth Avenue bus to Longchamps to a newsreel theater to a Japanese restaurant, and most creditably — a $14,000 Ferrari auto — in motion!

Lois Feiner, charming in appearance, plays Eileen a bit unevenly, but at times achieves a pixie quality that jumps right across the footlights. (Which the Barn has!)

As the boy in the boy-meets-girl plot, Doug Schukar is slick all the way, and at times of great harassment, tremendously believeable.

Randy Grieg, as Eileen's airline pilot brother, is smoothly competent, while Jerry Mathis' portrayal of the home town boyfriend is adequate.

A large pat on the back must go to Peter Fitshugh for sound. There are 89 — count 'em — sound cues in the show. And lighting by W. J. Carter sets off Atkin's design to good advantage.

Remember the little fisherman in the sou'wester on the Gorton codfish can? Wait till you see Barker and Grieg changing sets in a roaring storm — in sou'westers. They're worth price of admission alone. "Sunday In New York" will play Friday and Saturday night's through November.

Child Support Hearing Delayed

Hearing in Marin Superior Court on a request for modification of child support terms in the divorce of William A. Slater III, Tiburon real estate salesman, and his wife, the present Mrs. Barnaby Conrad, was continued yesterday until 10 a.m. Nov. 25.

Mrs. Conrad, San Francisco, is seeking $750 total monthly child support for two children. She currently receives $250. The hearing, scheduled yesterday, was continued with failure of an attorney to appear.

Baseball's All-Out Effort To Improve Image

By JOE REICHLER

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Major league club owners prepare today to vote for the restoration of the baseball commissioner's full power with unlimited jurisdiction over the game.

The move is an all-out effort to regain public confidence and stem the tide of criticism from press and public alike.

This decision, arrived at during the second day of the three-day summit meeting of the baseball magnates, was viewed as a personal triumph for outgoing commissioner Ford Frick although his successor will be the one to reap its full benefits.

Nevertheless, Frick probably gained more stature in two days here than in all his 14 years as baseball czar.

In what probably was his most foreceful straight-from-the shoulder speech of his life, the white-thatched former newspaper man warned the owners they must eliminate the clauses which reduced his power and made him little more than a chairman of the board of directors.

"If your new commissioner is to function successfully, if he is to provide the desired leadership and at the same time maintain the public image that baseball desires, he must be given the unquestioned authority and loyal support required to do the job," Frick told the owners and general managers.

"Not only should his authority be defined and spelled out, but the clubs themselves must recognize and accept that authority."

Frick, who will retire next September after reaching his 70th birthday, was far from through.

"The office of commissioner is not a face-saving device for club problems." he added. "Public questioning, public alibis and public arguments can serve no useful purpose and certainly contribute nothing but harm to the public image of the commissioner and his office, to organized baseball and to the game itself.

"That general criticism, and resultant loss of public confidence in our operations, will continue until we come up with a sound, aggressive and modern program that can be lived with; can be understood by the public, and given 100 per cent support by clubs and officials."

Taking the cue from their leader, the owners yesterday unanimously approved his recommendations. They immediately set machinery in motion for adoption of a number of the commissioner's proposals designed to restore and maintain public confidence.

They agreed to equip the next commissioner with the same powers enjoyed by baseball's first czar, Jude Kenesaw Mountain Landis, but denied to his successors by two constitutional changes.

One change gave the owners the right of recourse against the commissioner in the courts and the other stated that no act or procedure agreed upon by the owners could be construed as detrimental to baseball.

The owners also agreed to centralize all of baseball's high offices including the two league presidents, the minor league head and the commissioner under one roof in a building to be called "Baseball," located either in Chicago, New York or Los Angeles.

They approved the establishment of a public relations department to function out of the commissioner's office.

They approved a recommendation from the general managers to make into law a high school and college free agent plan. It is coupled with an unrestricted draft of minor league players designed to encourage young athletes to enter baseball and yet restrain the owners from cutting their own throats by high bonus payments to untried youngsters.

They approved a plan for recruiting, development and procurement of umpires. It is aimed at encouraging top grade umpire prospects to come into professional baseball.

Another positive action expected to be taken today at the joint session would prohibit expansion of the major leagues for at least the next three years.

"Many of the problems baseball has at present stem from the original expansion," said one prominent club owner.

"Expansion has diluted our player personnel as well as the caliber of play. Additional expansion will dilute us even more."

In separate action, the American League recommended that after 1965 consideration be given to starting the World Series on a Saturday instead of the customary Wednesday.

Also recommended was that weekday games be played at night at the option of the host team, depending on location, weather and other factors. The National League made no such recommendations.

SIDELINES

By ED RANDOL

Time Is Running Out For 49ers; Backfield Changes Were Overdue

Randol

At first glance, the Minnesota Vikings-San Francisco 49ers game tomorrow looks like just another contest. In reality, it may prove to be the most important game the 49ers have played all year.

First of all, this may be the last chance for the Niners to get one more game in the win column this year. And every one is aware that, as of this moment, the two lone wins posted are no improvement over the record of last season.

REGARDLESS OF personnel, the fortunes of war, and the smiles of Lady Luck, teams are judged from their record. And so are coaches. You can be sure the owners aren't going to take the rap for the well going dry.

Coach Jack Christiansen is working on a one year contract, and he knows he may never ink another unless his Niners can find a way to win, or to look good while losing. No matter that Jack has done a great job with the material at hand and has been plagued by injuries. Win or else.

SPEAKING OF injuries, one wonders if it is sheer coincidence that six men have been crippled by gimpy knees. Experts blame the cleats on football shoes for this type of damage. Could be that they have been caused by the opposition taking more and harder shots at the 49ers. Or perhaps there is something wrong with Niner conditioning.

In an effort to salvage something from the season, Christiansen plans to move Abe Woodson to the offense, at least part time. It would seem that this move has been too long in coming, as Woodson has proved his ability to pack the ball by being tops in the league on punt and kickoff returns for years.

Lately, Abe has been rather listless in his play, and there have been few of those spectacular runs that brought the fans out of their seats. Maybe this new assignment will give him new life. Or maybe he has been on defense for the 49ers so long he will automatically run backwards.

WOODSON HAS been tried on offense before, but ex-Coach Red Hickey never gave him a fair shake. Also, it must be observed that NO back is going to move well behind the 49er offensive line as it is now constituted. It has been a long time since there have been guards fast enough to pull out and run interference without tripping on their own shoes.

This much is obvious; the Niners are going nowhere as they are presently constituted. I'm for giving such men as Kay McFarland, Gary Lewis and Dave Kopay a real chance to play and prove themselves. Give Woodson and maybe Kermit Alexander a shot at offense. Or give us a change.

JOE VERDUCCI
Heart attack victim

Joe Verducci Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— Joe Verducci, one of the top football coaches in Northern California history, twice mayor of Daly City and a supervisor-elect in San Mateo County, died yesterday of an apparent heart attack while playing handball in the gym of San Francisco State College, where he was athletic director.

Verducci, 53, was with Edmund C. Hallberg, associate dean of student activities. Efforts of students and the school doctor failed to revive him.

After winning Northern California Coach of the Year honors in 1949 while in his second and last year at St. Mary's College, Verducci moved across the bay to his native San Francisco.

He won six Far Western Conference titles at San Francisco State in 10 years of coaching there, where he compiled a 67-26-1 record. He was named Northern California Coach of the year again in 1957.

He coached for Commerce and Polytechnical High Schools in San Francisco and rolled up an amazing 55-6 record. His overall, 26-year coaching record was 162-65-14.

A quarterback for California from 1931 through 1933, Verducci twice captured the Andy Smith Memorial Scholarship for inspirational leadership.

He served in the Coast Guard during World War II.

A city councilman in Daly City, adjacent to San Francisco, Verducci was elected supervisor in June.

His widow, Florence, a son and two daughters survive.

TV Baseball Spectaculars Sidelined

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The proposed $20 million Monday night television spectacular, with all 20 major league clubs sharing equally in the revenue, has fallen through, at least for the 1965 season, The Associated Press learned yesterday.

John Fetzer, president of the Detroit Tigers and head of baseball's television committee, gave these sad tidings to the club owners at the closed-door joint meeting of the American and National Leagues Thursday.

"The Monday night TV spectacular is out for the 1965 season," Fetzer reportedly announced. "We're hopeful, however, that we can get a substitute date, perhaps Saturday afternoon."

The original plan was to present two major league games, one in the East and one in the West, on Monday nights on a coast-to-coast basis with no blackout.

Each of the clubs was to realize $1 million in revenue for the season.

NBC and ABC advised Fetzer last Saturday that they could not clear programming time for the Monday night special. CBS, which took over official ownership of the New York Yankees last Monday, already had announced it was not interested.

"It came as a shock to us," a member of the committee confided. "We thought we had the deal all wrapped up with a major network (ABC). That is, until several weeks ago when they informed us they wished to wait until their early fall ratings came in.

"Last week we were told their Monday night ratings had reached new heights, and consequently, they were loath to relinquish this prime viewing time."

The committee is hopeful of salvaging the TV spectacular by substituting Saturday afternoon for Monday night.

Unbeaten Teams Headline Semi-Pro Baseball Slate

The Billings-Hutchison Builders and Maggi's Florist baseballers will meet tomorrow in the feature game of the Marin County Semi-Pro Winter Baseball League.

Winner of the game will take undisputed possession of first place in the league, as the Builders' record is 3-0 and the Maggi's Flowers team is 2-0. The game will be the second half of a doubleheader at San Anselmo's Memorial Field, scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m.

In the first game of the twin bill, DeMaestri's Fairfax Garage (0-2) will play the Pacifica Lions (0-2) at 11 a.m. The other game of the day will be at the Project 17 diamond in Mill Valley, with the M.V. Merchants (1-1) hosting the Tiburon Sox (2-1) at 1:30 p.m.

This same schedule was washed out last Sunday because of rain and wet grounds.

The Builders will send their ace, righthander Ron Cole, to the mound against southpaw Bill Ervin of the Maggi team. Leading batter for Maggi's has been second baseman Bob Brown, while the Builders have been paced by Dick Spackman, Jesse Munyon and Ernie Demattei.

In the opener of the twin bill, the Lions will send righthander Bill Dawson to the hill. He will be throwing against lefthander Art Meyers of the garagemen.

For the game being played in Mill Valley, Keith Fraser will hurl for the host club and will be opposing lefthander Frank Smith of the Sox. This game will be a renewal of a Tiburon-Mill Valley baseball rivalry that has existed for many years.

Seven Marin Anglers Win In Salmon Contest

Seven Marin County anglers were included in the list of winners in the Schenley Sportsmen's Club salmon program for the week ending last Sunday.

Winners were:

Joseph V. Bay of 74 Porteous Avenue, Fairfax — 40-pound, 8-ounce salmon caught Oct. 30 near Rocky Point.

Taylor McGee of 652 Northern Avenue, Mill Valley — 35-8, caught Oct. 31 near Duxbury.

William Curr of 109 Madrone, Woodacre — 45-2, caught Oct. 31 near Duxbury.

Bob Upton of 55 Meadow Road, Mill Valley — 48-4, caught Oct. 31 near Duxbury.

Phil Resler of 82 Oak Knoll Avenue, San Anselmo — 35-2, caught Oct. 31 near Duxbury.

Hilton Swenson of 5 Fox Lane, San Anselmo — 35-4, caught Oct. 31 near Duxbury.

Preston Dickey of 110 Taylor Road, Tiburon — 35-0, caught Oct. 31 near Slide Ranch.

Seals, Vancouver Clash Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Seals return to action tomorrow night at the Cow Palace when they take on Vancouver. They downed Vancouver 9-4 on Thursday and the Canucks were walloped 7-3 last night in Los Angeles.

Prep Team Wins 56th Straight

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Jefferson City High outrushed, outpassed and outplayed Springfield Central last night — like it has all other opponents the last six years — and rang up its 56th straight football victory.

The 39-0 victory set a national high school record for consecutive victories.

The Jays had been tied at 55 games with Pflugerville, Tex., whose string ended in 1957.

BRAVES LOSE TWO TESTS IN COURT

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee County claimed victory today in the first two rounds of its legal skirmish to prevent the Braves from moving to Atlanta.

The case was returned to state courts yesterday as U.S. District Judge Robert E. Tehan denied the baseball club's petition to take jurisdiction.

Judge Tehan ruled after a two-day hearing that the bulk of the Braves' business is carried on in Milwaukee despite the move of executive offices to Chicago Oct. 5 and there is no "diversity of citizenship" as claimed by the club.

The court action returned the case to Milwaukee Circuit Court, where the county obtained a temporary order restraining the Braves from moving Oct. 21, within hours of the club's vote to move to Atlanta in 1965. No date has been set for further circuit court action.

Judge Tehan noted that the Braves did not move any furniture equipment from their Milwaukee offices to Chicago, bank accounts are maintained both in Milwaukee and Chicago and the club's principal debt is a $3 million loan from a Milwaukee bank.

The Braves had contended that farm clubs represent a major portion of the corporation's assets, but county officials argued that 84 per cent of the team's total revenue, or $2,971,150, was generated from operations in Milwaukee.

"There is no question in the court's mind that the major interest of the corporation is the fielding and operation of its major league ball club, under the franchise granted to it by the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs," Judge Tehan said.

John McHale, the Braves' president and general manager, was the only witness called by the club's attorneys. However, several members of the Braves' front office staff were subpoenaed by the county.

Rampaging Drake Frosh Romp, 40-0

Drake High School's rampaging frosh football team increased its league-leading record to 4-0 yesterday with a 40-0 blasting of the San Rafael frosh gridders on the Drake field.

The passing combination of Don Stone to Don Alvarado accounted for three Drake touchdowns, Armindo Candido ran two more and Frank Holton added the other on a run. Extra points were scored by Holton (2), John Brown and Larry Bresnan, all on runs.

The little Pirates clinched at least a tie for the Marin Athletic League crown. A victory over Terra Linda next Friday in their last game of the season will give them undisputed championship honors.

Marin Man 28th In Boat Racing

Barney DeBisschop of San Anselmo was the 28th ranking qualifier in the 40-boat inboard field for the $28,000 fourth annual Salton Sea 500-mile speedboat marathon race that started today.

From a field of 189 entrants, 109 were eliminated yesterday in a 16-mile qualifying event. The entrants will race four hours —from noon to 4 p.m.—today, and then finish the race in an eight-hour stretch starting at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Topping the field of 40 inboards was Bob Ellis of Downey, Calif., who took the four four-mile laps in the Salton Sea in 11 minutes and 54 seconds. Leading the 40 outboard drivers was Ray Hutson of Lemon Cove, Calif.

SANTA ROSA BEATS NAPA

Santa Rosa Junior College took over the lead in the Golden Valley Conference football race last night with a 14-7 victory over the Napa College Chiefs on the losers' field.

The triumph for Santa Rosa gave it a 4-0 record compared to 3-1 for Napa. Gary Lindsay scored a touchdown on a 2-yard run in the first quarter for Santa Rosa and teammate Don DeSomery scored the other TD in the second quarter on a 24-yard pass from Ron Vaughn. Napa's lone tally came in the third stanza on a 1-yard plunge by fullback Don Schroeder.

POOR 49ERS

Odds Grow For Vikes

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—The weatherman calls for cool, dry weather tomorrow when the San Francisco 49ers resume their rivalry with the Minnesota Vikings.

News that the footing will be dry has increased the point spread to 9½ in favor of the high-scoring Vikings, but the 49ers had been worried for fear that the field would turn up muddy.

The Vikings could still move in the mud with a pulverizing ground attack built around all-purpose Tommy Mason and hard-running Bill Brown. The 49ers have little up-the-middle punch and what offense they can muster is usually built around the long bombs of John Brodie to speedy receivers such as Bernie Casey and Dave Parks.

San Francisco enters the fray with a 2-6 mark. It lost another squad member this week when Dale Messer underwent knee surgery, yet the 49ers are in relatively good shape for this game.

Offensive guard Leon Donahue is back in a first-string berth after getting over his back pains and the 49ers may have a bit of a secret weapon in 230-pound fullback Gary Lewis, who carried twice against Baltimore for seven yards. Since then, Lewis has had time to learn the 49ers plays and could be ready for heavy duty tomorrow.

If men like Brodie, Casey, Lewis, Billy Kilmer and Mike Lind can move the ball without fumbles or interceptions, the defense figures to do its part.

The big scores run up against the 49ers this year have all been as a result of gift fumbles and interceptions by the offense. In last week's 37-7 disaster at Baltimore, for instance, the Colts only put together two long drives all game.

The 49ers' front four of Clark Miller, Charlie Krueger, Roland Lakes and Karl Rubke or Dan Colchico is about as tough as any around and managed to contain Minnesota's scrambling Fran Tarkenton without any help from rushing linebackers the last time the two teams met.

But Minnesota still pulled out a 27-22 win because the 49ers offense handed Minnesota a couple of late touchdowns. The Vikings gave the 49ers a present, too, when lineman Jim Marshall rambled 66 yards with the ball the wrong way for a safety, but it didn't help San Francisco enough.

The 49ers picked up Charlie Britt from the Vikings during the week to beef up their defensive backfield in view of Messer's injury. He probably won't play tomorrow, but he has been talking over Minnesota's strategy with his new team.

Coach Jack Christiansen has also announced that Abe Woodson may see duty behind Casey at flanker or behind tight backs Lind, Kilmer, Lewis and Dave Kopay. Woodson also will start at corner back and handle punt backs, so it could be a real workout for Abe.

Minnesota, a high-scoring team but not too much defensively, has split its eight games.

S. R. CADETS WIN AGAIN— 6 STRAIGHT

San Rafael Military Academy's Cadets won their sixth straight game last night, downing the Lick Wilmerding footballers 19-7 on the SRMA field.

The Cadets (6-1) used their passing weapons in the first half and then went to the ground in the second half to post its Bay Counties League victory.

Scoring touchdowns for the league leading Cadets were Roger Ulrich on a 12-yard run, Mel Smith on a 45-yard pass from Tom Davis, and Mel Baruh on a 17-yard run. The 19th SRMA point was made on a kick by Ulrich. The lone Lick Wilmerding TD was scored by Jim Ward on a 2-yard run.

Wilt Paces Warriors To Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, now inches out of the National Basketball Association Western Division cellar, take on the leading Los Angeles Lakers tonight.

Wilt Chamberlain, playing only his third game since returning from a hospital bed, scored 52 points last night as the Warriors defeated the Eastern Division basement dwellers, the New York Knickerbockers, 133-127 in double overtime at University of San Francisco gym.

Chamberlain went all the way for the second time after recovering from an inflammation of the pancreas. He was called for goal tending on a last-second shot by Johnny Green that sent the game into overtime.

The score was tied 110-110 after regulation play and 118 - 118 after the first five-minute extra period.

Green led the Knicks with 32 points. Rookie Willis Reed scored 23.

Seldom used Warrior reserve George Lee scored 26 points in helping San Francisco to edge past idle Detroit into fourth place.

The 6-4 Lee, if he recovers from a slight charley horse, won a starting assignment tonight. Coach Alex Hannum called the performance of the five - year veteran the best since Hannum joined the club two years ago and the best by any Warrior forward this season.

Hannum said Chamberlain's work was "magnificent" since the 7-1 center obviously was tired. It was the first Warrior victory since Chamberlain's return and only the second for San Francisco this season as against six losses.

Tam Indians Down Marin Catholic Gridders, 26-14

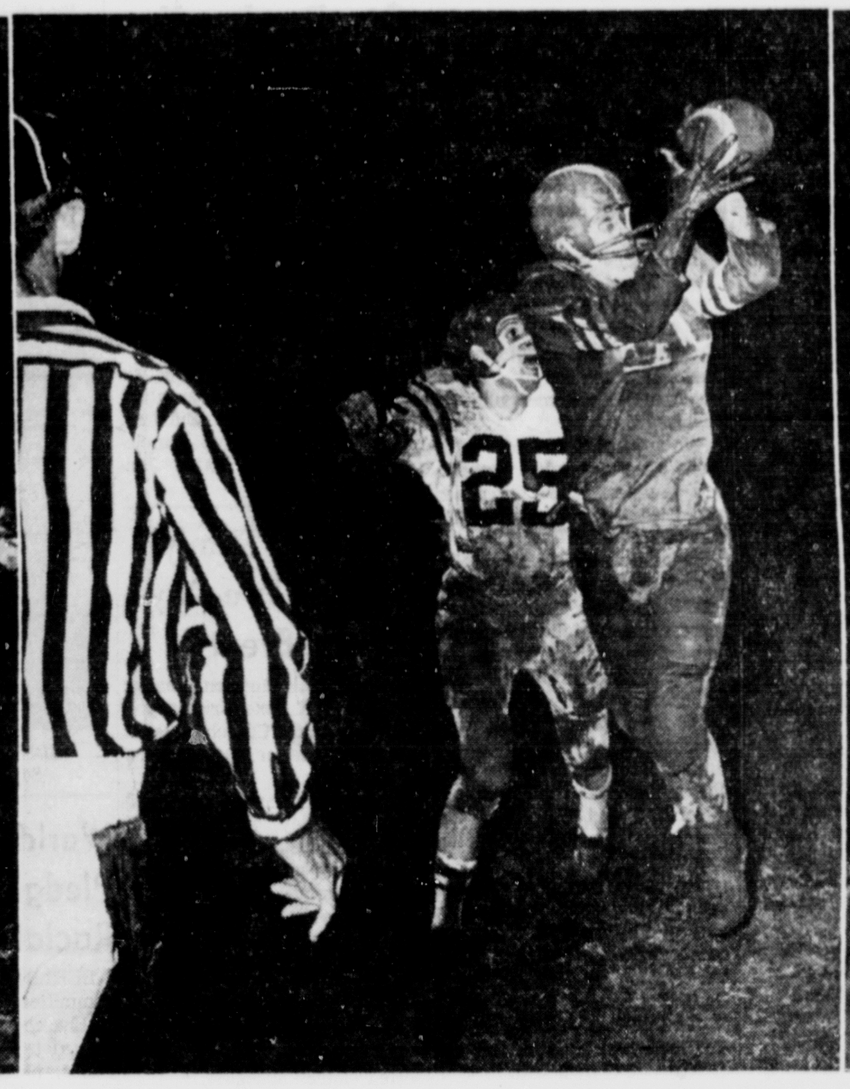

6-YARD GAIN — Tamalpais High School's Alex Robertson picks up six yards during the Indians' drive for their last touchdown against Marin Catholic High last night. Trying to make the tackle is Marin's Steve Carrino as Robertson gets set to jump over teammate Steve Hewett.

ROOM FOR TANK — Tamalpais' lineman open a wide hole in the Marin Catholic front wall, allowing Steve Hewett (center) to score a touchdown from the 5-yard line in the second period. This TD gave the Indians a 12-7 lead with six minutes left in the first half.

NECKTIED — Marin Catholic High School's Steve Carrino collars Tam's Alex Robertson after the Tam Indian back had picked up 8 yards in their game last night in Kentfield.

MUDDY TRY—Tam's Ron Turner tried for this catch last night as he reaches up a muddy hand, but the pass went incomplete. Breaking up the play was Marin Catholic's Rich Conner (25).

SHINE'S OPTION — Marin Catholic quarterback Bill Shine rolls out to his right trying to find a receiver in last night's game. Finding none, he ran and picked up eight yards. Chasing him is Tam's Alex Robertson. Putting on a one-man show, Shine picked up all of Marin's 175 yards running and passing.

Browns Face Pesky Skins In Key Contest Tomorrow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Washington Redskins aren't selling tickets for the National Football League championship game but their lightweight offense may hold the key to the Eastern Division title.

The Redskins meet first-place Cleveland tomorrow and the Browns, despite their two-game bulge, can't afford a letdown. They have back-to-back dates coming up against Western Division stalwarts Detroit and Green Bay and a loss to Washington conceivably could turn the Eastern race into a dogfight in the season's remaining five weeks.

Washington's attack ranks last in the league and the Redskins have dropped five of eight starts, including a 27-13 decision to the Browns in the season opener. But, with quarterback Sonny Jurgensen finding his groove after a slow start and rookie Charlie Taylor in good running form, they have beaten Chicago and Philadelphia in their last two games.

In tomorrow's other NFL games the Baltimore Colts go after their eighth straight victory and a tighter hold on the Western Division head against the floundering Chicago Bears; St. Louis, second in the East despite two straight setbacks, hosts Pittsburgh; Detroit, 1½ games behind the Colts in the West, visits Green Bay; Dallas is at New York, Philadelphia at Los Angeles and San Francisco at Minnesota.

BILLS-JETS

Buffalo's unbeaten Bills play the New York Jets; the San Diego Chargers meet the Denver Broncos and the Oakland Raiders tackle the Kansas City Chiefs in American League Sunday action.

The Boston Patriots nipped the Houston Oilers 25-24 last night when Gino Cappelletti booted a 42-yard field goal on the final play of the game.

Oakland Raiders Take On The Revived K.C. Chiefs

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs, revived by Len Dawson's return to top form, will try to reach the .500 break-even level against the Oakland Raiders here tomorrow and stay in the Western title race in the American Football League.

Dawson completed six touchdown passes last week in celebrating his return to the line-up. The Chiefs responded with a 49-39 victory over Denver, ending a three-game losing streak and giving them a 3-4 won-lost mark in the West compared to San Diego's 5-2-1.

Abner Haynes, veteran Kansas City running back, had a 197-yard day in rushing and pass receiving combined, second this season only to his 223-yard game at Oakland when the Chiefs won 21-9.

This earned Haynes The Associated Press Player of the Week citation.

The Chiefs got a box office boost with their best Monday ticket sale in the club's two-year history. Attendance dropped to 15,053 last week. Individual game advance sales have equalled last year, but 10,093 season tickets were sold this year compared to 15,583 last year.

Wildcats End '64 Season

By MAURICE WEINGER

Tamalpais, with halfback Steve Hewett striking for three touchdowns, used a fierce ground attack to defeat Marin Catholic 26-14, last night at Kentfield.

It was the Indians' second win in Marin Athletic League play against three losses while Marin suffered its sixth straight league defeat in the Wildcats' last game of the season.

Hewett was brilliant with runs that totaled 141 yards on 18 carries. He was assisted by teammate Alex Robertson, the big fullback who picked up 53 yards, most of them coming through the middle of the line for short yardage.

The Tamalpais pair was challenged by Marin Catholic quarterback Bill Shine for individual honors. Playing a single handed game for the second straight week, Shine carried the ball all but one time in the game and picked up 121 yards on the ground plus another 54 in the air.

Shine briefly put the Wildcats ahead for the first time this year in a league contest late in the first quarter when he engineered a 78-yard drive for a quick 7-6 lead, but the superior depth of the Indians told the tale as Hewett scored his second touchdown of the contest in the second quarter and Mike Holloway added a third in the second half to keep the Indians out of reach.

Tam, like every MAL team this season against Marin, scored when it got first control of the ball. It was on the third play from scrimmage after the Indians had picked up seven yards, when Hewett made his first six points. From his own 44, the speedster bulled through right guard on blocks by guard Marty Anthony and tackle Paul Austin and was home free for a 56 yard run.

Hewett wasn't through making life miserable as he starred in the team's second scoring drive. An intercepted pass by Hewett started the ball rolling from the Indian 45. Quarterback Randy Fontan loosened up the Wildcat defense with a 11-yard pitch to Ron Pedersen and Robertson highlighted the drive with a 19-yarder off right tackle for a first down on the 15.

Halfback Ray Stark got two and Robertson, playing back to last years potential, tried twice and made nine more for another first down on the four.

The call went to Hewett and Big Steve shot through right guard for the score.

In the third quarter a bad punt by Shine — good for only five yards — to the Marin 15 was the big edge in allowing Tam to increase its score to 19-7.

Robertson took his only loss of the game, a five yarder, but Hewett made that up quickly with a 70-yard burst off the end spot and added another yard on the next play. With a fourth down situation, Holloway, getting the ball off a fake to Hewett, dashed through left guard for the large lead.

The final Indian score was a beautiful exhibition of ball control. Starting from the Wildcat 44, Tamalpais stayed completely on the ground with Robertson and Hewett trading carries for 10 tries. Each of the players carried five times, the longest gain an eight-yarder by Robertson, as the pair kept going off either right guard or tackle and Hewett capped the drive with the last two yards.

Marin's brief fling into the leading column was made after the Indians' first score. It was Shine who got things going with passes to Larry Weiss, good for 19, and John Grady for 15. These two passes plus Shine's running had the ball down to the 21, but a 14-yard loss moved the ball back to the 35.

Shine then tried his potent quarterback sneak, but what a sneak. He found a wide hole over right guard and getting blocks by Weiss and center Rich Woodall outraced the Indian secondary.

Coming back in the third quarter after being down by 12 points, the Wildcats closed the gap to five, at 14-19, when Shine again surprised the Indians with another long run.

A tremendous punt by Robertson from his 45 sailed down to the M.C. eight yard line. Wasting no time at all, Shine found another opening between left guard and center and before any one reacted, was off and running with two Indian defenders in hot pursuit. Shine, with a five yard lead, was not touched on his way for the 92 yard run.

The points after work was performed by Hewett and Holloway on runs for Tamalpais and John Grady and Jim Tupper for the Wildcats.

In a preliminary, Tamalpais scored late in the last quarter to edge Marin 13-6 in a junior varsity contest.

Par Shooter Special

No hadicaps at this 3 BR home on the fairway. The large yard is done in the Oriental Motif, to match the house, and is beautifully arranged for almost no maintenance. A very attractive tea house under an old oak tree provides a restful spot after a hard day. A detached family room gives you a nice 19th hole at home. The contemporary arrangement of the rooms allows an easy flow of traffic throughout the house. Has all the goodies—plus extras. Ride your golf cart from garage to first tee.

Soften Rights Pleas, Rep. Powell Asks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, (D-N.Y.), says Negroes should drop their emphasis on civil rights and work for an enlarged national political role.

The Negro congressman predicted at a news conference yesterday that either Michigan or Massachusetts would become the first state to elect a Negro to the U.S. Senate—within a few years. And he called for more Negro office-holders at all levels.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Inge Story Suffers —It's Too Compressed

By RICK du BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Taking notes last night during William Inge's play for NBC-TV's Bob Hope Theater, which dealt with a society woman and her crude ex-baseball player husband, I scribbled: "Too compressed, too much without time to develop."

Later, I opened my file to the material about the drama, and found this quote by Inge concerning it in an interview: "I saw a rough cut of the film, and I am worried over whether it worked well enough within the time limit. An hour drama on TV is only 46 minutes, you know, and only one-half of my play is used."

Inge, whose works include "Bus Stop" and "Picnic," is, like any fine playwright, primarily concerned with character development, and there can be little doubt that television's butchery-by-the clock was the reason the hour turned out to be routine, despite the presence of Anne Bancroft. Every so often last night, suggestions of an attempt to reveal characters with dimension shone through, but, like a guillotine, video's underlying strategy of a racing plot-plot-plot chopped away at its essentials.

The drama began with the ex-baseballer (Jack Warden), no longer able to hit home runs, belting his wife (Miss Brancroft) instead, knocking her all over their bedroom, which is almost as strong an audience-grabber as having 50,000 Berbers on the attack. It seems that they love each other desperately, but Warden is insecure because of his social inadequacy and because he is a has-been, and Miss Bancroft is rather egocentric. Miss Bancroft's daughter by a former marriage, viewing this glimpse of married life on NBC-TV, decides to enter a convent.

As the wise young daughter, Lane Bradbury gave evidence of a worthy portrayal. In the hurried drama, however, the supremely talented Miss Bancroft was saddled with a part that at first suggested traces of masochism and perhaps even nymphomania, but later — without sufficient time for convincing development — suddenly and too patly found her altering herself for the good. And making a go of it with her husband. NBC says the story was set in St. Louis, where both the society life and the baseball players are unique..

Baby At Two Months Remembers Things

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Science can now say with reasonable certainty that by the time a baby is two months old it remembers what it sees, thanks to Dr. Robert L. Fantz's experiments with infants.

It had been a controversial point in science and one of key importance in efforts to solve the puzzle of the most puzzling of scientific subjects. This is, of course, the human being.

When greatly over-simplified the puzzle can be put in a few words. How does the relatively uncomplicated newborn eventually become the enormously complicated adult?

Psychological science is well aware that what the child makes of its environment and how it responds to these environment influences are being parts of the answer.

Some psychologists believe they are almost the whole answer and, furthermore, the infant begins mentally dealing with its environment practically at the moment of birth. Indeed, according to one psychological theory, mind-patterns that will endure for lifetimes are formed during the first year of life.

Fantz's concern was not with theory but with whether or not the infant has the wherewithal to make something of his environment. If he has it is easy to think it would be mainly the sense of vision because his eyes are open and active very soon after birth.

In his first experiments with infants Fantz found they moved their eyes and fixed them upon objects in no random manner but selectively which would lead you to imagine they picked out things of interest to look at, as adults do.

Next he demonstrated that they saw things clearly or at least clearly enough to distinguish objects and areas from others. Now he has advanced his findings to the critical level by showing that what is seen is remembered. That has to mean its mind is functioning.

His experimental apparatus is a chamber in which an infant lies on its back in a hammock. In the chamber's roof are illuminated openings in which cards are inserted. A peephole, permits a constant check on whether the infant fixes its gaze upon one or the other of the cards and a timing of how long his fixation lasts.

In the newest series of experiments—with 28 infants six to 25 weeks old — the cards bore either photographs or advertisements cut from magazines. They were selected to give a wide variety of patterns which were both complex and attention-calling.

Each infant had 10 sessions in the chamber. One card was in one or the other frame every time. But during each session the infant was shown another card it had never seen before. A record was made of which card it fixed its gaze upon for the longest time. In the infants younger than two months the statistical differences of looking at the seen-before and the entirely new were not impressive. But infants two months old and older progressively gave less attention to the seen-before card with each repetition. By the 10th session they were dismissing it as old-hat with hardly more than a glance and then fixing their baby stares on the new and novel.

Fantz experiments at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, with infants from a foundling home. In reporting to the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, he said it was now evident that "early visual explorations" could influence the development of the mind.

Victim Of Beating Unconscious 18 Days

Mrs. Mary L. Jones of 79 Cole Drive, Marin City, remained unconscious and in critical condition today, 18 days after she was the victim of a hammer attack in a parking lot near her home.

She has been in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital since she received severe head wounds in the attack, allegedly made by her estranged husband, J. D. Jones, 30, of 409 Drake Avenue, Marin City.

Low-Fat Diet Suggested For Ulcers

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — A team of doctors is now suggesting a cholesterol-lowering substitute menu for the famous milk-and-cream diet prescribed for ulcer patients for over 50 years.

The so-called modified sippy diet, composed of milk, cream, butter and eggs has come under suspicion as an added and maybe unnecessary risk in heart disease by a research team at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago.

The group, headed by Dr. Benjamin M. Kaplan, believes a corn oil and skim milk substiute may lower the risk of coronary heart disease by reducing the ulcer sufferer's blood cholesterol levels. The sippy diet is heavy in saturated fats, which are implicated as a possible factor in heart disease.

High levels of cholesterol have often been linked as a possible culprit in the development of hardening of the arteries, a prelude to heart attacks and strokes.

Corn oil contains polyunsaturated fats which can lower blood cholesterol if they are worked into scientific diet. Skim milk provides the nutrients in milk without the butterfat, the researchers noted.

A scientist from Toronto, Canada, said his review of autopsy records at leading medical centers in the U. S. and England suggested that the rate of heart attacks among ulcer patients treated with the sippy diet may be twice as high as among the general population.

In the Chicago study, Dr. Kaplan and his associates fed eight hospitalized peptic ulcer patients large portions of equal parts of milk and cream nine times a day for two weeks. During a second two-week trial, corn oil and skim milk were substituted for milk and cream.

At the beginning of the test, the group's average blood cholesterol level was 226 (the number of milligrams of cholesterol per 100 cubic centimeters of blood). After the milk and cream regimen the level rose to 244, but dropped sharply to 192 after the skim milk and corn oil program. This was more than a 20 per cent reduction.

The patients found the corn oil and skim milk mixture palatable, Dr. Kaplan said in a report to the American Heart Assn.'s annual meeting.

In another study reported to the association, Dr. C. Bruce Taylor of Evanston, Ill., demonstrated that humans, unlike dogs and other animals, lack the body mechanism to shut off the manufacture of body cholesterol.

Studies have shown that the liver in some animals regulates the amount of cholesterol in their blood. If they eat high-fat foods, the liver makes less cholesterol—thus holding the substance at a steady level.

Apparently no such control mechanism functions in man, said Dr. Taylor. The liver makes cholesterol at a regular rate. Thus, the more man eats, the heavier his blood cholesterol burden. He drew his conclusions from tests on volunteers who ate an on-again off-again cholesterol diet.

Victim Of Fire Grateful For Contributions

Mrs. Margaret Reed, whose San Anselmo home was destroyed by fire Oct. 27, today expressed her gratitude to Marin residents who contributed clothing, bedding and kitchen articles to help her and her four children recover from the loss.

Mrs. Reed told an American Red Cross social worker that the family has been living with her mother in Larkspur since the fire which claimed the life of her 10-month-old daughter, Darlene.

She said that they no longer had need for clothing or household items and thanked those who came to the family's aid.

Completes Phase

Airman Darryl G. Bellach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bellach of San Rafael, has completed the first phase of his Air Force basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., and has been assigned for technical training at Keesler AFB, Miss.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

No Matter What You Hear It Is Unlikely To Have Baby After 52

VAN DELLEN

We answered a query from a 54-year-old widow who has the opportunity to remarry but wanted to know what were her chances of getting pregnant. We replied that they were very slim because conception at this age would be a sort of medical record.

We received an old newspaper clipping from a reader, with a picture of a 59-year-old mother along with her newborn infant and 65-year-old husband. This Arkansas couple say the child was born to her in "answer to a prayer." The unsigned letter accompanying the story says: "Most doctors are not always right. We have saved this picture a long time to show it to someone."

THE MEDICAL profession hesitates to accept this type of evidence as scientific. Was this woman actually 59? Was the baby delivered at home or in the hospital? Who attended the birth? Medical science may be willing and waiting to give her credit for being the oldest woman to give birth but they need a few more facts to make the case history authentic.

Newspapers usually report what they are told by the participants but do not necessarily accept this type of information as the gospel truth. Physicians who have delivered thousands of babies report that pregnancy after 52 is unusual. We might assume that after that age, it is rare.

PRIOR TO 1900, several reports were published about women bearing children at age 58, 60, 61, 62, and 73 years of age. The record goes to the woman who died at the age of 112, leaving a daughter of 9 years. Most obstetricians take these stories with tongue in cheek because they occurred before births were registered, or the persons involved came from out of the way places.

Sometimes physicians err in giving information to the press. Many years ago the public was amazed to read about a 21-year-old Escanaba, Mich., girl who had been running a daily temperature of 120 degrees F. for several weeks. Several medicos were asked to comment and all said it was impossible. Finally, a team, including Dr. Morris Fishbein, was sent to investigate. All they had to do was watch her carefully while the reading was taken. They found she was putting the end of the thermometer on the hot water bottle next to her face.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

THE TRIGGERING STREP

REPLY

It is believed that streptococci set up an allergic state in susceptible persons. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on rheumatic fever.

REACTIVATING TB

G.E. writes: How can a person who has recovered from tuberculosis prevent breaking down again?

REPLY

The disease can be reactivated by lowering resistance through inadequate diet, alcoholism, overfatigue, and living under unhygienic conditions.

PROTEIN NONROUGHAGE

W.B. writes: Please name some good proteins I can eat. I'm not allowed rough foods.

REPLY

Meat, fish, fowl, eggs, cheese, and milk are good proteins.

GOUT IS CONTROLLABLE

REPLY

No. Gout is easier to relieve and control than other types of arthritis.

Today's Health Hint—Allergy is a common cause of puffy eyelids.

Cocktail Lounge Faces Bankruptcy

Bankruptcy proceedings were started in Federal District Court in San Francisco yesterday for The Library, a San Francisco cocktail lounge where customers could call each other on telephones at their tables. President of the stockholders of the business is Robert Fischer of 30 Central Court, Mill Valley.

The unique lounge was leased to Fischer, Alfred Young of 501 Canyon Drive, Novato, and Joseph Gannon of San Francisco.

Marin's Next City Predicted Here

Rolling hills surrounding this valley may be the site of Marincello, a self-contained city envisioned for Marin.

Nearby, but out of the picture, are lands that will be released from Forts Baker and Barry for development of a state park.

Known as the Marin Headlands, the park will provide picnic and camping facilities and give access to Kirby Beach.

The rock strewn water gives a good idea why sailors give this coast plenty of room when they enter or leave through the Golden Gate.

Roger Meyer's Arctic Vacation

By DON KEOWN

"Down the Mackenzie River by Boat."

"Three Months in the Northwest Territories."

"The Great Reindeer Round-Up."

Sound like the titles of boys' fictional adventure books?

Well, 12-year-old Roger Meyer of Belvedere could also use them to describe a true account of his summer vacation.

Roger, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Meyer of 217 San Rafael Avenue, Belvedere, and a sixth grade student at Covey Private School, Mill Valley, spent his summer within 100 miles of the Polar icecap.

ROGER accompanied his adventurous grandfather, 69-year-old Luther Meyer of Piedmont, a staff writer for the San Francisco News Call Bulletin, on the trip to the Far North.

In doing so, he became the youngest white man ever to navigate the treacherous waters of the Mackenzie.

Only the year before, Luther Meyer had made the same 1,100-mile trip alone by kayak.

With his red-headed grandson along, he relied this time upon a powerboat, a 16-foot aluminum Skimaster built by Trailorboat Engineering Co. of San Rafael, carrying two outboard motors — an 18-horse and a three-horse — and with a folded kayak lashed behind.

MEYER AND his grandson towed their boat by automobile to Great Slave Lake in Canada's Northwest Territories province. And from there, they pushed off in their boat.

Says Roger of the long voyage (they were three weeks on the water): "It wasn't bad, except when we ran into bad storms. Then there would be waves five feet high, and we would have to beach the boat."

There were also rapids to brave. Luther Meyer, putting his earlier experience on the same river to good use, picked his way around the worst of these perils.

For food, the man and boy relied primarily upon Indian bannock (dried meat) and canned goods.

"WE TRIED to catch some fish, but we didn't have much luck," Roger says. However, Indians and Eskimos living along the river gave them dried fish to supplement their diet.

The pair carried along a tent, and slept on air mattresses.

"We had a campfire only when we weren't near a village," Roger relates, "because we didn't want to attract visitors."

And finally, the two reached their destination, the town of Inuvik, still in the Northwest Territories and located at the head of the delta where the Mackenzie meets the Beaufort Sea. In this relatively modern administrative center, within 100 miles of the permanent Arctic icecap, the two made their headquarters for the remainder of the summer.

THEY CONTINUED to live in their tent, Roger says, "except for about three weeks when we stayed in the hotel."

Inuvik, the boy adds, offered such advantages as an airport and a power supply.

Their first stop there, however, was a brief one. Soon they were bound still further north for the outer delta, first to Reindeer Depot, named for the herds that abound and graze there.

One of the more lasting recol-

"STYLE AND FUNCTION IN RAINWEAR"

It is amazing the number of high styled fabrics you can find in rainwear garments today. And isn't it a relief to find style considered so importantly in the designing of rainwear? The day of the severe up-and-down raincoat is gone!

Question: Can you have style plus real rainproof function in a rainwear garment? You have to look hard to find water-repellent fabrics in exciting and appealing fabric design. Experts at the National Institute of Drycleaning realize that too often function is sacrificed. The fabric is not engineered and the garment is not constructed to give you everything you want.

Advice from the drycleaning experts: "Fashion is highly important and should not be underrated when you select your raincoat. But be certain to check if the fabric is treated with a durable water repellent finish. Permanent water repellency cannot be achieved unless the fabric is treated with rubber or plastic. Your drycleaner can re-treat a water repellent fabric. But you can get better re-treatment with a fabric that has been originally finished in the textile mill with a durable water repellent finish."

lections that Roger brought back from the Far North is the huge round-up and slaughter of reindeer by the Eskimos that he witnessed.

"IN FACT, I took part in the round-up," he says.

Was it fun?

"Well," he says, "it was pretty hard work."

The Eskimos, using a rifle, had originally planned to slaughter 3,000 reindeer, selling the meat in the village for profit and making a dog food from the entrails. The kill, however, was somewhat smaller than had been planned.

Roger had the experience of eating his first reindeer meat.

What did it taste like?

"LIKE HARD steak," the boy says, after some thought.

As a trophy, Roger brought back with him a set of reindeer antlers, measuring five feet across and standing five feet high. He hopes that, eventually,

Stereo Hi-Fi

By. C. J. Catania

JUST WHAT IS FM STEREO? Several people have asked if the high or treble tones come from one speaker and the low or bass tones come from the other speaker in a stereo system. The answer is no. Each of the two speaker systems in a stereo set, whether it is a stereo FM, or a stereo phonograph, or a stereo tape recorder, produce the full range of musical tones; that is, both the treble range and the bass range. The speaker systems reproduce the musicians that were on the left side of the recording stage from the left speaker, and the musicians that were on the right side of the stage from the right speaker. The effect of this is to place the musicians back in their respective playing positions, and thus give the listener a feeling of dimension. Having all of the sound coming from the small confined area of one speaker, as is the case with a monaural Hi-Fi set, destroys all of the dimensional qualities of the original performance.

The new art of FM stereo allows a listener to tune in one FM station (providing it is a stereo station) and enjoy the dimensional realism added by the two channel transmission. By means of complex electronic equipment at the transmitter, the FM stereo radio station is able to broadcast the left channel or speaker information and the right channel information on its one assigned frequency. Another electronic gadget in the listener's FM stereo tuner or receiver decodes the complex signal received from the FM transmitter and recreates the left signal and the right signal. This combination of events is called FM Multiplex Stereo.

If you have a stereo phonograph or tape system and wish to add FM stereo to your set, you should purchase an FM stereo tuner. An FM stereo tuner is a unit that contains only the tuning portions of a receiver, but also contains the multiplex unit for decoding the stereo signal. If you own a stereo tape recorder, you can build a library of stereo music by recording directly from an FM stereo tuner. You will have available almost every type of music that you may like—symphonies, operas, popular, jazz, folk music, and Broadway shows.

Increase your everyday enjoyment with an FM stereo music system.

SPRAWLING ACROSS THE prow of the boat in which he and his grandfather made their trip up the Mackenzie River, Roger Meyer enjoys a moment of relaxation. The scene is Inuvik, the town and administrative center on the Mackenzie Delta of Canada's Northwest Territories, where Luther Meyer and his grandson made their summer headquarters while they explored the surrounding regions.

In Sight Of The Polar Icecap

they will wind up mounted on the wall of his room.

The antlers share honors as a memento of his trip with the warm parka made for him by Eskimo friends.

The grandfather and grandson spent most of the two months during which they were virtually in the shadow of the icecap exploring and sightseeing, traveling by truck and boat, as Luther Meyer showed the boy what the Far North and its hardy people are like.

ONE TRIP, to Kendall Island, was made for the express purpose of joining in the white whale hunt by kayak and with camera. The Meyers arrived too late, however. They did, however, visit with the last Eskimo family group to return from the whale hunt, and camp with still another group.

What are some of the other memories the Marin boy brought back from his Polar journey?

Of the fantastic extremes in temperatures. "Sometimes it would get into the high 60s or even the low 70s in the daytime, then that very night, dip down to 20 degrees below zero." Sunny days were few.

Of an impromptu "hootenanny" in the Arctic midnight, with an Eskimo strumming Luther Meyer's uke, Luther playing that man's sax and Roger joining the Eskimos in the singing.

OF VISITING an ancient archeological site where their finds included the skull of a woman whose teeth, apparently, had been worn down by the chewing of hides to soften them for clothing.

Of making friends with merry Eskimo boys, one of whom insisted on gifting him with a shoulder patch that had cost the 13-year-old $2 and must have represented the wages of weeks at the Hudson's Bay Co. store where he helped cut.

Of meeting Alex Stefansson, the half-Eskimo son of the famed explorer Vilhjalmur Stefansson. The son, now in his 50s, was making his living trapping in the bush.

Of sighting the gleaming icecap, both from boat and plane.

OF MEETING Indian boys who showed him how to make a tiny but efficient fire swiftly with birch and chips, and who told how they had learned to shoot and hunt at 7, and of hitching their dogs to a sled and hauling wood across the river in the winter.

Of Canadian Mounties in uniform and on horseback.

Of listening to the stories of Sam Raddy, a blind Eskimo who had killed polar bear and seal and trapped the Arctic fox before going blind at 27.

Of being at the wheel of the boat as they navigated the Mackenzie, once for eight hours at a single stretch.

Of visiting Hershel Island where Roald Amundsen once wintered.

OF THE TIME their boat became badly stuck in the shal-

PARTICIPATION IN A "reindeer round-up" was a high-point of the adventurous summer vacation spent by Roger Meyer in the Canadian northlands. At Swimming Point, north of Inuvik, Eskimo Stanley Keevick, a herder, ropes and holds a deer. The second herder holds a rifle with which to slaughter the animal for its meat and hide.

lows of the Mackenzie Delta with a storm coming up. Luther Meyer credits his grandson with a big assist in freeing the vessel. And the storm, during which winds of up to 85 miles an hour swamped other boats, forced them to stay ashore and move inland for three days and nights.

Of his grandson's conduct throughout the long and sometimes strenuous expedition, Luther Meyer says: "He was a brick. He handled his share of the work all the way."

In addition to the cooking, the pitching of the tent and other camp chores, Roger also took his share of responsibility for the boat. They took turns operating their three cameras and tape recorder.

Says the grandfather: "I fear Roger is so full of impressions that it may be hard for him to get a clean-cut recall."

AN ESKIMO boy holds the skull of an Eskimo woman, found during a visit by Luther and Roger Meyer to an archaeological site. The teeth of the woman had been ground down, apparently by the custom of chewing skins to make them more supple for use as clothing.

ONE OF THE sadder recollections of both the grandparent and grandchild is of the northwoodsman and trapper Johnny Tetso, with whom they stayed. "A fabulous character," says Roger of Johnny, who made violins as a hobby and who wrote a booklet, "Trapping Is My Life," about his occupation.

Shortly after the Meyers had been guests of Johnny Tetso on their way up the Mackenzie, they learned of his untimely death at 44. Roger felt a special sympathy for Johnny's 13-year-old son, Ernest.

And among his prized possessions is a copy of the booklet written by the Indian trapper, who, although he completed only four grades of schooling, presented a vivid picture of the rugged and exhilarating life he loved so much.

WHEN IT came time for Luther Meyer and his grandson to leave the Arctic and sub-Arctic, they flew out. Their boat came out by barge. And they towed it home, reaching Marin the evening of Oct. 17.

Luther Meyer estimates their total mileage thusly: Eight thousand miles by car, and perhaps 1,200 miles, each, by air and water.

For Meyer, the trip was not too unusual. Not only had he made it before in the smaller kayak, but he once wintered in the fierce conditions of the Antartica during his adventurous career.

Nor was being away from American comforts an entirely new experience for young Roger.

He has toured the world with his parents, and once lived with them for a year in Indonesia, traveling extensively in that island country.

HE DIDN'T miss the television set while in the Northwest Territories, he says. "I don't watch it very much at home, anyway. My studies take up too much time."

And he took with him a set of books—all children's classics.

But he admits that "I did miss my home and the folks."

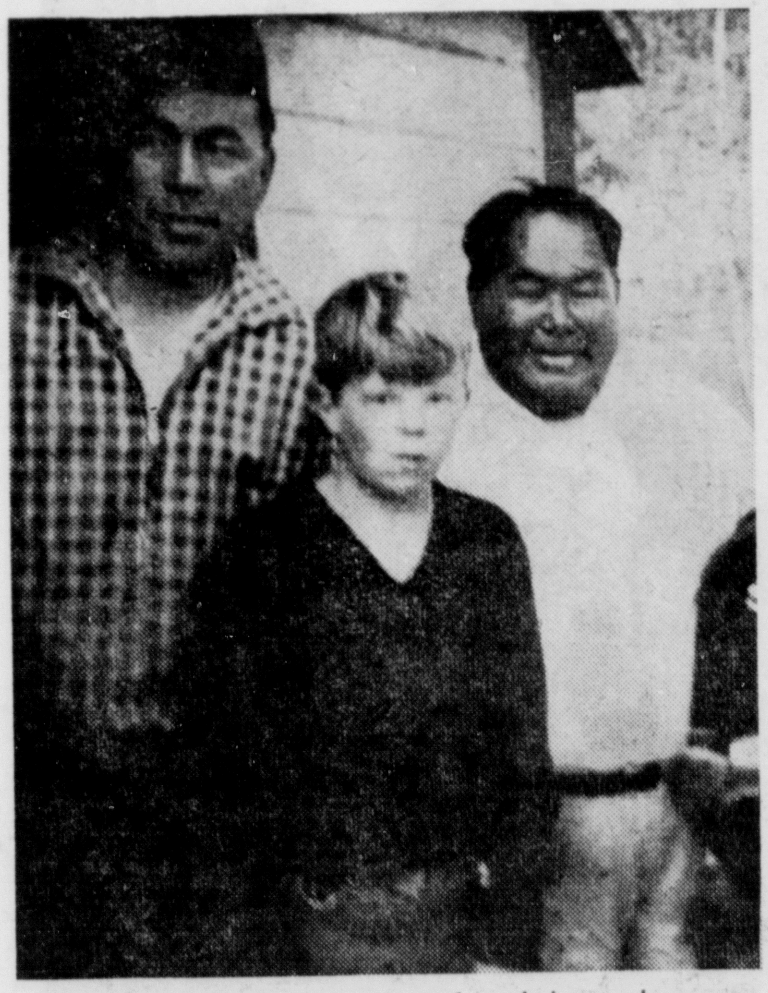

Would he want to go again?

He gives that some thought before answering. "Well, it was a pretty tough summer. But I might want to go again in two or three years."

HIS ARRIVAL home in mid-October meant that Roger had missed several weeks of the 1964-65 school term.

But his teacher, Mrs. Lucille Covey, also principal of the Covey School, didn't mind.

"He received a better education there than he could ever obtain in a classroom," she says.

Suzanne's Little Helper

Two-Year-Old Nancy Stranzl Senses The Needs Of Her Stricken Sister

By LESLIE CAMERON

With the strange inner knowledge little ones feel for each other, two-and-a-half-year-old Nancy Stranzl has been handmaiden to her four-and-a-half-year-old sister Suzanne, since Nancy's own first birthday.

Mrs. Richard Stranzl of Corte Madera first noticed this interaction between her two oldest children just about a year and a half ago.

They were driving home from an errand and Suzanne's head drooped to one side. Without asking what was needed, one-year-old Nancy cradled her sister's head in her arms and held her that way until they got home.

BEHIND THAT first gesture of awareness lies the story of Suzanne, a little girl who, at eight months of age, was able to lift her head, to roll over in her crib, to wave her arms and legs, and to reach out and take hold of objects as they were offered.

Then—what seemed suddenly, but must have been gradually—Suzanne simply went limp. She couldn't roll over any more. She couldn't lift her head. She couldn't wave her arms and legs.

There followed a series of examinations by pediatricians, tests by nerve specialists, more consultations, more tests, and finally the diagnosis: Suzanne has an incurable nerve and muscle disease in which the muscles just waste away.

"DICK AND I planned to have a large family," Mrs. Stranzl says, "and even though the doctors warned us that Suzanne's trouble might be hereditary, we didn't realize how serious a chance we might be taking.

"I guess it wasn't until our fourth youngster was on his way that we thought we might be pushing our luck a little."

Meanwhile, Suzanne was 21 months old when Nancy was born, and Nancy's progress became the delight of Suzanne's life. It also brought up a couple of tough situations.

"WHEN NANCY began to stand, Suzanne wanted to stand, too," Mrs. Stranzl relates. "I did the only thing I could. I held Suzanne in a standing position alongside of Nancy. After a few minutes she was satisfied with that.

"When Nancy started to walk Suzanne wanted to walk, too. I held her upright and moved her legs just as you would move a doll's legs.

"We can only explain to Suzanne that God does these things sometimes to bring us closer to Him. That seems to comfort her, and it's the best we can do right now."

NANCY TAKES helping Suzanne as a matter of course. If Suzanne's head falls to one side Nancy knows her sister can't do anything about it, so she matter of factly goes over and straightens it.

Now one-and-a-half-year-old Stevie gets into the act by running errands for things Suzanne wants.

Suzanne goes out trick-or-treating with the youngsters in the neighborhood. There, again, is that inner knowledge of children: They don't feel that her wheelchair gets in the way. She's just swept along with the same enthusiastic rush as the rest of them.

Last year she was a clown, this year a fairy princess.

BECAUSE Suzanne's problem is a neuro-muscular one, it is part of the world-wide research studies supported by the Muscular Dystrophy Assns. of America.

Closer to home, much of what makes Suzanne's daily living full and productive is the help offered by the Marin County Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Assns., and the work done by and with the children at the Marindale School in Terra Linda.

"We didn't know anything about the school or the Marin chapter of MDA until we moved to Corte Madera last year," Mrs. Stranzl says. "Then it was like being taken into a big, understanding family.

"AS SOON as the chapter heard about Suzanne, it offered us a wheelchair. We didn't even realize we needed one—but we knew we needed something. Suzanne had already outgrown strollers.

"At first Dick wouldn't hear of taking the wheelchair. He thought it was charity, and he didn't want any part of it. Finally, he came around when he understood how the money was raised, and what was done with it. Now Dick and I, and all our relatives, of course, give more to the March for Muscular Dystrophy than any other drive for funds. We get more than we can ever give.

"It's a wonderful thing to know you're not just one hopeless family floundering around for the answers. Prayer helps, and MDA helps, and, corny as it may sound, the best move we ever made was to come to Marin County to live."

SUZANNE CAN neither walk nor sit up without a full body brace.

But she is a smiling little girl and, at Marindale School, she is well ahead mentally of many children her age. Despite the weakened arm and hand muscles, she can propel herself for short distances in her wheelchair. She has learned to operate her record player. She does coloring with crayon and paint. And she manages to fill her days with these sit-still activities.

As Marin County Poster Child for the Muscular Dystrophy Assn., she is presiding over several special events held in conjunction with the agency's annual November fund drive.

And the wheelchair from which she presides is in itself testimony of the good use to which contributions to the association can be put.

LITTLE NANCY Stranzl entertains her sister, Suzanne, with a lively bit of dancing on the green. Suzanne, who cannot walk, derives a special enjoyment from watching other children dance and run. But there are many other ways in which Nancy assists and comforts her older sister. There is, their mother, Mrs. Richard Stranzy of Corte Madera, says, a kind of special empathy between her two little daughters. (Photo by Phil Planert)

THE CONTRAST between the old and new in telephones is demonstrated for you by Jackson G. Sauers of Mill Valley, whose hobby is collecting antique phones. In his hand, he holds a sleek modern instrument. On the wall can be seen just some of the 30 antique telephones from various lands that make up his collection. He started his collection 10 years ago. (Independent-Journal photo)

The Man With 30 Telephones

By BRUCE COLEMAN

One Christmas about 10 years ago Jackson G. Sauers of Mill Valley received an antique telephone from his wife with the suggestion by her that the appliance might be converted to a planter.

This was never to be.

Instead, it started Sauers on a hobby of collecting telephones from around the world. He has 30 now—from as far away as Norway and Portugal and as close as two redwood ones from San Francisco.

WITH SO many phones, each with its own bells, Sauers' neighbor, Don Orlandi, likes to kid Sauers, saying, "How can you tell which phone to answer?"

"I know my bells," replies Sauers.

The telephonist makes his livelihood as head of Jackson's Beauty Salon at 80 Throckmorton Avenue, Mill Valley.

The Christmas gift was hung in Sauers' studio, where he works on another hobby, wood sculpture, until one day he opened it up for curiosity.

"IT INTRIGUED ME," says Sauers. "The wiring was there and needed some reconditioning. I thought I would re-wire it and recondition it."

He says he did research in books from the library, talked to some telephone workers and wrote to the president of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Not only the inside of a telephone gets reconditioned, but the outside, too.

"They are usually very dirty when I get them," says Sauers. "So I sand them down and dress them up. If some parts are missing, I replace the parts and, if I can't find a part, I make it."

Sauers searches for telephones in junkyards, salvage shops and, occasionally, antique shops—and he also has put out about 100 "feelers" for them, including to spots such as Russia and Red China.

ALL OF HIS 30 telephones are in working condition but only four are hooked up. These four are tied-in between Sauers' den, garage and studio. None are tied into an outside line, however.

"These phones are not compatible to our modern electronic methods," he says. "You must have mechanisms which are compatible. You are not allowed (by the telephone company) to hook them up in their natural working order, but persons have been given permission to use them when properly rigged."

Sauers does have a regular telephone extension from his house in his studio by which he can communicate with the outside world.

ASKED HOW he feels psychologically about the telephone's insistent ring, he replies, "I like the telephone away from work."

He adds that "the Chinese call the telephone the instrument of death."

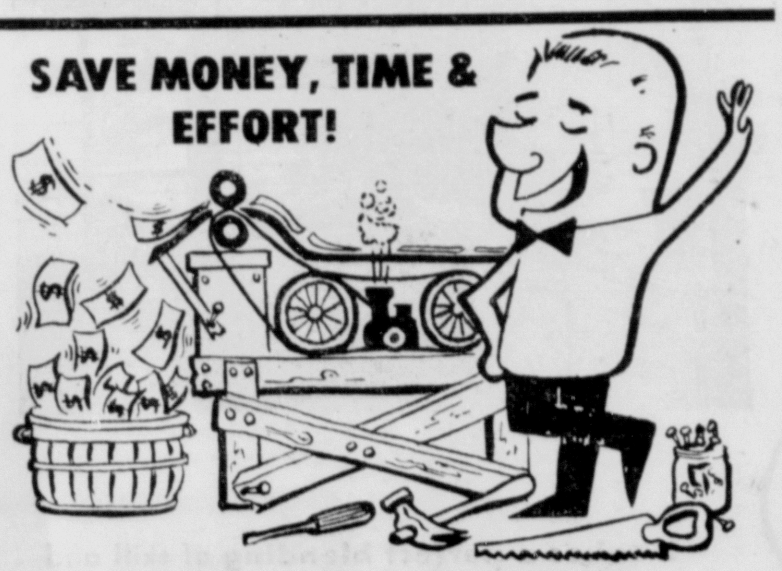

"The telephone is strictly an American institution," continues Sauers. "It started here in 1876 and spread to all parts of the world. The first telephone was made in 1875 and called the gallows telephone. It reminds you of a gallows."

The Canadian phone which started Sauers' collection is a 1917 Century phone. Sauers said bells are musical," he adds, turning the crank.

The Portuguese phone is pink with gold metal parts. Sauers also has a telephone from Denmark.

he was fascinated when first working on it and connected it to an old surplus phone. His next phone he got from Santa Rosa.

THIS ONE, he says, pointing to his "studio hot line" in his den, came from Oregon. "It was lying on a junk heap. The bells were corroded. The wiring was corroded. I stripped the bells and cleaned it all up. It was made in 1895 and has an oak cabinet."

He illustrates the crank ringer with a "br-ing, br-ing."

A 1901 Kellogg American telephone is on the wall of Sauers' garage. It has a long Victorian, gold-painted mouthpiece and a note shelf for taking messages. He says he got this telephone from Wyoming through a friend.

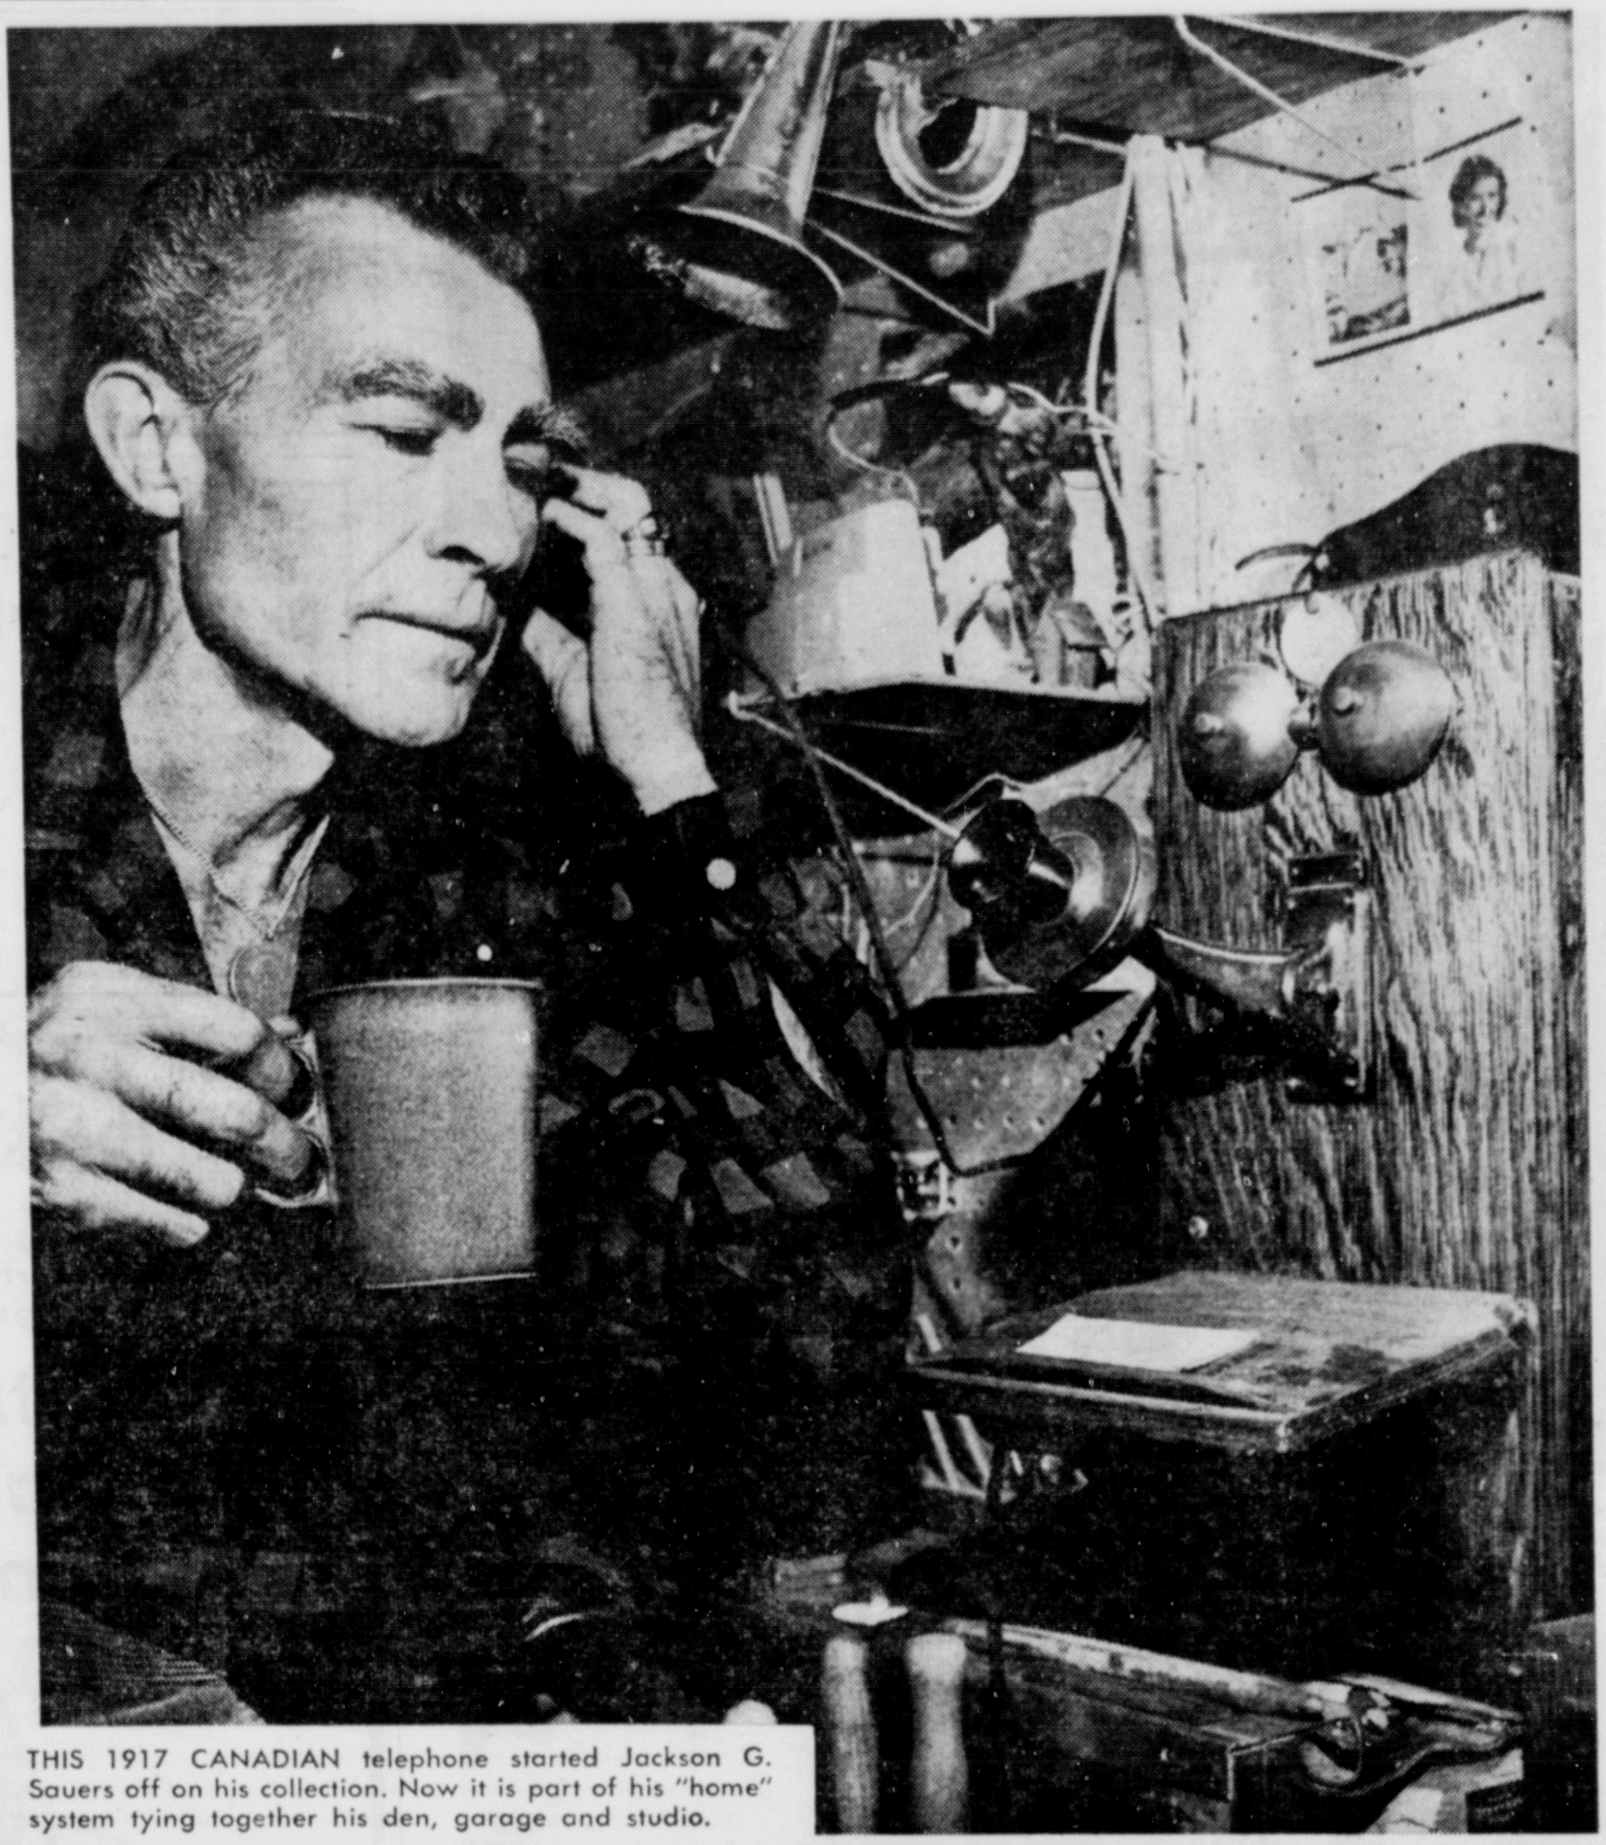

"IT WAS missing a couple of parts which I had to replace."

The Canadian telephone in Sauers' studio is used when he is doing his carving while a Swedish telephone is used across the room at what he calls his "telephony desk."

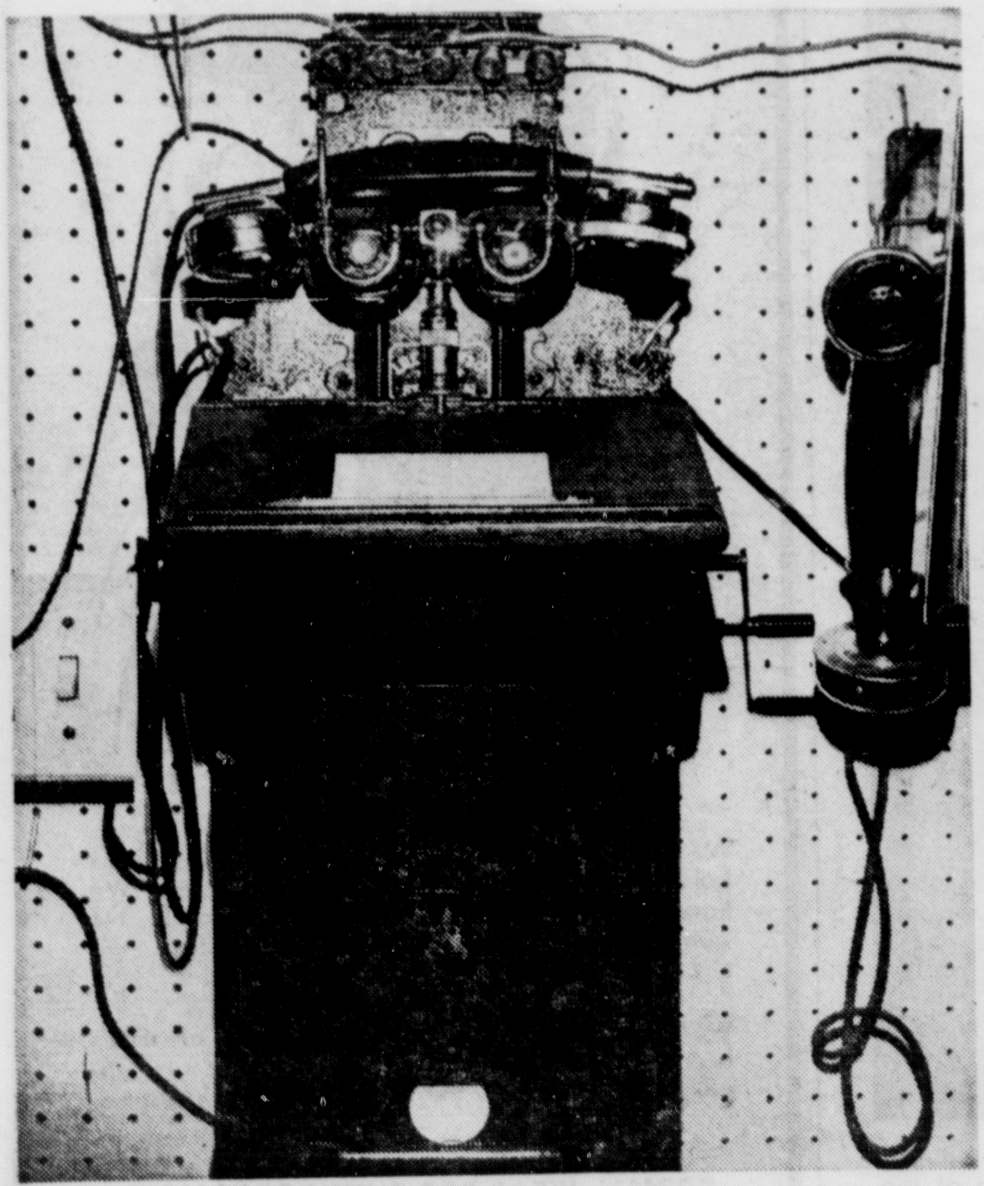

SAUERS SENT to Pennsylvania for his Swedish model, costing him $30. "The Swedish and Portuguese are my favorites," he says.

"There is so much work and detail in them. The Swedes are sticklers for mechanism. The

THIS 1917 CANADIAN telephone started Jackson G. Sauers off on his collection. Now it is part of his "home" system tying together his den, garage and studio.

THIS SWEDISH MODEL, from Pennsylvania, is, along with the Portuguese phone, the personal favorites of collector Jackson G. Sauers.

A VICTORIAN MOUTHPIECE, gold painted, is a feature of this 1901 Kellogg American telephone attached to the wall of the Sauers' garage.

JACKSON G. SAUERS is never happier than when he's surrounded by the mementos of his telephone-collecting hobby. Here the telephonist takes a brief break to read some of his correspondence. He sends letters througout the world in quest of telephones that he particularly desires as additions to his collection. And quite often, the letters result in rare finds. tion, pinned to walls of his studio, Sauers points out his largest telephone.

IT IS AN American, made by Chicago Telephone Supply Co., and is 32 inches tall.

"I don't know why they made them so big," he says. "I guess it is just the style."

One instrument, a Federal, was used in a mine in the Mother Lode country, says Sauers. It has an all-metal case so it could be used underground and not be subject to fires and corrosion. Its birthdate is 1900.

Transmitters and receivers were joined in one piece in 1927, says the telephonist, showing these types. One telephone was used on dairy ranches to enable persons to call from milkhouse to barn. It, too, is of metal for wear, and was used in the 1930s.

TWO PHONES found in a Novato junk shop are twins. Made by Western Electric Co. in San Francisco, the cabinets are of redwood.

Sauers has a Monophone Co. telephone which he says was used in shipyards, and five black American telephones of rubber and plastic material which he says are not in use any more.

He explains that there are four main types of telephones in his collection—the wall magneto type, upright desk, French style (so called because it was fashioned after a French model) and the desk phone with an extension arm which Sauers says was used in manufacturing centers and offices and "by wild reporters."

SAUERS lives at 74 Nelson Avenue with his wife, Louise, a secretary.

He is an active sculptor, preferring to work with wood he finds on beaches or in the woods. He belongs to the Marin Society of Artists.

"Happy is he who works with his hands and has faith," is a motto of his, carved in wood, standing on his work bench.

Sauers says he knows of no one who has a telephone hobby such as his—although he knows of several people who buy old telephones and then tear out the insides and use them for a planter or install a radio in them.

"I think this is a crime," he laments.

The magneto phone, says Sauers, used the crank for the party line.

"A ring and one-half and Mrs. Jones got on and wanted to see what her friend was saying to Mrs. Smith down the way. The battery in the telephone gives you voice."

"I'M NOT mechanically inclined," admits Sauers. "I have been in the art field all my life. This is more technical than mechanical."

He remarks that sometimes the insides of the telephones are scrambled as if a child had played with them. And some are just shells, he adds.

Sauers says there are a number of companies manufacturing telephones in the United States.

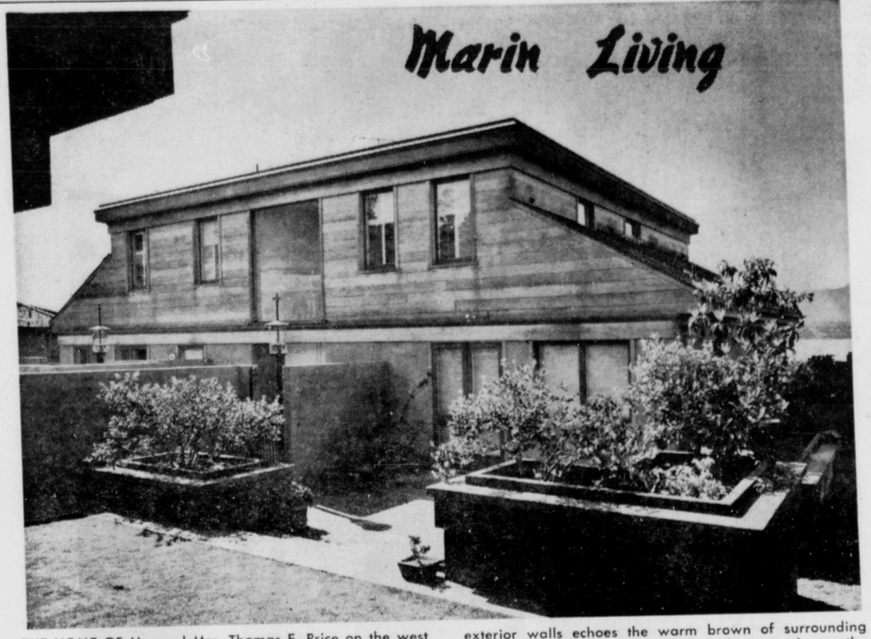

Asked if he had any special rings for his wife on his intercom, Sauers answers with a smile: "It depends on what mood I'm in.

"SOMETIMES I give an angry ring. I also have a pleasant ring. When I get hungry I have a pleasant, loving ring. Rings can be controlled through the force you apply to the crank."

Whether the ring is short, long, angry or loving, Sauers certainly knows his bells.

THE HOME OF Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Price on the west shore of Belvedere Island combines stucco and redwood through both the interior and exterior. A warm ocre on exterior walls echoes the warm brown of surrounding hills in their summer dress. Oak leaf green trim on the window and door frames create a fresh accent and contrast. Architect Joseph Montgomery designed the house.

A MOST IMPRESSIVE architectural feature of the Thomas Price residence is the spacious entrance hall that serves as a focal point for the lovely view. From this hall, direct access is available to any part of the attractive and well-planned home. (Photos by Ken Molino)

THERE'S A JAPANESE feeling to the setting that surrounds the Thomas E. Price home on Belvedere Island. The ever-changing waters of Richardson Bay and serene Mount Tamalpais contribute to the atmosphere. The house, built by Price's own Price Building Specialties of San Francisco, features soaring windows that make possible dramatic glimpses of both bay and mountain.

A Showplace Home On Belvedere's Western Shoreline

One of the loveliest of the new homes that have sprung up along the west shore of Belvedere Island is the striking residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Price.

The Prices can take special pride in their waterside home. For the builder was Price Building Specialties of San Francisco.

And Thomas E. Price is the president of Price Building Specialties.

ARCHITECT Joseph Montgomery incorporated architectural strength, simplicity and elegance into the house, which sets in surroundings that provide a close vista of the ever-changing waters of Richardson Bay, and a more distant view of serene Mount Tamalpais.

Soaring windows, that add to the contemporary spirit of the design, make possible full enjoyment of both the water and mountain views.

Stucco and redwood have been combined and blended with pleasing effect in both the interior and the exterior of the showplace home.

Low maintenance landscaping in aggregate-paved walled courtyards provide the Prices with a sheltered spot for their outdoor living when winds are blowing.

THE INTERIOR of the home is both comfortable and attractive. And the decor is given added luster by the original paintings that the Prices have collected. Skylights keep the rooms light and cheery throughout the day.

Montgomery's architectural plan makes the spacious entrance hall the home's focal point. From it, direct access to every point of the house is available.

The Prices are busy people, and their attractive home serves as a happy base for their active lives.

BOTH ENJOY tennis at the Tiburon Peninsula Club where Price has served as president for two years.

He is now a member of the Belvedere City Council, and an active member of the Christian Science Church.

His wife Jeanne includes the Audubon Society among her many interests.

BOTH BELONG to the Principia College Alumni and Principia Patrons group.

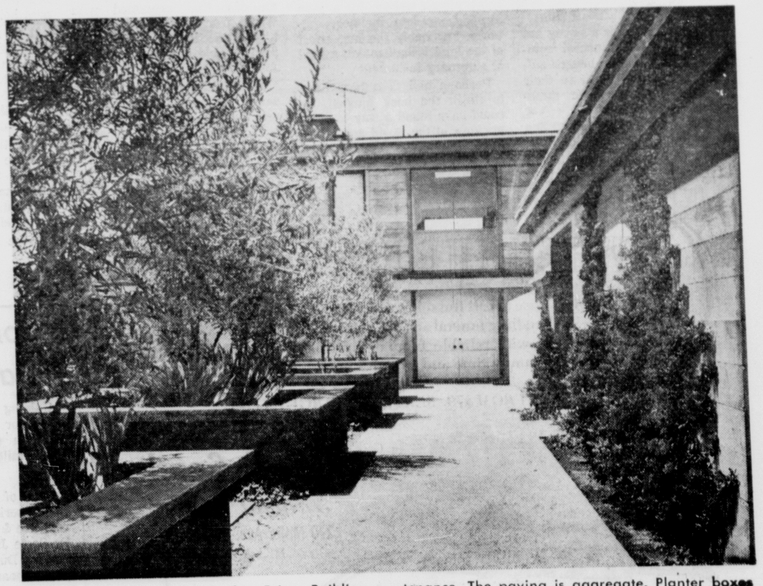

And both are convinced that their home is the ideal spot in which to relax and to enjoy Marin's magnificent scenery—the kind of sanctuary which even the busiest of us needs for the refreshment of body and spirit.

INTERIOR WALLS of off-white stucco combine with dark brown floors of hardwood or cement tile throughout the house. Of special interest is the generous use of skylights to lighten dark corners and create dramatic highlights in strategic places throughout the house.

THE LIVING ROOM of the Price home is comfortable — and private. The color scheme of blue and white in the fabric is set off by the acid notes of mustard yellow and complimented by the original paintings that the Prices enjoy collecting. Book storage has been carefully integrated into the walls, to become a part of the overall decor. Floors here are brown hardwood.

WALLED COURTYARDS of the Price Building Specialties-constructed home occupied by the firm's president and his family provide shelter from prevailing winds and require little maintenance. The paving is aggregate. Planter boxes are dramatic, and contain sturdy, decorative olive trees, pyracanthas, etc. A collection of handsome specimen dwarf trees lines the waterfront.

Serious Humor

BEYOND THEOLOGY by Alan Watts, Pantheon, 236 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

The subtitle, "The Art of Godmanship," alerts us to the vein of humor running through this unscholarly book on metatheology.

Marinite Dr. Watts approaches his subject as though he were the court jester of Heaven, stripping away all our hypocritical nonsense, for who can resist the power of humor?

His underlying theme is, of course, serious.

He says, "My regret is rather that we shall never see the rich potentialities of this way of life fulfilled, nor realize that the Christian mythos has the possibility of blooming into the most joyously exuberant, swinging, colorful, and liberated religion there ever was. Heaven need not wait for the grave."

In "Beyond Theology" he says, "A Christian should study Buddhism so as to get a deeper comprehension of Christianity."

This statement reminds me of his earlier comment in "The Way of Zen": "I am not in favor of 'importing' Zen from the Far East, for it has become deeply involved with cultural institutions which are quite foreign to us. But there are things which we can learn, or unlearn, from it and apply in our own way. It has the special merit of a mode of expressing itself which is as intelligible—or perhaps as baffling—to the intellectual as to the illiterate, offering possibilities of communication which we have not explored. It has a directness, verve, and humor, and a sense of both beauty and nonsense at once exasperating and delightful. But above all it has a way of being able to turn one's mind inside out, and dissolving what seemed to be the most oppressive human problems into questions like 'Why is a mouse when it spins?' At its heart there is a strong but completely unsentimental compassion for human beings suffering and perishing from their very attempts to save themselves."

Alan Watts' feelings about Zen as expresed in the quotation above match my feelings about his latest book, "Beyond Theology."

MARIN scholar and philosopher Dr. Alan Watts puts his wit and analytical ability to work on metatheology in his new book, "Beyond Theology," just published by Pantheon.

Summary Testament

COLD FRIDAY by Whittaker Chambers, edited by Duncan Norton-Taylor, Random House, 325 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Jeff Greer.

Cold Friday is the name of a hill and field on the remotest reaches of Whittaker Chambers' farm in the uplands of Maryland. To the farm—and to Cold Friday—Chambers retreated to overview a life that had included days as a communist and days of revulsion during and after the Alger Hiss case, and to spy out what had happened to the world.

Earlier, in his book "Witness," Chambers touched on his personal involvement with communism and reaction against it. "Cold Friday" is a posthumous collection of notes, letters, and short pieces written by a man already stricken by heart attacks, "probably the last effort of the kind I shall make, a kind of summary testament . . ."

Perhaps had Chambers lived to finish the book himself, he could have found a way to unify his view of the world and of humanity's masses from Cold Friday's heights. As it is, the images blur, overlap and shimmer, now shining bright, now murky.

THE LATE Whittaker Chambers left behind notes, letters and short pieces that have been assembled into a book, "Cold Friday," and published by Random House.

As literature, "Cold Friday" is beautiful, even moving reading. But its main message can come only to the reader who knows in other ways, of the sweeping dramas and the sordid back-stage vignettes of the world-wide revolution and anti-revolution, of the struggle for men's minds and men's bodies that Chambers strives to paint into a pattern of truth.

Particularly fascinating, in view of the recent election, is the section of "Cold Friday" labeled "A Man of the Right." It is a series of letters written from 1954 to 1958, after Fortune magazine asked him to define his "conservative position."

Chambers argues that today's world is not the West versus communism, that communism is but one phase of Western culture's great revolution against an era that crumbled with World War I. The pace of history is accelerating; the final plunge could come instantly, he says.

The West, communist or free-world, has become enmeshed in materialism, Chambers worries, but sickens without spiritual values.

The ex-communist paints surely and vividly in damning communism, but when he tries to portray a vigor and a salvation in conservatism, it seems to us his brush strokes become blurred, often overlaid, and muddied in color.

Perhaps the Gestalt of Whittaker Chambers—or at least the word-picture he wants the world to see—is that of one who is not willing to give loyalties to conservatism nor to the left, but only to humanity and in the ultimate to the individual's compulshion to exist—or more than that—to live.

PLAYWRIGHT and actor, Bill Gunn writes about the show business world he knows so well in his new novel, "All the Rest Have Died." Delacorte Press is the publisher of the first novel.

An Actor's Story

ALL THE REST HAVE DIED by Bill Gunn, Delacorte Press, 220 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

Gunn, an actor and playwright, manages to tell the story of a young actor in New York that is devoid of the usual show business hokum.

It is rather an intense, personal and revealing look at one young man named Barney Gifford, a Negro from Philadelphia, who enters the theatrical world and finds not only a little success, but a lot about himself.

As fitting a playwright, his dialogue is crisp and true, but beyond this he has shown a strong hand in penetrating characterizations and a definite flair for mood.

Above all, Gunn has accomplished what is seldom accomplished or even attempted. He has written a novel about Negroes and whites without writing a novel about race.

Sometimes the going's a little wild, but Gunn gives even the melodramatic, a sense of reality.

Seashore Guide

TIDE POOLS & BEACHES by Elizabeth Clemons, Alfred A. Knopf, 79 pages, $2.95. Reviewed By Donald G. Davis.

Let's go to the seashore, not to get a tan or play in the sand but to observe life in the tidal waters. Let's go, and take this short, easily read and nicely illustrated book with us.

Mrs. Clemons, wife of a retired Navy admiral, has traveled the world, and never has been far from the sea. Now, although a resident of Monterey County, she has written about sealife on both the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

Do you know how to find a sand dollar? How do you preserve a starfish? What are the different kinds of seaweed?

Mrs. Clemons answers these questions and leads our interest to other things at the beach. Next time you go beach-combing, hunting for seashells or fishing take this little hardcover book along.

She even suggests that you collect bottles of sand, search for fossils or valuable stones such as jade.

There's nothing deep or difficult about this book. It's serious but fun. Fine for children, but interesting to all ages.

COCKTAIL PARTY FOR THE AUTHOR by Alex Jackinson, Challenge Press, 267 pages. $4.95. Reviewed by Barbara Hosmer.

Though the title sounds like something from a frothy novel, this is the story of the work of a literary agent—in this case the author himself. And while it may be of more than routine interest to an aspiring writer, generally the information is only mildly captivating and the anecdotes fairly entertaining or instructive. Still, Jackinson does allow the casual reader a little insight into how books and magazine articles get published in an increasily competitive market.

Some Storybooks That Are Tailored For Little Hands

Gaining popularity among books for tiny tots are publications in extremely small formats, tailored to fit the littlest hands.

Part of the "Lothrop Little Book" series published by Lothrop, Lee & Shepherd is "Teddy" by Grete Janus with pictures by Roger Duvoisin ($2.50). The pages measure only six-by-four-and-a-half inches. It tells the story of one of the favorites of the nursery set—the teddy bear. The pictures will attract the 3-year-old and younger, while the simple words will be comprehensible to the very beginning reader.

Even smaller are the "Mail-Me-Books" published by Random House (no price listed). Their pages are only four inches by four-and-a-half inches. Sample title: "The Littlest Mother Goose," with popular illustrator Charlotte Steiner providing some very charming and gay colored pictures for 12 delightful nursery verses.

'King Of Safecrackers'

The dedication of H. E. Wilson's book "Rogues . . . All of Us" reads:

"To Dr. Leo L. Stanley, chief physician of San Quentin, who knew personally all of the characters delineated in this book."

Dr. Stanley, who retired from his prison position in 1951 after 35 years, agrees: "Yes, I remember all of them." Murderess Clara Phillips, Norman Selby who fought as Kid McCoy, the "Watermelon King," Asa Keyes, the "Kingfish," writer Ernest Booth, "Blind Johnny," "the Old Philosopher" and many others.

"I REMEMBER them all," repeats Dr. Stanley, "but none better than I do Herbert Emerson Wilson himself."

The dedication of Wilson's book to the former prison official is one indication of the close bonds that developed between the two men.

So is the note that Wilson scribbled on the flyleaf of the copy of "Rogues . . . All of Us" that he sent to his friend in Fairfax.

It reads:

"To my esteemed and honorable friend, Dr. Leo L. Stanley, whose encouragement resulted in the writing of this authentic book."

THE BOOK itself, published by Authors Agency Publishers of Vancouver, B.C., and selling for $9.95, is described as "containing true autobiographical vignettes of prisoners in San Quentin Penitentiary, California, as observed by the author — while serving a life sentence."

Author Wilson, Dr. Stanley describes as: "A one-time ordained minister who deliberately and with intention aforethought turned away from the path of righteousness and went into the nefarious and dangerous occupation of safecracking banks, robbing mail trucks and stealing untold thousands of dollars. He become known as 'King of the Safecrackers'."

In his day, Dr. Stanley adds, Wilson "lifted" 16 million dollars.

Dr. Stanley describes Wilson's appearance thusly back in the early 1930s when the latter was a felon in San Quentin: "He was then in his mid-40s, mild-mannered and soft-spoken. He had not forgotten his training or lost the outward appearance as a man of God.

"AS I remember, Wilson had a hard time of it when he first came to San Quentin. The cons had their own reason for wishing to dispose of him. They felt he had given the authorities information about his racket, and had returned three million dollars in war bonds that he had stolen from Uncle Sam." This violated the criminal's code.

In an earlier book preceding "Rogues . . . All of Us," entitled "I Stole $16,000,000," Wilson wrote extensively of his early difficulties in the prison.

"During my first two months at San Quentin," he wrote, "I had to think faster than I ever had to in the outside world."

BUT GOOD behavior won Wilson an assignment as a cell tender, then as a trustee orderly in the old men's ward of the prison hospital where he took part in a metabolic research project undertaken by Dr. Guy Clarke and others from the University of California and began his close acquaintanceship with Dr. Stanley. Later he became secretary to the warden.

Wilson served 12 years, then was released.

His wife had divorced him, and he returned to his native Canada to make his home with his mother. But a fellow San Quentin "graduate" put the "finger" on Wilson as an alleged participant in a transaction involving $100,000 in worthless bonds. And Wilson was sentenced to six years.

"I NEVER did believe the ex-con's story," says Dr. Stanley. "It was a cooked-up story to save himself from being tried and convicted."

Wilson was finally released and became for a time a wanderer. But eventually he remarried and settled in a little cottage beside the Puntledge River in British Columbia.

Wilson has written a third book, a novel entitled "Greed," in addition to "I Stole $16,000,000" and "Rogues . . . All of Us."

HE IS ALSO an artist and sculptor, has written a column for a Canadian newspaper and has been a busy lecturer, frequently appearing on television and radio.

Of the changed pattern of his life, Wilson says:

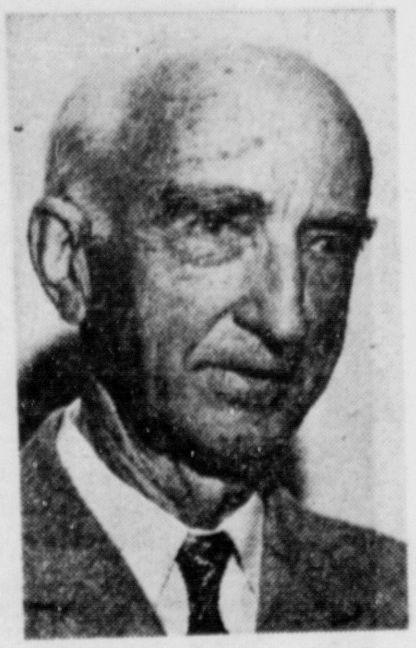

"It was Dean Jennings, one-time San Francisco Chronicle reporter who frequently visited me in San Quentin, and Dr. Leo L. Stanley who really did more for me than all the other people, for they encouraged me to prove that an ex-con can, with encouragement, become an asset to society.

"In any case, major credit goes to Dr. Stanley, who, to me, stands high as a humanitarian and as a gentleman worthy of my emulation."

DR. STANLEY appreciates that tribute from his former prison acquaintance — and the dedication of the book to him.

But, he says, perhaps Wilson's wisest words of all were those with which he closed his book, "I Stole $16,000,000":

"Don't let anybody kid you that crime doesn't pay. Crime always pays—with a living hell on earth."

DR. LEO L. Stanley, for 35 years the chief surgeon at San Quentin Prison, remembers well Herbert Emerson Wilson, the one-time "King of the Safecrackers." Wilson, now leading an exemplary life in Canada as an artist, writer and lecturer, dedicated his third book, "Rogues . . . All of Us," to Dr. Stanley.

NOW IN HIS LATE 70s, Herbert Emerson Wilson, once a Boer War soldier, once an ordained minister and once a San Quentin Prison convict, now lives in a cottage beside the Puntledge River in British Columbia where he can fish for the wily steelhead and the salmon.

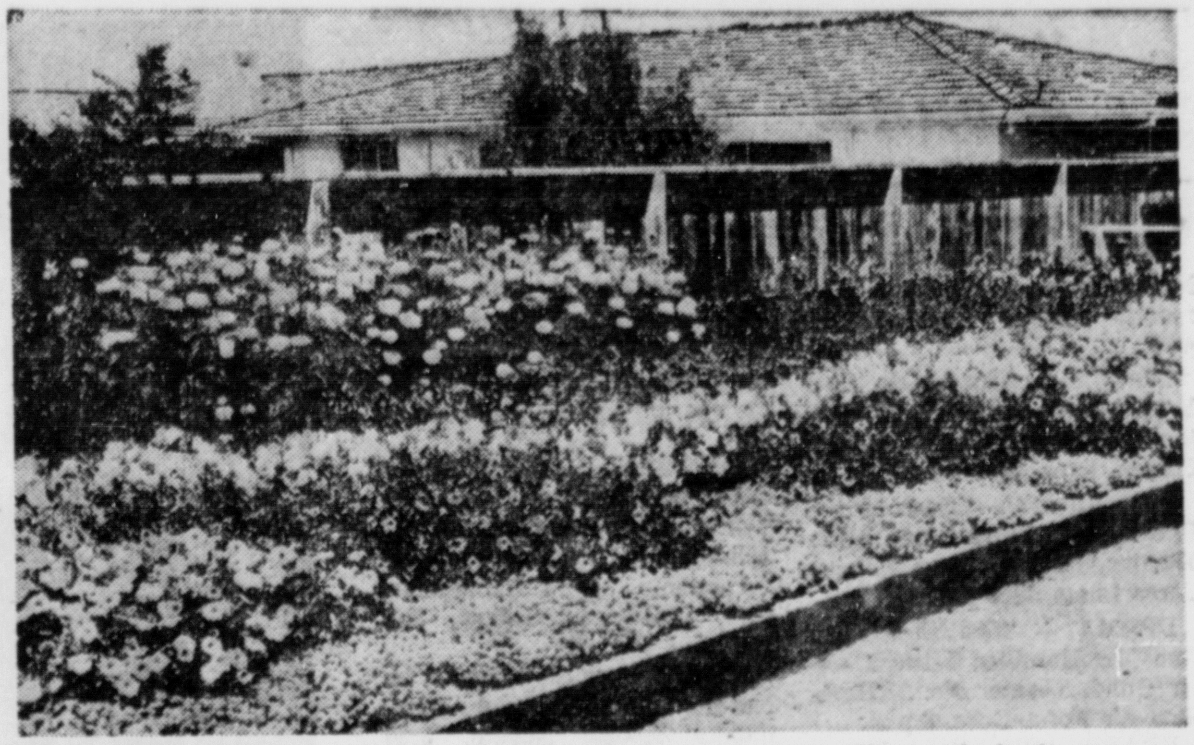

PAINTINGS AND SCULPTURE as well as books have come from the new Herbert Emerson Wilson. Here he poses with a painting that reflects his earlier career in the clergy before he became a safecracker and went to San Quentin.

Matchmaking With Flowers

HERE'S A WINNING combination. Just imagine the color you will have with stock, snaps, pansies and 'mums. By growing color in tiers, you can have the most dramatic effect with the least space. Plan a few harmonizing ideas, then ask your nurseryman for additional suggestions. (Photo by California Assn. of Nurserymen)

Discovery of two or more plants that go well together is always a happy event for the gardener.

For while many plants mix, there are some that seem made for each other's company. These can make the big difference between any garden and a very special garden.

IT IS WITH good reason, therefore, that nurserymen are ever alert for these go-togethers. They seek them not only for their own gardens but to pass on to their customers.

One combination that is always liked for the rear of a sunny border is the tall spikes of blue delphinium with those of the fiery Red Hot Pokers. They are all the more striking when planted against the defining background of a fence or wall.

Daffodils of any color are the better for a cover planting of blue violas and white Carpet-of-Snow Alyssum. The giant yellow trumpets of King Alfred are especially enhanced when blooming on stems that push up through this combination. Plant the cover soon after you plant the bulbs.

Also with bulbs, try pansies as a base planting for tulips.

ALONG A walk or in the front of a foundation border, a combination of gray-white Dusty Miller and coppery-red Fiberous Begonias always appeals to the eye. For variation, try Dusty Miller on one side of a walk, the Begonias on the other.

The sight of Dogwood in bloom over a carpet of Bleeding Heart is as stunning anywhere as it is in foothill canyons of the Mother Lode country. While this might be hard to duplicate, try instead flowering fruit trees over spring-blooming bulbs or flowering fruits over pink and white azaleas. You won't always find varieties that bloom just at the same time, but you won't lack for fun while you work it out.

Your nurseryman can give you the best advice about what and when to plant go-together plant material.

California Is A Happy Home For All Kinds Of Heather

Heather was made famous by the Scots, who attach special significance to it as the plant representative of their homeland.

When a Scot took roots in another country he kept a bit of blooming heather in a picture frame, renewing it each year from twigs sent by fond relatives.

Actually, heather belongs to the entire old world, from Scotland to the tip of South Africa, but California is one of the few places where all the many varieties can be grown. There is only one condition — a soil liberally supplied with peat and sand and providing good drainage.

A CAREFUL selection of varieties will provide year-round flowers.

The variety you will see in bloom now is one of the early winter flowering Mediterranean varieties, medium-sized bushy shrub with rosy-pink blooms. The Darley Heath blooms now and is a low, spreading shrub used for ground cover.

These varieties will give way in mid-winter to the Blackeyed Heather, a tall shrub with rosy-pink flowers having tiny black specks at the base of the petals. Your nurseryman also carries this variety in a deeper red shade.

TAKE plenty of cut branches into the house. Severe pruning is the only way you can keep these prococious varieties from becoming rangy and ugly.

Spring is the season for the Winter Heath, a native of southern Europe. The delicate foliage is the background for myriads of tiny red or white flowers on very compact plants.

It is also the season for another ground-hugging variety — Mrs. Maxwell — with carmine-pink flowers.

Summer belongs to the Callunas (from the Greek word for sweep) found all over Europe and part of Asia Minor. They grow in low, dense thickets, and you can imagine the impact of their acres of colorful flowers. They are becoming naturalized in the Eastern United States, just like the blooms have become liberated along the highways of northern California and Oregon.

THE "SCOTCH" heathers may come with several flower colors; pink, red or white. There is a form of Calluna with golden-hued foliage in summer, bronzy in winter. The flowering season lasts from late spring to fall.

There is still a third group of heathers popular with California gardeners. These have long, tubular flowers in shades of pink and white. First to bloom is the Tubular Winter Heath with pale pink or white flowers. The variety "Felix Faure" is low, bushy and compact, with orchid-pink blooms.

The Everblooming Heath is well-furnished with finely divided needle-like foliage and tubular red flowers. It is a beautiful foreground plant against evergreens with bolder foliage.

CHINESE Lanterns, orange when ripe, can be picked green or yellow as well for use in winter bouquets or dried arrangements. It combines well with Bells-of-Ireland. To dry either plant, select them during the middle of the day when there is no dew on them and picking only the prettiest stems. Bunch them by threes or fours, tying a string around the bottom of each group of stems, and hang them upside down in an airy place.

MANY OF the heathers, especially the winter-flowering varieties, make excellent subjects for pot and tub culture, particularly in areas where garden soils are heavy and moisture retentive.

Your nurseryman suggests that these will make excellent subjects displayed on the terrace outside a sweeping picture window. Sometimes garden-planted winter-flowering heathers are lost to view from house-bound gardeners. Be sure that the soil is light and peaty. The UC mix is ideal for the purpose.

Don't overplant. If you buy a plant in a one-gallon container, put it in a 10 or 12-inch tub, no larger. The roots of heathers don't like to be surrounded with waterlogged soil, the condition existing when too large a container is used. Feed regularly with an all-purpose liquid food.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Gardeners who are looking for a different ground cover in sunny places might try the prostrate rosemary — an old-fashioned favorite which serves you well in garden and kitchen alike.
- For portable display, try planting daffodils and tulips in pots or gallon nursery cans.
- You can enhance the beauty of a spring-blooming bulb bed by planting it over with colorful annuals. The bulbs push up through this cover and the two bloom together. Try pansies and violas, alyssum, linaria and nemophila for bulb bed covers.
- One of the fairest and earliest of the spring-blooming bulbs is the fragrant freesia. These can still be planted, but should go in post haste, for their dormant period ends earlier than daffodils and the like. Nurserymen suggest you plant freesias in drifts of one color for the best effect.
- Plant calendula in sunny beds for bright winter color.
- It is just about time to bring that Christmas poinsettia indoors. At least make sure it is protected from strong winds.

FORMER MARIN RESIDENT Les Crane moves into network television as he hosts a "TV-in-the-round" discussion show that bows in on American Broadcasting Co. stations including KGO-TV of San Francisco next week. "The Les Crane Show" will be seen Monday through Friday from 11:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. in competition with the Johnny Carson and Regis Philbin shows.

Ex-Marinite Les Crane Makes The Big Jump Into Network TV

NEW YORK—Les Crane, who comes charging out into the highly competitive late-night arena for the American Broadcasting Co. next week, began his professional career in New Orleans as an early morning disc jockey who did more than shake his listeners up.

He woke them up.

"I asked listeners to call the station, leave their phone numbers, and I would wake them at whatever time they designated," Crane explains.

"AND NOBODY is going to sleep through my television show," Crane promises. "We are going to book subjects rather than guests. Sure, we'll have big name guests. But you can bet that they're going to be live ones, and they're going to have some lively opinions to offer. Just the fact that they're in a current movie or have waxed a hit record or pitched a winning ball game won't be enough.

"We want people with ideas and convictions and the ability to express, and even defend them."

The ability to defend ideas will be indispensable on the Crane show because guests will be bombarded by questions from all sides.

In Les' TV-in-the-round studio, the audience will be seated in circular tiers rising above and around the stage. People in the audience will be invited to shoot questions at Crane or any of his guests via a "shotgun" microphone which will be an integral piece of Crane's equipment This is the same type of "mike" that picks up newsmen's questions at presidential press conferences.

IT WAS Crane's special ability to bandy ideas and/or quips of varying acerbity with listeners, viewers and guests that led to his present show.

Back in 1961, on the ABC-owner KGO radio station in San Francisco, Les began talking to and back to his listeners.

"I wanted to stir people to think," says Crane. "I wanted to hear from them about issues of the day. And I didn't feel it necessary to agree with them when I didn't. The day of the bland, neuter interviewer is long since past, I think."

While residing in Marin County across the Golden Gate Bridge from San Francisco, Crane moved from radio to television—still with KGO—and began conducting a similar "talk" show on controversial topics over the Bay Area's Channel 7.

HIS SUCCESS resulted in his promotion to the ABC-TV outlet in New York City.

Those who watched Crane's show on his week-long network "test run" last August, beamed from ABC-TV's owned-and-operated outlets throughout the country, witnessed late-night television that was anything but bland. Crane saw to it that the guests he booked and the subjects he discussed with them avoided the obvious and stressed the significant.

Such names in the news as Richard Burton, Mrs. Marguerite Oswald, mother of Lee Harvey Oswald, Jackie Robinson, Shelley Winters, William Buckley, Melvin Belli, and others emerged as real people with firm and sometimes passionate convictions, rather than as press-agent-concocted "celebrities."

SO IT WILL be on his new network show, Les avows. "Our object is to entertain the people and at the same time stir up their intellectual juices."

If Les achieves that aim—and network executives are confident he will—it's a safe bet that many a lively conversation across the nation is going to start off with, "Say, did you catch 'The Les Crane Show' last night?"

A Spoof Of The Opera

KGO's Roving Boys To Be Your Hosts

THE TRIO of "Roving Boys" who will take a humorous look at opening night of the opera on KGO-TV tonight at 10:30 includes, top to bottom, Don Sherwood, Carter B. Smith and cartoonist Bill Bates.

Some people go to opening night at the opera to see the opera.

Some people go to see the people seeing the opera.

Three people went to see the people seeing other people seeing the opera.

Those three are Don Sherwood, his radio crony Carter B. Smith, and cartoonist Bill Bates.

What they saw is the basis of an unusual television show to be seen tonight on KGO-TV at 10:30 o'clock.

THE TRIO will combine their talents for the first time to present a humorous and satirical view in caricature and narrative of the typical opera opening night, a widespread custom most recently observed in San Francisco on Sept. 11.

The view may be a little cockeyed, but it's all in fun.

The 30 - minute special program, titled "The Roving Boys at the Opera," will offer the pointed observations and wry comments of Sherwood and Smith over the cartoons of Bill Bates.

WHILE THE camera moves across the Bates caricatures, the "spies" who donned formal garb to study firsthand the great American social rite, will relay to viewers their opening night experiences.

Besides the sketches by Bates (he's the whimsical creator of the popular "Ping" character), some actual film footage of the opening night festivities will be used.

Viewers will follow our heroes from the moment they struggle into their white ties and tails, through the exclusive and traditional pre-opera cocktail party, to the opera itself, the intermissions in the bar, and then to the extravagant opera ball.

"WE'RE NOT here to criticize Society or ∂ury opera," says KGO-TV producer Gordon Waldear. "What we plan to present is the type of material which does not show up in society columns the morning following an opera opening night; not so strangely, it's quite funny."

As an example, the producer points to a Bates sketch which shows a male hairdresser waiting outside a ladies' room.

"This socially prominent lady was going to make sure her hair was just right," says Waldear, "so she brought him along."

ANOTHER sketch depicts Bates' reactions to some of the dramatic hair styles he noticed. One resembles a gun turret; another a cocoanut tree.

He also pictures a doctor who, having arrived late and finding the doors barred to late-comers, uses a stethoscope against the door to hear the entire first act.

"It's an unusual approach to a very big social event," concludes Waldear. "We think the people who participated in it will get just as much fun out of it as those who read about it in the newspapers."

"The Roving Boys at the Opera" was filmed by King Harrington, Jr. Production supervisor is David Crommie and film editor is William Westwick.

The program is, KGO-TV officials say, part of that American Broadcasting Co.-owned station's movement toward a larger number and a more varied kind of locally - produced programs for its Bay Area viewers.

A Gastronomical Gala

Final selection of the 25 winners of the Independent-Journal Holiday Recipe Contest posed a real problem, requiring accurate evaluation — and in many cases, the making up of the actual dish itself — according to the two judges.

"The quality of the recipes submitted by women from all over Marin County was exceptionally high," said Virginia Shattuck, home economist, North Bay Division of the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., co-judge of the contest with Geri Furst, home economics consultant and creator of recipes for Better Homes & Gardens Magazine.

"They were carefully worked out and extremely well-presented. In some cases, just to be absolutely sure, we cooked the given dish or item, as a final objective test. Also, we wanted to be sure that all 25 winning recipes, printed in the I-J Marin Magazine Holiday Cook Book, would prove to be practical and offer clear directions for readers who might like to use them."

All 25 winners will shortly receive, compliments of the Independent-Journal, a copy of "Better Homes & Gardens New Cookbook" as well as a certificate of winning participation.

The prizes will be mailed directly to homes of all winners.

The Turkey Is A Thanksgiving 'Must'

Thanksgiving would not be Thanksgiving without a big, succulent roast turkey to add savor to the pine-filled air.

Whenever the oven is opened to baste the turkey, its warm, delicious aroma lends a feeling of expectancy to the holiday atmosphere.

The turkey is the star attraction at Thanksgiving dinner. But that's only the first act. It performs equally well in a second act and a finale.

CIDER BAKED turkey is the feature on Thanksgiving Day. It is baked and basted with apple cider, which gives a distinctive note to the drippings. The dressing is a savory blend of bread, vegetables, spices and chicken broth. Sliced mushrooms and garlic are unique additions.

ACT II—served on the following day—uses leftover dressing and turkey with a cranberry surprise in the dressing balls. They are topped with tangy tomato sauce. Here's how they're made: 3 cups turkey dressing, 1 (7-oz.) can whole cranberry sauce, 6 servings sliced turkey, 1 (8-oz.) can of tomato sauce.

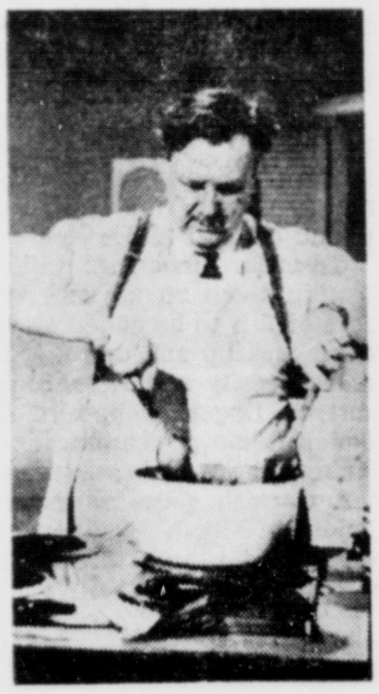

Divide dressing into six portions. Shape into balls. Press a hole in the center and fill with cranberry sauce. Press dressing over sauce to conceal it. Place dressing balls on a greased baking pan. Bake at 400 degrees for about 30 minutes. Meanwhile, heat tomato sauce for topping.

THE FINALE of any turkey is turkey soup. The turkey bones are cooked with vegetables, a spice-laden "bouquet garni" bag, and bits of leftover turkey.

Piquant tomato sauce added to the broth lends color and flavor.

A Buffet Built Around The Two Holiday Favorites

During the jolly holly season the accent is on parties—family gatherings, neighborhood get-togethers and open houses.

Food, of course, is important, and the easiest way to serve it to a crowd is via a colorful buffet. With traditional turkey and cranberries, a smart hostess can produce a hearty casserole and a tangy molded salad—both made the day before—and enjoy her own party.

THE MENU

Turkey Tetrazzini: Put this casserole together the day before and refrigerate until almost party time. Cook an 8-ounce package of spaghetti in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain. Turn half of the spaghetti into a greased baking dish, and add 1½ cups diced cooked turkey. Cover with the remaining spaghetti, then add 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup mixed with ⅔ can milk or water. Adjust seasonings. At baking time, sprinkle top with ¼ cup coarsely chopped almonds and ¼ cup grated cheddar cheese. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until heated through, about 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings. Note: Make plenty of this; guests will want seconds!

Cranberry Surprise Salad: Soften 1 envelope unflavored gelatin in ¼ cup water. Add ¾ cup boiling water, 2 tablespoons sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt. Stir until gelatin is dissolved. With rotary beater, blend in ½ cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind. Pour into refrigerator tray. Chill 15 minutes in the freezing unit, or until firm about 1 inch from the edge. Turn into a mixing bowl and beat until fluffy. Fold in 1 can whole cranberry sauce. Pour into a 1-quart mold and chill until firm. At serving time, unmold on salad greens and serve with mayonnaise. Makes 6 servings.

Rolls and Relishes: Hot cloverleaf or Parkerhouse rolls with butter and a favorite jelly or jam; olives, celery hearts, carrot slivers, gherkins.

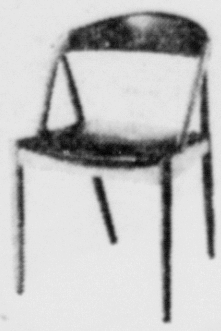

Festive Finale: Little plum puddings or mincemeat tarts with hard sauce; vanilla ice cream and angel cake frosted with sweetened whipped cream and sprinkled with crushed peppermint candy.

Disguised Leftovers

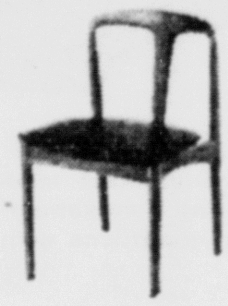

Leftover mashed potatoes can easily be turned into elegant "Almond Logs." Simply beat in an egg, shape into logs, roll in toasted slivered almonds and cook gently in butter until golden. So good you may want to make mashed potatoes for "Almond Logs" alone!

A Goose For The Big Feast

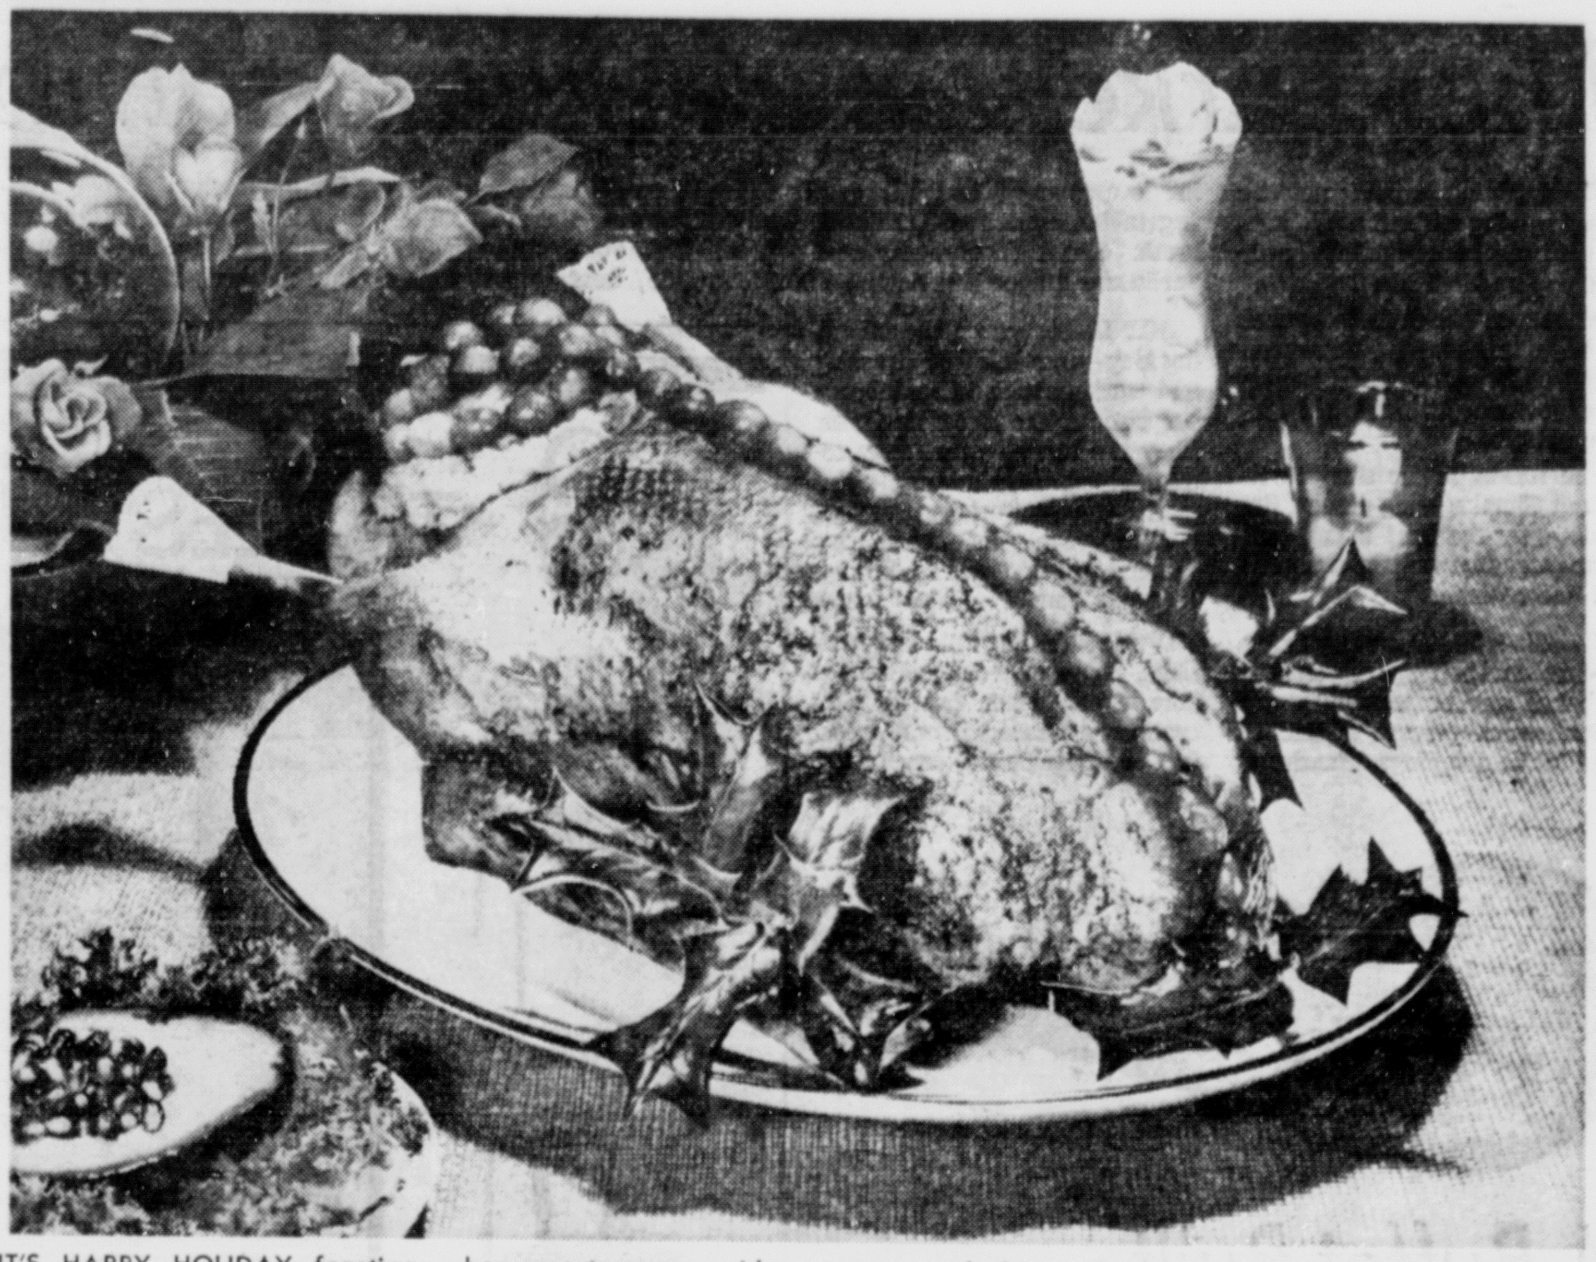

Better Now Than In Dickens Time

It doesn't take a literary cook to remember one of the most famous Christmas roast goose dinners in fiction.

Though Spartan by our standards today, the Cratchit's holiday feast was happy and warm-in-spirit—one that any family will do well to emulate.

Thanks to modern scientific breeding, geese of today are meatier and less fat than those of Dickens' time. But we can insure a maximum number of servings per pound, gourmet flavor and juicy moist morsels of meat from our birds by preparing them with seasoned meat tenderizer.

The "Mashed Potato Stuffing" may be quickly concocted with convenient instant mashed potatoes and a prepared bread stuffing. But, a hint to the wise—be careful to lightly stuff this bird as the mashed potato dressing swells more than ordinary bread stuffing during the roasting!

IT'S HAPPY HOLIDAY feasting when roast goose with mashed potato stuffing tops the menu. Meat tenderizer keeps the bird juicy and plump, insuring a maximum number of servings. Good with consomme madrilene with sour cream and chives, fresh cranberry-orange relish, baked squash, red cabbage in orange cups, avocado salad with pomegranate seeds, persimmon pudding, Princess Cup and hot coffee.

Red Cabbage with Apples in Orange Cups

Plum or Persimmon Pudding with Lemon Foamy Sauce

OR Princess Cup

Hot Coffee

ROAST GOOSE WITH MASHED POTATO STUFFING

(serves 10 to 12)

1 (10 to 12 pound) ready-to-cook goose

Instant Meat Tenderizer

MASHED POTATO STUFFING

(may be prepared ahead):

6 cups mashed potatoes
4½ cups bread crumbs
¾ cup minced onion
1 cup butter or margarine
3 teaspoons salt
2½ teaspoons marjoram
4 eggs, well beaten

Mix together mashed potatoes and bread crumbs. Saute onion in butter; add to potato mixture. Stir in seasonings and eggs.

1. Rinse bird inside and out with cold water; drain off excess water. Sprinkle instant meat tenderizer evenly, like salt, into entire cavity, using about ½ teaspoon per pound. Use no salt.

2. To insure penetration and retain meat juices, pierce kitchen fork into flesh of thighs and legs, without going through outer skin. Cook immediately or cover loosely with wax paper and refrigerate overnight.

3. Stuff just before roasting, using Mashed Potato Stuffing. Close cavities, truss bird. Heat any remaining Potato Stuffing in greased casserole at 325 degrees, about 45 minutes, until lightly browned on top.

4. Roast at 325 degrees, breast side up on wire rack in shallow open pan, approximately 20-25 minutes per pound or total of 3½ hours.

Test for doneness: (Start testing about 25 minutes before bird is to be done.) Move drumstick up and down. If it moves easily and flesh feels soft to finger-touch, bird is done. Remove skewers and string; place on heated platter. Garnish goose with garlands of fresh cranberries (use needle and thread to string berries).

PRINCESS CUP

For each parfait glass: Place a small scoop of vanilla ice cream in bottom of parfait glass, then a layer of drained canned fruit cocktail, another scoop of vanilla ice cream, then a layer of fruit cocktail. Pour green creme de menthe and a little grenadine over, add a dollop of whipped cream and top with a green maraschino cherry with stem. These can be made up ahead of time and stored in the freezer. Parfaits will not break in the freezer if they are handled carefully.

Grill Your Bird For A Real Treat

Charcoal-grilled turkey and trimmings are now a familiar sight on the Thanksgiving scene.

A giant turkey grilled on the rotisserie over wood charcoal briquets is a treat to behold. Its steady turning keeps it tender and juicy within, while the skin turns crackling golden brown.

Many charcoal fans favor a simple herb bouquet for seasoning. A leading gourmet recommends this one: In a cheesecloth bag, place a dash of basil, sweet savory, thyme, rosemary and oregano.

Place in body of turkey. As the noble bird turns, juices penetrate the herbs and spread flavor all the way. Turkey on the spit will take anywhere from 15 to 22 minutes a pound. Test with a fork for tenderness.

Cooking a Thanksgiving bird on the charcoal grill leaves the oven free for cakes and pies. You can also cook yams on the charcoal grill, buttering or oiling the skins beforehand. Pineapple circles can also be grilled over charcoal.

Try This Simple Baste For The Roast Turkey

Roast turkey is a handsome centerpiece at any festive meal.

This bird — beautifully glazed on the outside, moist and tender on the inside—qualifies for the highest praise.

A very simple wine-butter baste treatment is all that's necessary to produce those qualities most desired in roast turkey. The pink California Rose wine used in the baste is also an excellent choice to serve as the mealtime beverage.

This recipe was developed for junior-size (six to eight-pound) turkeys, but needs only to be doubled for a larger bird.

ROAST TURKEY ROSE

(About 8 servings)

1 (6 to 8-pound) turkey
1 lime
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup California Rose wine

Prepare turkey for roasting. Rub skin with cut lime and some of the butter. Place in roasting pan and cover (use aluminum foil if pan does not have cover). Roast in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) about 1 hour. Melt remaining butter, add wine and juice from lime. Remove cover from turkey and roast 1 hour longer or until tender, basting frequently with butter-wine mixture.

Sauce For Fish

In Europe, a favorite sauce for baked or broiled fish consists of 2 parts Spanish olive oil, 1 part lemon juice and salt and pepper to taste. Add a sprinkling of finely-minced fresh parsley, if desired.

WINE AND TURKEY are perfect companions on the holiday dinner table. Here pink Rose' has been used as the baste for the roasting bird. And it also serves well as the mealtime beverage.

Three Different Ways To Use Boneless Turkey

These Convenient Roasts Can Save You Both Waste And Time

Recipes teaming frozen turkey roasts and canned cranberry sauce or cranberry juice cocktail save time for today's busy holiday hostesses.

Boneless roasts can be oven baked or barbecued like conventional turkeys and one need not be concerned with disposal of bones. There's no waste in using canned jellied cranberry sauce either.

A five pound turkey roast is equal to a 12 to15 pound carcass turkey. A pound can of jellied cranberry sauce is equivalent to cooking and straining a pint of fresh cranberries, one cup sugar and one cup water in your kitchen.

For easy entertaining roast the turkey the day before your party.

Here are three ideas for your next party menu.

CRANBERRY TURKEY PARTY ROUNDS

6 round slices sandwich bread, buttered
6 thick slices roast turkey
6 slices canned jellied cranberry sauce
6 slices favorite cheese roll

Place buttered sandwich bread on cookie sheet. Top with sliced turkey, sliced cranberry sauce and cheese. Just before serving heat in a moderate oven until cheese melts.

FROSTED CRANBERRY TURKEY LOAVES

20 slices bread
Softened butter
1 lb. can jellied cranberry sauce
Turkey salad .... 2 cups well seasoned
Cream cheese (about 1 lb.)

Trim bread crusts. Butter the first slice of bread. Spread with a generous layer of cranberry sauce. (Butter prevents sauce from soaking into bread). Top with second slice of bread buttered on both sides. Cover with a layer of turkey salad. Top with third slice of bread, buttered on both sides. Spread with cranberry sauce. Cover with fourth slice of bread, buttered side down. With a sharp knife, cut each stack in half. Cover sides and top with cream cheese moistened with milk to spreading consistency. (Tint the cheese green, if desired). Makes 10 individual Cranberry Turkey Loaves. Chill in refrigerator until ready to serve. Garnish with cranberry sauce cut-outs.

CRANBERRY GLAZED TURKEY ROAST

1 frozen boneless turkey roast
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
½ cup brown sugar
1 lb. can jellied cranberry sauce

Thaw and roast turkey as directed on package. Cool. Chill well in refrigerator.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Dissolve over hot water. Beat cranberry sauce with rotary beater until smooth. Combine with brown sugar. Stir in gelatine. Spoon cranberry-gelatine mixture (slightly thickened) over top and sides of chilled turkey roast on shallow pan. Chill until firm. A colorful buffet dish.

HERE ARE THREE party ways to serve convenient boneless turkey roasts and canned jellied cranberry sauce. Choose a sandwich for broiling, or a sandwich loaf to refrigerate, or glaze a cooked turkey roast for easy buffet service.

Ham Glazed This Way Is Wonderful

Ham glazed this way is as pretty as a picture—and delicious, too.

JELLY-GLAZED HAM

½ fully cooked ham (butt end)
Whole Cloves
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 tablespoon sherry
¼ cup currant jelly

Have ham at room temperature; score fat side in 1-inch diamond shapes; insert a whole clove in the center of each diamond. Place on rack in shallow pan. Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven about 20 minutes per pound. Remove ham and raise oven temperature to hot (400 degrees). Mix together the mustard and sherry in a small saucepan; add currant jelly; dissolve jelly over low heat, stirring. With a pastry-brush, cover top and sides of ham with half the jelly mixture; return to hot oven for 5 minutes. Cover ham with remaining jelly mixture; return to oven for another 5 minutes.

Color Of Pork

If pork is from a young animal, it will look almost white; if from an older animal it will look rose-colored.

Air Officer Crashes Prize Winner Ranks

Maj. John A. Elledge of Headquarters, 6th RGN, ARADCOM, Fort Baker, was the lone man to crash the list of winners in the Independent-Journal Holiday Recipe Contest.

He did it with a snack that he calls Lamberoos and which he says he obtained from a fellow officer.

It is, he says, a great favorite "with our friends when we have a cocktail party or a buffet dinner." The Elledges then give it a "do-it-yourself" twist by using small hibachis on a mat on the coffee table from which the guests can cook their lamb tidbits to suit their own tastes.

The major also notes that the marinade can be stored in the refrigerator for re-use up to six months.

LAMBEROOS

2-3 pounds lamb breast
¼ teasp. powdered ginger
1 teasp. sugar
½ cup soy sauce
1 cup cold water

Cut lamb into finger size pieces. In large bowl mix remaining ingredients; add lamb and marinate at room temperature 3 to 4 hours. Charcoal broil slowly on hibachi turning frequently (or broil on rack in oven). Tasty snacks for 8-12 people.

Why The Supply Of Beef Varies

Why does the quantity of beef on the market vary?

Although beef is available the year 'round, there are periods when many cattle reach marketing age at about the same time. Smart shoppers watch the newspaper ads and take advantage of the abundant supply of beef.

Quantity and price of feed grains and the weather also affect the amount and quality of beef on the market, the American Meat Institute tells us. For instance, when there is a big corn crop, relatively low feed prices and a high price for beef, more cattle may be placed in feed lots for quality finishing to be marketed in spring and summer.

A Festive Touch For The Pork

The Curried Plum Sauce Pork recipe of Margaret Force of 102 Ryan Avenue, Mill Valley, was given to her by a friend.

It is, Miss Force says, "an easy recipe with a party touch."

She adds: "Be sure to allow for extra servings."

CURRIED PLUM SAUCE PORK

4 large loin pork chops
2 teasp. Mei Yen seasoning powder
1 teasp. curry powder
½ teasp. orange peel
1 tablesp. instant toasted onions
½ cup plum preserves
2 tablesp. lime juice
1½ cups water
1 teasp. arrowroot

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

Brown chops slowly on both sides in very little oil. Discard fat. Blend Mei Yen seasoning, curry powder, orange peel, toasted onions and plum preserves with pan juices. Stir in lime juice and one cup water. Cover tightly and simmer one hour.

Remove chops to heated serving platter. Discard excess fat from pan. Blend arrowroot with remaining one-half cup water. Stir into pan liquid. Continue cooking, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens. Serve hot over chops.

A FLAVORFUL raisin sauce and a handsome cling peach garnish add dressy touches to a baked ham. Serve the sauce hot. It has a spicy wine base and both dark seedless raisins and currants to give it the rich flavor. In cool, colorful contrast, golden peach halves straight from the can, add decorative touches to the ham platter.

COMPANY RAISIN SAUCE

- 1 cup dark seedless raisins
- ½ cup currants
- ½ cup brown sugar (packed)
- 2½ teaspoons mustard
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ Teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups red table wine
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- ¼ cup orange juice

Combine all ingredients. Cook, stirring, until thickened, about 5 minutes. Serve with smoked meats such as ham or tongue. Makes about 3 cups sauce.

AN I-J PRIZE-WINNER

Here's A Perfect Potato Dish

Judith A. Maxwell of 241 Coleman Drive, San Rafael, copied the recipe for what has proven to be the perfect potato dish from a magazine six years ago.

Patrician Potatoes, she says, can be fixed in the morning "before things get too hectic." The dish requires no gravy, and has a marvelous flavor that sparks up any dinner.

"It is my most requested recipe," she adds.

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

PATRICIAN POTATOES

- 1½ pounds potatoes (about 8 medium-sized)
- 3 cups cream style cottage cheese
- ¾ cup commercial sour cream
- 1½ tbsps. grated onion
- 2½ teasp. salt
- ¼ cup melted butter
- ½ cup chopped, toasted almonds

Pare and cook potatoes in boiling water; drain and mash thoroughly (about 4 cups). Blend in cottage cheese, sour cream, onion, salt and pepper. Spoon mixture into buttered 2-quart baking dish. Drizzle butter over top. Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Place under broiler a few minutes to lightly brown top. Sprinkle with almonds. Let "rest" a few minutes and serve. Six to eight large servings.

Green Peas With Lamb

Green peas served with lamb may be old hat, but they taste good. They're different, too, if you use this simple way to vary them.

SAVORY GREEN PEAS

- 2 cans (each 1 pound and 1 ounce) green peas with onions
- 1 cup thin celery crescents
- 1 or 2 tablespoons butter (if desired)

Turn peas and onions plus the liquid from just one can into a medium saucepan; add celery. Heat; drain; stir in butter, if used. Makes 10 to 12 servings. (Reserve all liquid from peas and onions for another use.)

Curried, And It's Hurried

Hurried, Curried Turkey is just that.

It's quickly prepared. It's richly flavored with curry powder and ripe olives. And it's a winning way to treat leftover turkey, because it is very, very good indeed.

HURRIED, CURRIED TURKEY

(Serves 4)

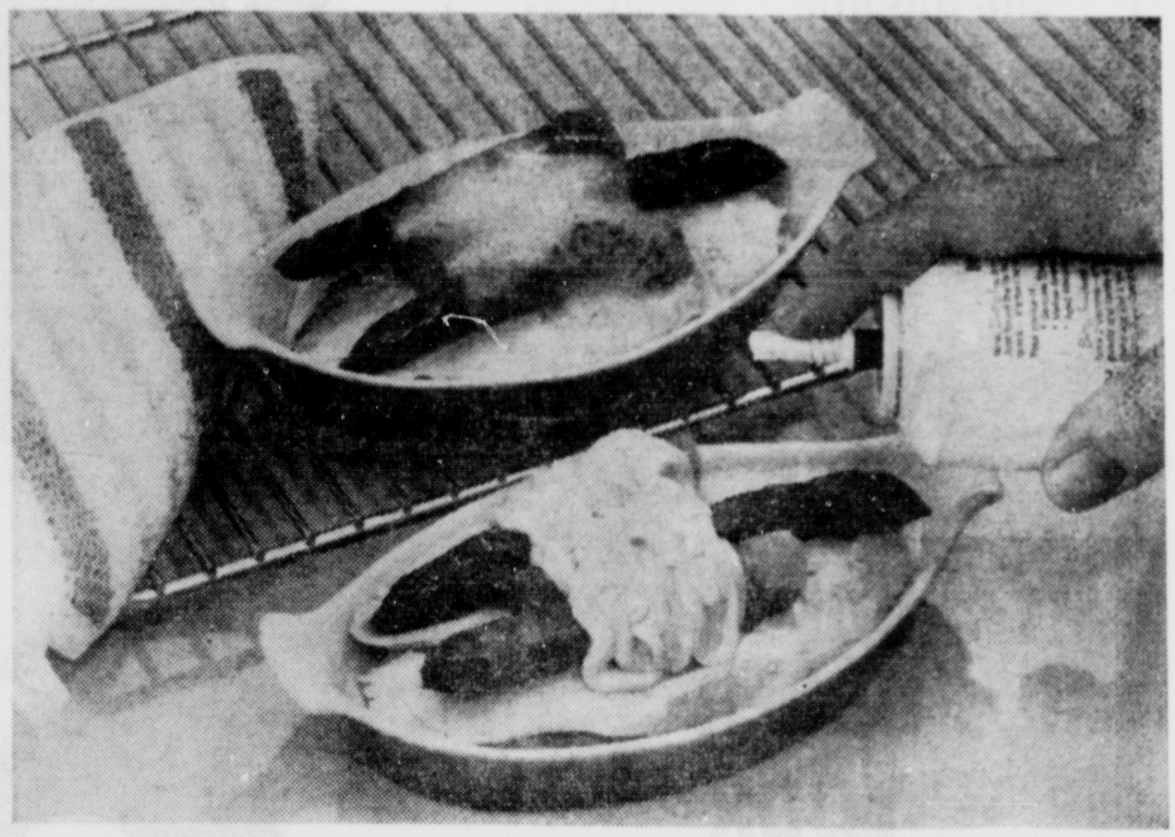

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 small apple, peeled and diced
- 1 small onion, chopped
- Salt, pepper
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 (10½-oz.) can cream of chicken soup
- ½ cup chicken or turkey broth
- 2 cups cut-up, cooked or canned turkey
- 1 cup pitted ripe olives

Saute apple and onion in hot butter in skillet or saucepan until lightly browned. Add salt, pepper, curry powder, soup and broth. Heat slowly, stirring constantly. Add turkey and olives, cook 10 minutes longer. Serve over hot cooked rice, toast, mashed potatoes or Chinese noodles.

THE CERAMIC TURKEY proudly holding the ripe olives seems to relish the delectable meal before him. Wise old bird, he's right, for Hurried, Curried Turkey is a post-holiday treat. It has a zesty flavor. And it makes for hearty eating.

For Leftovers

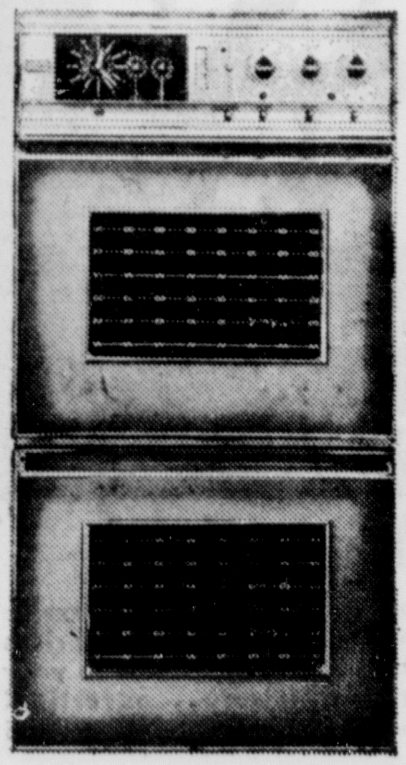

LEFTOVER TURKEY? Here's one solution—Turkey Divan. Frozen asparagus spears and Tillamook cheese complete a fast-broil dish. Place turkey slices in individual casserole. Boil asparagus until slightly tender, then lay three spears across turkey. Barely cover turkey and asparagus with cheese (the new push button cheese spread is used here for convenience). Broil three to five minutes until cheese is slightly brown, and serve immediately. Leftover chicken can receive the same tasty treatment.

HOT SALAD

Use Either Chicken Or Turkey

The Hot Chicken Salad recipe of Mrs. Robert H. Reeves of 18 Bay Vista Drive, Mill Valley, came to her from her daughter in Ohio, who in turn got it from her in-laws.

It's an excellent way to use leftover chicken.

HOT CHICKEN SALAD

- 1 cup celery, diced
- ½ cup onion, finely cut
- ⅔ cup diced green pepper
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms, or 1 large can, drained
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 4 cups diced chicken
- 1 small can pimiento, diced
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1½ cups coarsely crushed potato chips

Saute celery, onion, green pepper and mushrooms in the butter but leave them crisp. Add chicken, pimiento and mayonnaise. Turn into a shallow 2-quart baking dish, sprinkle with potato chips and bake 20 minutes at 400 degrees.

When You Cook With Charcoal

Who can be an expert on charcoal cookery?

The answer is almost anyone who will follow these sure-to-succeed tips on how to start and manage a charcoal fire.

Certain rules of good sense are in order, as in any dealing with fire.

FIRST OF all, test your grill for stability and safety. And when you have a fire going, do not leave the grill unattended in the presence of children. Use asbestos gloves and tongs for handling food.

For best results with your wood charcoal briquets, store them in a dry, unheated area when they are not being used.

In preparing your fire, begin by lining the grill with foil paper. Then place the charcoal briquets in a conical pile about six inches high. If you don't have an electric starter, you can sprinkle charcoal lighter fluid over the briquets and allow it to penetrate for at least one minute. Or you can use kindling or crumpled wax cartons as a starter fuel. Then light the fire with a long wick of rolled paper or an extra long match.

When the briquets are coated with gray ash, they're at the height of cooking temperature.

SHOULD YOU wish, you can judge the temperature by holding your hand palm down about four inches above the charcoal briquets. If you can keep it there for three seconds, the temperature is about 300 degrees. If you must withdraw it sooner, the temperature has reached its naximum—about 350 to 400 degrees.

Genuine wood charcoal briquets burn with an even, intense heat for long periods because they are so compact and free of air space.

The briquets give enough heat to cook a whole meal from appetizers to main course and dessert. If it is necessary to add more briquets, they should be placed on top of the lighted wood charcoal briquets at the edges of the cooking area. As they ignite, they can be moved to the center so that the cooking process is not interrupted.

BE SURE TO extinguish the fire after the meal has been prepared. This is where the foil lining comes in as a handy disposal package. You pick up the foil with the ashes inside and deposit it in your ash can. That will help you increase the life of your grill and save you clean-up time.

Foil also aids in the cooking, since it reflects heat toward the food.

Don't let fall and winter weather discourage you once you have mastered the art of charcoal cookery. You'll enjoy it as an all-weather, year-around activity.

With proper ventilation you can do the cooking on an indoor grill, hibachi, or in the fireplace. Or move your grill into the garage with doors left open, or the carport, lanai or protected deck.

Use Cornbread In Stuffing Your Holiday Turkey

Here's a savory turkey stuffing built around that old American favorite, cornbread.

CORNBREAD-SAUSAGE STUFFING

- 1 (10 to 12 ounce) package corn bread mix
- 1 pound bulk pork sausage
- 4 cups chopped celery
- 3 cups chopped onion
- ½ cup chopped parsley
- 3 cups soft bread crumbs
- 1 Tablespoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon sage leaves
- ½ teaspoon savory
- 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten

Prepare and bake cornbread as directed on package. Saute sausage in large skillet. Remove from skillet. In sausage drippings saute celery, onions and parsley until tender.

Crumble cornbread into large bowl, add bread crumbs, seasonings, sausage, tomato sauce, eggs and vegetables. Toss together lightly.

Sausage Treat

For a winter treat, skin a whole bologna sausage, cover it with a brown sugar glaze of the type used on ham and let it revolve on a spit over a wood charcoal briquet fire. Sliced for dinner, it's surprisingly different.

THIS HEARTY CASSEROLE TEMPTS THE APPETITE

FROZEN GREEN PEA, HAM, CHICKEN AND YAM PIE

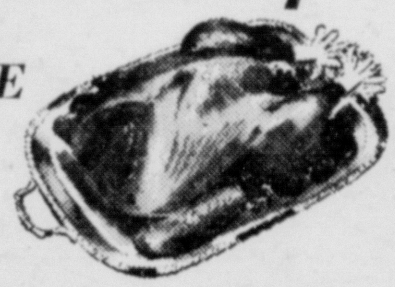

2 cans (1-lb., 2-oz.) yams or sweet potatoes, drained and mashed (about 2½ cups mashed)
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon salt
1 can (10½-oz.) cream of mushroom soup
1 can (10½-oz.) cream of chicken soup
¾ teaspoon poultry seasoning, optional
1 package (10-oz.) frozen peas, separated and partially defrosted
1 cup diced cooked ham (about 6 ounces)
1 jar (5½-oz.) boned chicken (about 1 cup diced)

Combine yams or sweet potatoes, butter or margarine, cinnamon and ½ teaspoon salt; beat until well mixed. Press potato mixture into an even layer over bottom and sides of lightly buttered 2-quart casserole. Combine soups, poultry seasoning, peas, ham, chicken and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt; mix. Fill center of casserole with creamed mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until well heated, 40 to 45 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Here's Substitute For Candied Yams

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

From a 1918 edition of "The Boston Cooking School Cook Book" that she purchased for a dime at a rummage sale, Mrs. J. H. Parr of 1901 Benton Lane, Novato, obtained the recipe for Sweet Potatoes Georgian Style.

The 1918 cook book, she says, is now one of the most treasured members of her collection.

And Sweet Potatoes Georgian Style is a favorite with her family, much preferred to candied sweet potatoes which they regard as too sweet.

"The sherry gives it a nut-like flavor while the molasses gives it just a touch of sweetness," she says of her award-winning recipe.

GEORGIAN SWEET POTATOES

6 medium sweet potatoes, pared
3 tbsps. butter
3 tbsps. sherry wine
1 or 2 tbsps. cream
Salt
Pepper
3 tbsps. molasses
1 tbsp. butter

Cook sweet potatoes till tender. Mash; add 3 tbsps. butter, sherry, cream to moisten, salt and pepper to taste. Beat till fluffy. Pile in a buttered baking dish leaving rough surface. Make a syrup by heating to boil, molasses and 1 tbsp. butter; pour over sweet potato mixture. Bake 350 degree oven till delicately brown (about 20 minutes). Delicious with holiday ham.

HERE'S A POT ROAST fancy enough for any holiday party, yet easy in the cooking. It's called Burgundy Beef Casserole, and it'll draw raves from your guests.

Protein-Packed Are Patio Boats

Patio boats offer a protein-packed, economical meal in minutes. Here's how to build your patio boat: Use 2 cans deviled ham; one loaf French bread; ¼ cup butter or margarine; 2 tablespoons mustard; one cup shredded cheddar cheese; ¼ cup minced onion; dill pickle slices.

Cut bread into ¾-inch slices down to the bottom crust. Cream together butter and mustard and spread between bread slices. Spread alternate slices with deviled ham and sprinkle shredded cheese on remaining slices. Spoon chopped onion onto deviled ham and insert pickles into the cheese. Grill (or heat in 400 degrees oven) for 15 minutes. Makes six to eight servings.

This Pot Roast Is Fit For Any Festive Party

Pot roast, though a universal favorite, is seldom served at holiday parties simple because no sensible hostess plans on 3 or 4 hours in the kitchen just before her guests arrive.

Here's a pot roast recipe that is different, delicious and tastes best of all when it's prepared days or even weeks in advance, then refrigerated or frozen and reheated at the last minute.

The full-bodied Burgundy wine called for in the recipe has two virtues—it enhances flavor and also helps tenderize the beef.

BURGUNDY BEEF CASSEROLE

(About 6 servings)

1 large onion, sliced
1 teaspoon whole black peppers
6 cloves
1 bay leaf
3 pounds bottom round pot roast
½ cup or more Burgundy

Line the bottom of a heavy casserole (preferably top of the range) with onion slices. Add pepper, cloves and bayleaf. Place meat on onions fat side up (browning it is unnecessary) and add enough wine to reach a depth of about 1½ inches in the casserole. Cover, bring liquid to a boil rapidly, reduce flame and simmer gently about 3½ hours or until tender. If cooking is gentle enough, no additional liquid will be needed. Should it evaporate, add more wine as necessary. Remove meat to a bowl and pour strained liquid over meat. Heat about half an hour in a moderate 350 degree oven. (For freezing, line a casserole with foil, arrange sliced cooked meat in it, pour thickened gravy over it and place in freezer. When frozen, life meat in foil from casserole, wrap tightly and return to freezer where it will keep at least three months. To serve, remove wrapping, replace frozen meat in casserole and thaw in refrigerator. Heat, covered, in a moderate 350 degree oven for about half an hour before serving.) To oven cook, allow about 4 hours in a 350 degree oven.

A Seafood Treat From France

Clams Aline from France that her mother used to bake won for Therese Van der Las of 85 Austin, San Anselmo, an Independent-Journal Holiday Recipe Contest prize.

Europeans often use mussels, but Americans seem to prefer clams, she says.

"Clams Aline used to be our holiday special," she remembers, "and also were a favorite for big dinner parties."

CLAMS ALINE

2 cups minced fresh clams
½ cup minced onion
⅓ cup minced celery
⅓ cup minced green pepper
1⅓ cup fine french bread crumbs
1 cup heavy cream

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

2 eggs beaten
2 tbsps. melted butter
2 teasps. prepared mustard
1½ teasp. salt
1 teasp. pepper (or to taste)
grated parmesan cheese sliced bacon minced parsley
paprika

Combine first 5 ingredients, stir in cream, eggs, butter, mustard, salt and pepper. Fill washed clam shells (or small baking shells or molds) with mixture. Line shallow baking pan with crumpled aluminum foil and nest filled shells in it to keep level. Bake in 350 degree oven 20 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle heavily with parmesan cheese, top with a small piece of bacon. Return to over and continue cooking till bacon is crisp. Garnish with parsley and a dash of paprika. Serve on small plates with cocktail forks. For luncheon, fill larger shells and serve as entre dish.

Who Says Spinach Isn't Great?

Spinach seems to stir up strong emotions in many families—either they like it or they don't.

However, a new way to prepare creamed spinach is calculated to bring in a unanimous vote of approval by combining it with cheese and wine.

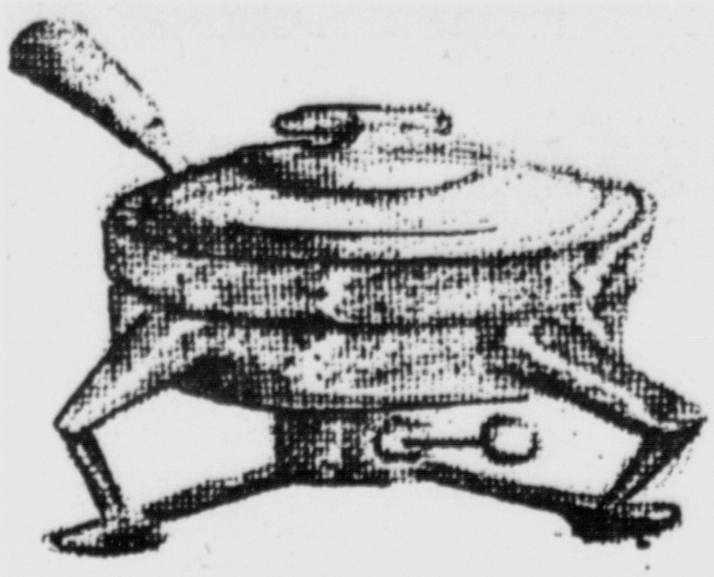

Creamed Sherry Spinach has the look of a fragile souffle, yet it holds its shape so well it can be turned out of a custard-cup mold to make attractive individual servings. Or, it might be baked in a ring mold to encircle creamed turkey or ham. Either way, its unusual flavor will be enjoyed by the whole family.

California Sherry seasons it subtly, but all the alcohol of the wine will have vaporized in the preliminary cooking, even before the baking dish goes into the oven. Only the flavor remains.

CREAMED SHERRY SPINACH
(6 servings)

- 1 (12-oz.) pkg. frozen chopped spinach
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup flour
- ¾ cup canned condensed cream of mushroom soup
- ¼ cup California Sherry
- ½ cup grated process Cheddar cheese
- ½ cup (firmly packed) soft bread crumbs
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- Salt
- Pepper

Cook spinach according to package directions; drain well. Melt butter, stir in flour, add soup and wine. Cook, stirring until mixture boils and thickens. Add cheese; stir over low heat until melted. Remove from heat. Add spinach and other ingredients. Turn into 6 well-greased custard cups. Set in shallow pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 45 minutes, or until firm. Remove from oven; for best results, let stand 5 minutes or so before unmolding.

Appetizer Recipe Is A Winner

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

Recipes for tasty appetizers are worth the weight of their ingredients in gold at holiday time.

Party Cheese Roll is one that Mrs. Donald E. Rodriguez of 15 Racquet Club Drive, San Rafael, learned from her sister-in-law. "It is very colorful for the holidays and has made a big hit at many parties," she says.

PARTY CHEESE ROLL

- ½ pound cheddar cheese grated
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- ½ cup crushed saltine crackers
- 1 hard cooked egg, chopped
- 1 small onion, minced
- 3 tbsps. chopped green pepper
- 2 tbsps. chopped sweet pickle
- 1 tbsp. chopped pimiento
- 3 stuffed olives, minced
- ½ teasp. salt

Mix cheese with mayonnaise till smooth. Add remaining ingredients, blending well. Form into roll on waxed paper. Wrap tightly and chill overnight. Serve with crackers.

A Casserole In Which Meat Balls Play Lead

A gourmet friend offered Mrs. Maurine Lynch of 5 Peninsula Road, Tiburon, a recipe for "meatballs better than chicken."

"And she was right," says Mrs. Lynch of Meat Balls Casserole.

The dish is ideal for a buffet supper for a crowd because it can be shaped ahead, browned and placed in the freezer. Then the sauce can be added and the meatballs, still frozen, placed in the oven to finish cooking.

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

MEAT BALLS CASSEROLE

- 1½ lb. ground beef
- ¼ lb. pork sausage
- 1 Tbs. salt
- ¼ tsp. pepper
- 2 eggs
- 2 medium potatoes
- 2 small onions
- 1 apple, peeled and cored
- ¾ green pepper
- 6 single crackers, roll

Put potatoes, onions, apple and green pepper through grinder. Mix meat and seasonings, add to ground mixture, add eggs. Roll crackers with rolling pin, add to mixture. Shape into golf ball size, fry to brown, put in casserole and pour a can of tomato sauce (dilute equal water) over them. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees, uncovered.

A BOX OF CHRISTMAS cookies from your own kitchen can be a most welcome and thoughtful type of remembrance.

And you can bake enough for your own holiday eating while you are at it. The recipes for two well-established holiday favorites are given below.

Christmas Cookies For Eating Or Gifting

HOW WOULD YOU like to eat a wreath at the end of a holiday party? Well, you can—not necessarily because you've lost a bet, but because the wreath is really a delightful confection. We heartily recommend this Popcorn Christmas Wreath with its hard-candy holly berries as an ideal decoration-and-dessert for a party, particularly one for the children.

POPCORN CHRISTMAS WREATH

4 quarts unsalted popped popcorn
1½ cups sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
⅓ cup butter or margerine
⅓ cup water
1½ teaspoons salt
Colored hard candy balls
Ribbon bow, if desired

Butter surface of a 14-inch pizza pan or draw a wreath 14-inches in diameter and 4 to 5 inches wide on a sheet of heavy brown paper and butter paper wreath. Place popcorn in a large buttered bowl. Combine sugar, syrup, butter or margarine, water and salt in saucepan. Bring to boiling point over low heat stirring until sugar melts. Continue cooking until syrup reaches the hard crack stage (290-295 degrees). Pour syrup in a fine stream over popcorn; stir just until popcorn is evenly coated. Pile unevenly around edge of buttered 14-inch pizza pan or wreath pattern, leaving a 7½ inch hole in center to form a wreath. Decorate with clusters of colored hard candy balls and ribbon bow, if desired. Yield: One 14-inch wreath.

Christmas gifts need not be expensive and elaborate.

A box of Christmas cookies from your kitchen is sometimes the most welcome and thoughtful type of remembrance.

Pack your Christmas Cookies in festive boxes which you have decorated yourself with Christmas paper, seals and ribbons.

Here are recipes for two exceptionally tasty and easy-to-bake Christmas Cookies.

Christmas Lemon Cookies may be cut in a variety of shapes, and decorated as you wish. Bright Lemon Baubles require no cooking at all and are similar to Rum Balls, but with a new lemon tang.

BRIGHT LEMON BAUBLES

1½ cups vanilla wafer crumsb
1½ cups sifted confectioner's sugar
2 tablespoons cocoa
½ cup finely chopped pecans
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
¼ cup bottled lemon juice

Combine all ingredients; let stand 30 minutes. Form into small balls, adding more corn syrup if mixture seems dry. Roll Balls in colored or confectioners' sugar. Chill.

CHRISTMAS LEMON COOKIES

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
2½ cups sifted all?purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup bottled lemon juice

Cream together butter and sugar; add egg and beat well. Sift together dry ingredients; add to first mixture, alternately with bottled lemon juice. Chill several hours or overnight. Roll out ¼-inch thick; cut into festive shapes. Place on greased cookie sheet and bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Decorate as desired with Ornamental Icing: Blend 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla and enough cream to make an icing that will hold its shape but can be pressed through a pastry tube. Yield: 4 dozen.

BAKE A CAKE FOR CHRISTMAS

Here's an extravagantly beautiful Christmas cake.

Prepare a basic white or yellow cake, adding ¼ teaspoon vanilla extract and ¼ teaspoon black walnut flavoring to the batter. Bake in round pans. Split the layers and fill with fluffy white frosting with raisins and chopped walnuts folded in. Swirl plain frosting over the sides and top. Then ring the top of the cake with a wreath of marzipan candy fruits.

Desserts To Make The Meal Festive

POPULAR BREAD PUDDING has a new look this year. The traditional creamy bread custard is flavored delicately with Sherry wine and then topped with a crunchy graham cracker crust. Served plain or with a topknot of whipped cream, this Duchess Pudding makes a simple, yet elegant dessert. To enjoy it to the fullest, pour glasses of sweet or cream California Sherry to sip along with the dessert.

DUCHESS PUDDING

(Makes 5 to 6 servings)

3 slices white bread
3 eggs
½ cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
¼ cup California Sherry
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ cup brown sugar (packed)
¼ cup fine graham cracker crumbs
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

Cut bread in small cubes and place in baking dish. Beat eggs lightly with sugar and salt. Add milk, Sherry and nutmeg and mix well. Pour over bread. Set in shallow pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 1 hour, or until set in center. Mix brown sugar, graham cracker crumbs, and butter together; sprinkle over top of pudding. Bake 5 minutes longer. Cool before serving.

Rum Baba With Tangy Sauce Adds Menu Class

Dessert can be the star of your entertaining when you serve warm baba cakes, topped with tangy lemon hard sauce.

These delicate raised cakes are available in vacuum packed cans. Rum, brandy or fruit, they blend perfectly with the traditional holiday topping for warm desserts—and best of all, they are so easy to prepare. Just remove them from the can, heat in the oven, and top them with stars of hard sauce.

You'll find them the perfect dessert—attractive to look at and a light finish to a filling dinner.

HOLIDAY HARD SAUCE

1 cube sweet butter
1½ cups powdered sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons grated lemon peel

Cream butter and sugar together; add lemon juice and work until smooth and fluffy. Add grated lemon peel and blend well. Chill overnight in refrigerator. (If you prefer, you can make your hard sauce several days ahead of time, since it keeps perfectly if covered and refrigerated.) When ready to use, pat in ½-inch layer between two sheets of wax or foil paper; roll smooth with rolling pin. Lift off top sheet of paper and use cookie cutter to cut star shape. Place on wax paper on flat dish and return to refrigerator until serving time. If you like, salute the holidays by making "flowers" of red and green glace fruit cake mix for star centers. Serve on top of babas which have been warmed in a shallow baking dish in a moderate oven in their own flavorful sauce.

A STAR DESSERT for the holidays—warm baba cakes, topped with tangy lemon hard sauce. The delicate raised cakes—rum, brandy or fruit—are available in vacuum-packed cans. They are that perfect ending to the holiday dinner, an easy but superlative dessert.

If you prefer a cranberry glaze for the little cakes: In small saucepan, combine 1 cup sugar with ½ cup water. Bring to boiling, stirring, until sugar is dissolved. Add 1 cup cranberries. Cook uncovered 5 minutes. Place unopened tin of rum cakes upside down in hot water off stove for 10 minutes to permit liquid in can to soak through cakes. Then drizzle glaze down sides of cakes after opening can and arranging cakes on your prettiest platter. If prepared ahead, do not refrigerate. Best served at room temperature or slightly warmed.

Babas can pinch-hit, too, for after dinner entertaining when friends drop in for dessert and coffee, for they're always ready on your kitchen shelf.

You'll find these delicate French-type cakes vacuum-packed in specialty food shops and in many of our local markets.

The Fruit Cake Is A Must For The Holidays

This regal raisin fruit cake has the beautiful color of burnished gold.

Its trio of California raisins—dark seedless, golden seedless and seeded muscats—imparts rich and noble flavor and fragrance. Mixed salted nuts, wine and candied fruits further enrich the spicy batter.

Its magnificent look comes baking it in a tube pan, although fancy pans or molds would also be in keeping. Crown the top with an artistic arrangement of raisins and candied fruits and glaze with hot corn syrup after it has been aged.

Be sure to make your fruit cake before Thanksgiving to allow plenty of time for its flavor to mellow and ripen.

Throughout the courts of Europe raisins have played an important part in traditional Christmas celebrations. They have always been a major ingredient in favorite fruit cakes and steamed puddings and in stuffings and sauces for meats.

Almost every country has a version of raisin bread for Christmas, shaped in the form of tall domes, cradles or crowns.

CONTESSA RAISIN FRUIT CAKE

1½ cups dark seedless raisins
1½ cups golden seedless raisins
1½ cups seeded muscat raisins
1½ cups candied fruit mix
1 cup cut up candied pineapple
1 cup halved candied cherries
1 cup sherry
1 cup butter or margarine
1¾ cups brown sugar (packed)
1 lemon, grated peel and juice
4 eggs
3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon cloves
1 cup mixed salted nuts

Combine raisins, candied fruits and sherry. Let stand overnight. Blend butter and sugar together until light. Add lemon peel and juice. Blend in beaten eggs. Resift flour with baking powder, soda, salt and spices into batter. Add nuts and wine soaked fruit. Mix batter with hands to distribute fruit and nuts evenly. Spoon into 1 (9-inch) prepared tube pan or 2 (9x5x3-inch) loaf pans. Line pans with greased and floured brown paper. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees). Place shallow pan of water on lowest rack of oven during baking. Bake tube cakes 3 hours; loaves 2½ hours. Cool on rack; then wrap in foil and store in cool place. Makes 1 (9-inch) tube cake.

They Come In All Sizes, And In Different Shapes

Although we may think of the traditional fruit cake as being a large tube or a loaf cake there is no standard size and shape.

Almost any container may be used for it if properly prepared. This could mean a muffin pan, a small 6-ounce juice can or a one pound coffee can as well as any of the fancy fluted molds that are dear to the heart of the modern homemaker.

Fill your chosen container with water to within one-half inch of the top edge. Then measure water to determine how much batter will be used. Consult the following chart to estimate the baking time.

BAKING AND STORING HINTS

. . . For large loaf cakes line pans with brown paper and grease with shortening. Smaller pans such as small loaves, fancy molds or juice cans—grease well. Cupcake pans may be lined with paper baking cups, or well greased. Some experienced cooks find foil a suitable liner for pans.

. . . Fill larger pans ¾ full; smaller pans ⅔ full or use measured amount of batter as given in recipe.

. . . Fill pans with batter to within ½-inch of top edge.

. . . Cool cakes thoroughly before wrapping.

. . . Wrap cakes carefully in heavy foil, saran or plastic bags.

. . . Store in cool, dry place.

. . . Age most fruit cakes 1 month or longer to mellow flavors.

. . . Decorate or frost cakes after aging.

. . . Cut with sharp thin bladed knife.

PAN SIZES AND BAKING TIMES

Bake fruit cakes in slow oven (300 degrees) until cake tests done in center. Place a shallow pan of hot water on floor of oven to give a less heavy crust. The following baking times are approximate.

Pan Size	Amount of Batter	Baking Time
9x5x3-inch loaf pan	6½ cups	2½ hours
8½x4½x2½-inch loaf pan	5 cups	2 hours
5½x3x2½-inch loaf pan	1¾ cups	1½ hours
4½x1½-inch round foil pan	1 to 1¼ cups	1 hour, 25 minutes
1 pound coffee can	3½ cups	1 hour, 50 minutes
9 or 10-inch tube pan or mold	2½ quarts	3 to 3½ hours
8-inch ring mold	3 cups	1 hour, 40 minutes
6-ounce juice can	½ cup	50 minutes
1¾x1-inch cupcake pans	1 rounded tablespoon	20minutes
3x1½-inch cupcake pans	½ cup	40 minutes

Desserts For The Festive Season

YOU JUST CAN'T have too many cookie recipes on hand at Christmas time. Minor variations of the basic recipe here result in two different kinds of cookies—either a lemon or a chocolate version.

Two Kinds Of Cookies— And Both Easy To Bake

What's better than one kind of cookie at holiday time?

Two kinds, of course, and here's an easy drop cookie recipe that makes either a lemon or chocolate version. Serve the cookies with milk for a nutritious snack and with tea or coffee for an afternoon "pick-me-up"

LEMON AND CHOCOLATE DROP COOKIES

2 cups sifted enriched flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
1 cup light brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
¼ cup lemon juice

Sift together flour, soda and salt. Cream shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs and vanilla extract. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with lemon rind and juice, mixing well. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned.

To make Chocolate Drop Cookies, follow above directions through creaming step. Stir in 2 ounces melted, unsweetened chocolate (2 squares) with eggs and vanilla extract. Omit lemon rind and juice. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with ½ cup buttermilk, mixing well. Bake as directed for Lemon Cookies. Makes 4 dozen lemon or chocolate cookies.

If you don't sift and in the absence of other directions, spoon flour directly from container into dry one cup measure, level off, then remove two level tablespoonfuls, according to USDA recomendations.

Brownies Are Always Favorites

Certain confections bring on an appreciative response on the mere hearing of their names, because of the delightful association with childhood memories. Brownies are in this class.

Here is an unusual variation of this dessert which will please grownups and children alike:

DELUXE CHIP BROWNIES

½ c. butter
2 sq. unsweetened chocolate
¾ c. flour
¼ tsp. baking powder
2 eggs, beaten fluffy and thick
1 c. sugar
1¼ tsp. vanilla
½ c. chopped walnuts
¼ c. potato chips crushed

Ten minutes before baking, start oven at 350 degrees. Melt butter and chocolate in double boiler over hot water (not boiling). Stir when melted and cool. Sift flour, measure and resift with baking powder. Add sugar to well beaten eggs in 3 parts, beating after each addition. Then beat in cooled chocolate and vanilla. With wooden spoon stir in flour mixture then nuts and potato chips. Spread evenly in lightly greased baking pan. Bake 20 minutes. While hot mark into squares with point of knife. Cool in pan on a rack. Complete cutting just before serving.

From A Midwest Grandmother

As a child, Mrs. Hal C. Moore of 129 Via La Paz, Greenbrae, had a favorite cookie — the Twice-Baked French Sticks made by her grandmother in Indiana.

Now Mrs. Moore herself has been baking them for 20 years. "And," she says, "the French Sticks never seem to last in our cookie jar."

TWICE-BAKED FRENCH STICKS

Bottom Layer

¾ cup soft butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
3 cups sifted cake flour
1 teasp. vanilla
½ teasp. almond flavoring
¾ cup apricot or raspberry jam

Cream butter and sugar till fluffy; beat in eggs one at a time blending well. Stir in flour, vanilla and almond flavoring. Spread cookie dough in greased 15-by-10 inch baking pan with shallow sides. Gently spread top with thin layer of jam. Bake in 350 degree oven about 15 minutes. Cookies should be firm but not browned. While cookies bake, make the following:

Top Layer

2 egg whites
1 cup sugar
1 tbsp. flour
1 teasp. vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts

Beat egg white till stiff; beat in sugar mixed with flour about one-fourth at a time, beating well. Blend in vanilla and stir in nuts. (Reserve some of the nuts to sprinkle on top, if desired.) When first layer is baked, remove from oven, spread egg white mixture on hot cookies and chill till cold. Cut cookies into sticks one by three inches, and place on greased cookie sheet about one inch apart. Bake about 10 minutes more or till top is light honey brown.

This Cherry Pie Is Different

Mrs. Wilma Schmidt of 27 Valencia Avenue, San Rafael, won herself one of the 25 awards in the Independent-Journal Holiday Recipe Contest with her tempting Cloud-Top Cherry Pie.

Says Mrs. Schmidt: "I bake a pie, cake or cookies every day.

"But when I made this new and different cherry pie, my husband really flipped. He said it was the best dessert I've ever made."

CLOUD-TOP CHERRY PIE

1 can red tart cherries (about 1 lb.)
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Water
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Few drops red coloring
⅔ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon almond flavoring
1 - 3 oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Toasted slivered almonds
1 - 9 inch pie shell

Drain cherries and reserve juice. In a 2 quart saucepan, combine ½ cup sugar, cornstarch and cherry juice to which has been added water to make 1 cup. Bring to a boil stirring constantly and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat, add cherries, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and a few drops red coloring. Cool and spread in bottom of baked pie shell. Chill evaporated milk in ice cube tray until frosty at edges. Combine milk with ¼ cup sugar and almond flavoring in a chilled bowl and beat until stiff with chilled beater. Blend cream cheese with 2 tablespoons lemon juice, add to whipped milk and beat until blended. Spoon over cherry filling and chill for 3 hours. Top with almonds.

Old-Fashioned Flavor For The Cranberries

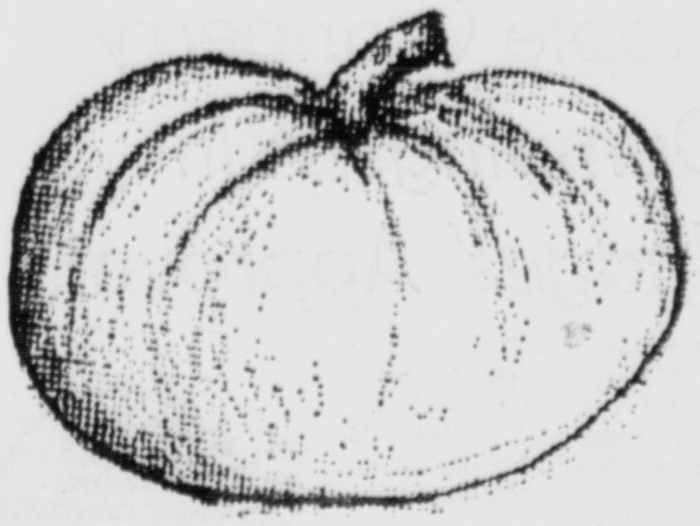

A sugar changeover gives cranberry sauce old-fashioned flavor.

NEW YORK CRANBERRY SAUCE

1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 cup water
4 cups (1 pound) cranberries (washed and picked over)

Mix sugars and water in a medium sized kettle; bring to a boil; cover and boil 2 minutes. Add cranberries; boil without cover until cranberries stop popping — about 5 minutes. Skim off foam. Cover kettle and cool; chill.

Here's Variation Of Old Favorite— The Pumpkin Pie

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

The Frozen Pumpkin Pie recipe submitted by Mrs. Donald H. Baldwin of 111 Tamal Vista Drive, San Rafael, to the Independent-Journal Holiday Recipe Contest with prize-winning results had an unusual origin.

Mrs. Baldwin's sister, residing in Florida, could not eat eggs. As a result, she frequently had to forego holiday desserts.

But in Frozen Pumpkin Pie she found one which she could eat. And which was delicious. She passed it on to her sister.

It can be made days ahead of serving time—if kept frozen.

FROZEN PUMPKIN PIE

1 cup cooked (canned) pumpkin
1¼ cups sugar
½ teasp. salt
½ teasp. ginger
¼ teasp. nutmeg
1 cup cream, whipped
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 baked pie shell

Combine pumpkin, sugar, salt, ginger and nutmeg. Spoon ice cream which has been softened enough to mold, into pie shell. Top the ice cream with the pumpkin mixture and freeze at least 2 hours. Makes a large pie.

Try The Florentine As Holiday Cookie

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

An old Viennese recipe which she brought from Germany and adapted for American measurements won for Mrs. Gunter Scholter of 20 Woodland Road, Fairfax, an Independent-Journal Holiday Recipe Contest award.

Florentines are a holiday cookie certain to please the palate.

FLORENTINES

¼ cup chopped candied orange peel
¼ cup butter
⅓ cup light brown sugar, packed
2 tbsps. honey
2 tbsps. light corn syrup
1 tbsp. heavy cream
1 cup blanched, slivered almonds
¾ cup sifted cake flour
¼ teasp. salt
8 ozs. semi-sweet dipping chocolate

Chop orange peel finely. Cream butter and sugar thoroughly. Beat in honey, syrup and cream. Add almonds and orange peel, then the flour and salt and blend well. Drop by level tablespoonfuls on greased cookie sheet, spread to about 2 inches in diameter—they will spread more while baking. Bake 6 to 8 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Cool a few minutes before removing them with a spatula to a cooling rack, flat side up. They must be removed from sheet while still warm. When cookies are cold spread flat side with chocolate which has been melted over warm heat and cooled (be careful not to overheat). With tines of a fork make a wavy pattern over chocolate and allow to harden. Makes 24 to 30 cookies. Keep in a tightly covered container.

Muffin Cakelets

Make favorite sweet muffin batter. Drop a spoonful into greased muffin cups, then put a few well drained pineapple tidbits and small cinnamon or mint jelly. Top with more muffin batter and bake. The flavorful filling's all inside!

Cranberry Pudding Cake Makes A Hit As Holiday Delicacy

In keeping with the festive mood of the holiday season you will want family and company desserts that are extra-special. Festive Cranberry Pudding Cake is such a dessert and takes little time to prepare.

Yellow cake batter, made by the easy muffin method of mixing, is baked over a tangy cranberry-pineapple sauce. After baking, for a final touch frost the cake with swirls of meringue and a sprinkle of slivered almonds then lightly brown it in the oven.

Festive Cranberry Pudding Cake will help you and your family meet your daily nutritional requirements, too. Enriched flour in the tender cake layer contributes important amounts of three essential B-vitamins plus the mineral iron.

FESTIVE CRANBERRY PUDDING CAKE

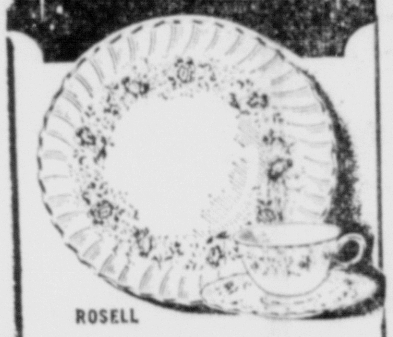

1½ cups drained whole cranberry sauce (1-pound can)
½ cup crushed pineapple
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon sugar

CAKE BATTER

1½ cups sifted enriched flour
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, separated
⅔ cup milk
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
3 tablespoons sugar
Slivered almonds, if desired

Blend together cranberry sauce, pineapple and lemon juice. Mix together cornstarch and sugar. Add to cranberry mixture, stirring until well blended. Pour into greased 8-inch square baking dish. For batter, sift together flour, ½ cup sugar, baking powder and salt. Beat egg yolks. Stir in milk and butter or margarine. Add egg yolk mixture to flour mixture blending until flour is well moistened. Spoon over cranberry mixture in baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 35 to 40 minutes or until surface is lightly browned. Remove cake from oven. Beat egg whites until foamy. Add 3 tablespoons sugar gradually and continue beating until stiff, glossy peaks are formed. Spread meringue evenly over cake and sprinkle with slivered almonds, if desired. Return to oven and bake 12 to 15 minutes longer or until meringue is golden brown. Cool slightly before serving. Make one 8-inch cake.

Rich Filling Great With Sponge Cake

Want to be extra nice to your family? Bake them a sponge cake roll and fill it with this rich concoction!

PINEAPPLE FILLING

1 can (8½ ounces) crushed pineapple
½ cup orange juice
⅓ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup heavy cream

Mix together the undrained pineapple, ¼ cup of the orange juice, the sugar and salt in a heavy saucepan. Bring to a boil. Stir the remaining ¼ cup orange and the cornstarch together until smooth; stir into hot pineapple mixture. Cook and stir over moderate heat until bubbly, thickened and clear. Cool. Whip cream; fold in pineapple mixture. Spread over sponge cake roll baked in a foil or regular jelly roll pan; roll up. Refrigerate at least 1 hour before serving.

Apple Cranberry Dumplngs Win Judges' Approval

A recipe from Chelan County in Washington state's apple country was the prize-winning entry of Marye M. McNeil of 35 Vendola Drive, San Rafael, in the Independent-Journal's recipe competition.

Apple Cranberry Dumplings are, she says, "easy to make, and downright delicious."

APPLE CRANBERRY DUMPLINGS

Syrup

2 c. water
2 c. sugar
½ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ c. butter

Dough

2 c. biscuit mix
2 tbs. sugar
¾ c. milk

Filling

4 c. grated peeled apples
1 c. canned whole cranberry sauce
½ c. walnuts, chopped

Combine first four ingredients and boil together five minutes. Remove from heat, add butter. Mix biscuit dough. Roll out on floured board to rectangle 18 by 12 inches.

Spread with cranberries, apples, nuts. Roll up like jelly roll. Cut in 1-inch slices and place in lightly buttered 13x9x2-inch pan. Pour hot syrup over all and bake at 425 degrees for 40 minutes. Serve warm with cream. Makes 12 servings.

Walnut Crescents Certain To Disappear — Too Fast

Walnut Crescents, says Mrs. William H. Melson of 1450 South Novato Boulevard, Novato, one of the Independent-Journal Holiday Recipe Contest prize-winners, taste as good as they look.

She was given the recipe, she says, by Mrs. Elizabeth Tallitsch of 1840 Novato Boulevard, Novato.

"I was teaching cooking to two high school 4-H boys, and they wanted to make a filled cookie," Mrs. Melson recalls. "None of the recipes I had available appealed to them. But these crescents really hit the spot. And they were able to make them easily."

WALNUT CRESCENTS

Dough

1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
2 cups all purpose flour
1 package dry or moist yeast
½ teaspoon sugar
1 tblsp. warm water
1 egg, beaten
2 tblsps. commercial sour cream

Mix butter and flour to a fine meal. Make a well in the center and add yeast which has been dissolved in the warm water with the sugar; egg and sour cream. Work into a soft smooth ball, adding a little flour to form the dough. Wrap in wax paper and stand in the refrigerator over night. Allow to warm a bit on floured board when ready to use. Roll dough out about ⅛ inch in thickness. Cut into 2 inch squares.

Filling:

3 cups walnuts, ground
1 cup sugar
1 large apple, peeled and shredded
1 teaspoon almond flavoring

(Make filling before rolling dough.)

Mix ingredients to make a paste. Place a teaspoon of the paste on each square. Spread with fingers across center as you roll into crescents. Place on ungreased cookie sheet, cover with tea towel and let stand 10 minutes. Bake at 375 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes or until slightly brown. After they are cool, sprinkle with powdered sugar. Store with the point of the cookie on top.

NO NEED FOR THE COOKIE TO CRUMBLE

Choose sturdy containers for packaging Christmas cookies for mailing—empty shortening or coffee cans are excellent. Spread popped popcorn generously over the bottom of the container to insulate against the bumps and bruises of mailing, then line it thoroughly with waxed paper. Wrap the cookies individually and pack one layer deep. Top the cookie layer with waxed paper and cardboard, then continue adding layers of cookies, waxed paper and cardboard until the container is filled. Add a top layer of popcorn. If you're using a non-metal container such as a cardboard box, wrap it with corrugated cardboard before adding the brown paper outer wrap.

Unusual Treat

Candied ice cream is an unusual and quick dessert treat. Fold one-half cup of chocolate covered nuts into a pint of ice cream and freeze until firm.

HOMEMADE ICE CREAM is making a comeback, with freezers and ice once again more readily available. For a distinctive taste treat, try coffee ice cream made extra-flavorful by using coffee with chicory. In Marin, it's ice cream eating time the year around.

An Old-Fashioned Treat Is Making A Big Comeback

What is a flavorite?

Its a new word in the American language to describe what happens when you take the national beverage, coffee, and use it to flavor our favorite dessert, ice cream. Coffee with chicory ice cream — a "flavorite," if there ever was one.

America has produced a number of unique phenomena, including jazz, baseball and ice cream. When Thomas Jefferson came back to the United States after a long visit to France, his baggage included a recipe for ice cream. Ice Cream was George Washington's favorite dessert and when the freezer was invented in 1846, nothing could supplant ice cream as the national dessert.

Coffee reached our shores when the first settlers arrived, for the Pilgrim fathers carried coffee beans and grinding mortars aboard the Mayflower. In 1785, Governor Boudoin of Massachusetts imported coffee with chicory from Holland in order to bring out the full flavor of his personal breakfast beverage.

For a new taste dimension try coffee with chicory as a flavoring in your homemade ice cream.

Mass - produced ice cream freezers (both the easy electric and the hand models) have led to the happy revival of good old-fashioned ice cream made the modern way.

Here are some hints that will guarantee perfect ice cream making every time:

If you're using a hand-crank freezer, turn the handle in slow, constant motion. Fill the container only three-quarters full to provide for expansion. Once your cream is done, wrap the freezer in layers of newspaper or a burlap bag and let it stand several hours to mellow.

If your ice cream is granular, here's what you've done wrong: You've either used too much salt in packing; you've filled the inner container too full, or you turned the machine too rapidly.

COUNTRY STYLE COFFEE ICE CREAM
(Makes one gallon)

- 4 eggs, room temperature
- 2½ cups sugar
- ¼ cup instant coffee with chicory powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 6 cups (1½ quarts) cold milk
- 4 cups (1 quart) cold heavy cream
- 15 pounds crushed ice
- 1½ pounds rock salt

Beat eggs until thick. Mix sugar, coffee with chicory and salt. Gradually add to eggs while continuing to beat stiff. Stir in milk and cream. Turn into ice cream can of dasher freezer following manufacturers directions. Pack ice and salt in freezer. When ice cream is made (about 35 minutes in motor type) repack following manufacturers directions and allow ice cream to ripen about 2 hours.

Uses For Syrup

Use syrup drained from canned pineapple for liquid in muffin and coffee cake batters. The flavor's a little tangier and slightly sweeter. Mix it with powdered sugar for wonderful glazes and icings, too!

Date Roll: An Old Family Recipe To Add To Cookie Collection

An old family recipe passed along to her by her mother has won an Independent - Journal Holiday Recipe Contest prize for Mrs. Maurice Johnson of 706 Belle Avenue, San Rafael.

Date Roll Overnight Cookies, she notes, keep well and add appeal to any plate of cookies you might serve.

DATE ROLL OVERNIGHT COOKIES

- ½ cup chopped nuts
- 1 cup butter or shortening
- 2 cups brown sugar firmly packed
- 3 eggs beaten
- 4 cups unsifted flour
- 1 teasp. soda
- ½ teasp. baking powder
- 1 teasp. cinnamon
- pinch of salt
- 1 teasp. vanilla

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

In top of double boiler, mix dates, white sugar, flour and water: cook over boiling water till thickened. Stir in nuts and cool. Cream shortening and brown sugar till fluffy; stir in eggs. Sift together flour, soda, baking powder and salt; work sifted ingredients and vanilla into butter mixture. Divide dough into half and place each half between two sheets of wax paper; pat into flat rectangles; chill several hours till firm enough to roll. On well-floured pastry cloth, quickly roll each piece of dough into a rectangle about 10 by 14 inches; spread with half the date filling. Starting on long side, roll up as for a jelly roll. Wrap in waxed paper and chill overnight. Slice into quarter-inch slices and bake on greased cookie sheet in 350 degree oven about 13 minutes. Cookies should be slightly soft and lightly brown when taken from oven. Makes about 10 dozen slightly chewy cookies.

Put Candied Fruit To This Good Use

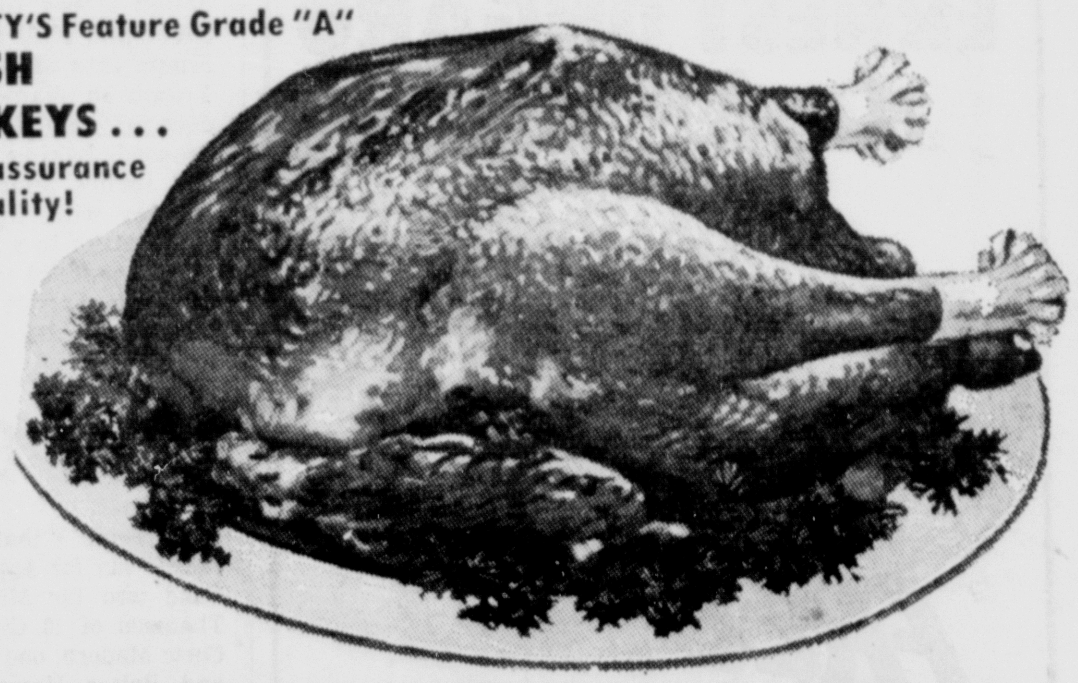

Don't throw away those bits of candied fruit left over from holiday baking. Use them to bake Christmas-bright muffins. Stir the chopped fruit in with the dry ingredients, then mix and bake as your recipe directs.

A Cake From Norway

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

Julekaka is a Norwegian Christmas cake, and the recipe submitted by Mrs. John M. Andersen of 368 Riviera Drive, San Rafael, has won her one of the I-J prizes.

The recipe, she says, came from her mother, and is one that has long been in her family — "so it has special meaning for us."

It is, she adds, delicious served plain, with butter, or toasted. If kept covered in a tin, it will last for many weeks.

Mrs. Andersen usually bakes many batches a few weeks before Christmas, wraps them in foil, ties each package with a pretty ribbon and presents them to special friends for the holidays.

JULEKAKA

1 cup seedless raisins
½ cup chopped candied citron
½ cup chopped candied cherries
1 Tbsps. flour
½ pound (2 sticks) butter or margarine, melted
2 cups granulated sugar
3 eggs
4 cups sifted all purpose flour
4 teasps. baking powder
1 teasp. ground cardamon
1 cup milk

Grease and flour two loaf pans 8½ x 4½ x 3. Sprinkle raisins, citron and cherries with 1 tbsps. flour; mix till coated and set aside. In large bowl mix butter and sugar; beat in eggs, one at a time. Sift together flour, baking powder and cardamon. To butter mixture, add sifted ingredients alternately with milk, beating well. Stir in reserved fruit mixture and pour into prepared pans. Bake in 360 degree oven about 1½ hours or till golden brown and center springs back when pressed lightly. Cool 10 minutes, remove from pan and cool on rack.

New Apricot Bread Recipe

Recipe of the Inverness Garden Club by Mrs. Angelo Ritchie Duperu:

Apricot Nut Bread

Mix 2 cups sifted flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon melted shortening
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 egg lightly beaten
½ cup orange juice
¼ teaspoon soda
¾ cup dried apricots

Add apricots washed and soaked 1 hour in ¾ cup warm water; mix until well blended. Pour into greased loaf pan, lining bottom with waxed paper. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour; turn on rack to cool. Wrap and store 24 hours before serving.

For A Change In Cheese Cake, Try This Chocolate Version

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

Chocolate Cheese Cake, "a refreshing change from the usual lemon or pineapple cheese cake," has served Adeline N. Foster of 5 Corte Cayuga, Greenbrae, well as a party dessert for many years.

She learned its secrets, she says, at a recipe exchange party in Minnesota where the Fosters then lived.

Mrs. Foster adds that the dessert is so rich, one recipe can serve 12.

CHOCOLATE CHEESE CAKE

Crust:

1½ cups fine graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup ground or finely chopped walnuts
½ cup butter or margarine, melted.
¼ cup sugar
¼ tsp. cinnamon

Mix together: press into 10 inch spring form pan making a thin layer on the bottom and half way up sides. Chill.

Filling:

1 pound cream cheese, softened
3 egg yolks
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup sugar
3 tbsps. cocoa
3 egg whites, beaten stiff

Beat together until smooth, cream cheese, egg yolks, and vanilla. Sift sugar and cocoa together and slowly beat into creamed mixture. Fold in egg beaten egg whites. Spread in prepared shell. Bake at 375 degrees, 30 minutes, or until set. Remove from oven and spread with topping.

Topping:

2 cups sour cream
¼ cup sugar
2 tbsp. cocoa
½ tsp. almond

Thoroughly blend sour cream, sugar, cocoa and almond. Spread topping over hot cake. Return to oven and bake 10 minutes longer. Cool at room temperature, then refrigerate until serving time. Remove sides of pan after cake is thoroughly chilled.

Cookies Those Special Guests Will Really Like

Save these extremely rich and delicious cookies to serve extra-special guests!

MELTING MOMENTS

½ cup cornstarch
½ cup confectioner's sugar
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
1 cup sifted flour
1 cup butter, softened
1 cup packaged fine grated coconut

Sift together cornstarch, confectioner's sugar, lemon rind and flour. Blend butter into the dry ingredients until a soft dough is formed. If dough is too soft to handle, cover and chill about 1 hour. Shape into small balls ½ to 1 inch in diameter. Roll in coconut and place on an ungreased baking sheet about 1½ inches apart. Flatten cookies with lightly floured fork. Bake in a slow (300 degrees) oven 20 to 25 minutes, or until lightly browned. Makes 3 to 3½ dozen.

You Can Have Your Cake Without Baking

From "an old friend back in Michigan," Mrs. Adrian W. Smith of 1065 Calle Empinado, Novato, obtained the recipe for her No-Bake Fruit Cake.

It is, she says, easy-to-bake, and foolproof, "and a big hit every time I serve it at my Christmas get-togethers.

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

NO-BAKE FRUIT CAKE

¾ cup milk
1 pound marshmallows
1 pound graham crackers
1 pound seedless raisins
Pint jar mixed candied fruit
4 cups walnut or pecan meats
Candied cherries and pineapple
Blanched almonds
Sherry

Put milk in saucepan, scald over low heat. Add marshmallows, stir constantly until smooth. Remove from heat. Put graham crackers into paper bag, crush with rolling pin. Mix crumbs with raisins, mixed candied fruit and nuts. Add marshmallow mixture, blend well. Line a 2-quart casserole or mold with waxed paper. Add fruit cake mixture, press down firmly so it takes the shape of the container. Decorate top with candied pineapple, cherries and almonds to give as a gift. Or turn out on plate and decorate top and sides with fruit and nuts. Either way, let age at least a month. Sprinkle sherry over cake about twice a week while aging. Can be made into several small cakes if desired.

Fruit Cake With Applesauce

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

A recipe "that has never failed" her for Applesauce Fruit Cake won for Mrs. Robert A. Thomson of 18 Granada Drive, Corte Madera, one of the awards and Better Homes & Garden Cook Books in the Independent-Journal Holiday Recipe Contest.

"Even my brother, who never baked a cake in his life, baked this cake successfully," Mrs. Thomson adds.

She says the recipe was given her by her mother who, in turn, got it from the food section of the St. Louis Post Dispatch a number of years ago.

APPLESAUCE FRUIT CAKE

1 cup unsweetened applesauce
1 cup soft shortening
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon almond extract
1½ lbs. candied fruit mix
1 cup candied cherries
1 cup white raisins
2 cups nut meats

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and beat well. Sift dry ingredients, reserving ½ cup of flour to mix with fruit and nuts. Stir applesauce and flour mixture into creamed shortening and sugar. Add almond extract and fold in fruit and nuts.

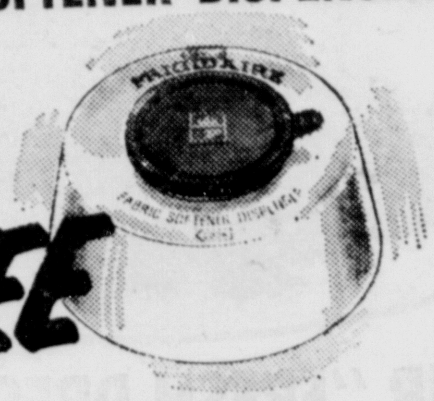

Line 2 - 9x5x3 inch pans with brown paper. Turn batter into prepared pans. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees) for 2½ to 3 hours. During last hour put paper cover on top of cake. To test for doneness, insert a wooden toothpick into center of cake. It should come out clean when cake is done. Remove from oven and take out of pan but do not remove paper lining. When cool, wrap tightly and store in airtight container in a cool place.

If you wish to pour liquor over cake, here is simplest way: Remove cake from oven to cooling racks, top side down. Remove baking paper immediately, then pour brandy (or wine) slowly over the warm surface. When it has soaked in, turn cakes right side up and pour liquor over top surface. When that has soaked in, wrap each cake first in double thickness of cheesecloth, then in heavy foil, molding it to cake. Store in airtight containers in a cool place to age.

A Minced Cake—Upside Down

Westerville, Ohio, is the origin of the Mincemeat Upside Down Cake of Mrs. John E. Yocom of 121 West Blithedale, Mill Valley.

And the cake, she says, combines the delicious taste and aroma of mince pie—but is not as heavy or rich.

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

MINCEMEAT UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

1½ cups mincemeat
2 tablespoons soft butter
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup plain or brandy-flavored whipped cream

Cream sugar with shortening, add egg, orange juice, flour, baking powder and salt. Mix well. Grease 9-inch cake pan or one and a half quart casserole. Mix butter, brown sugar, and mincemeat in bottom of pan. Spoon batter over and bake in 350 degree oven for 40 minutes. Serve with whipped cream. Best if warm.

Flame Pudding

For a flaming Christmas pudding, place sugar cubes dipped in lemon extract around the pudding, and light them just before serving.

Yule Cake Recipe That's Loaded With Good Things

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

It has since established itself firmly as a holiday favorite with the Silveys, not only because of its delicious taste, but because it adds a festive appearance tc the table. And it requires no aging to blend its flavors.

Of the woman who gave her the recipe, Mrs. Silvey remembers: "She used to bake a different cake every Christmas, one for each person in the office. They had no children. And this was their way of celebrating Christmas."

Yule Cake, Mrs. Silvey remembers, as the best of many outstanding Christmas cakes from that source.

YULE CAKE
(Makes 3 lbs. of cake)

1½ cups shelled whole Brazil nuts
1½ cups walnut halves
1 package (7¼) pitted dates
⅔ cup chopped candied orange peel
½ cup red maraschino cherries (drained)
½ cup green maraschino cherries (drained)
½ cup seedless raisins
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Grease bottom and sides of a 10x5x3" loaf pan, or a 2-quart mold. Line bottom with waxed paper and grease paper.

Place Brazil nuts, walnuts, dates, orange peel, cherries and raisins in large bowl. Measure flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into sifter; sift over nuts and fruits; mix well.

Spoon mixture into pan and spread evenly. Bake in a 300° oven about 2½ hours. Cool cake in pan 10 min.; loosen around edges, turn out on wire cake rack; remove waxed paper, cool completely before slicing. Cake will store well 2 to 3 months in refrigerator.

Jolly Quick Tarts

Mix drained canned fruit cocktail with your favorite mincemeat pie filling. Spoon into baked tart shells and heat 5 to 10 minutes in 350-degree oven. Serve warm topped with whipped or dairy sour cream. Garnish with a holly sprig.

JOLLY FRESH TURKEY

½ cube butter
6 green onions including tops
1 heart of celery including leaves
3 tblsp. chopped parsley
1 lb. sliced fresh mushrooms
1 lb. bulk sausage
2 lge. loaves unsliced white bread for stuffing
2 teaspoons poultry seasoning
1½ cubes butter, melted
15-lb. Jolly turkey

In ½ cube butter, gently saute' finely chopped onions and celery. Add chopped parsley and mushrooms and saute' 5 minutes If desired, chopped cooked turkey giblets may be added. Set aside. Now crumble sausage and brown until all redness disappears. Drain browned sausage on paper toweling. Add to first mixture. Add melted butter. Mix thoroughly. Trim all crusts from bread. Tear apart in small pieces. Add to sausage mixture along with poultry seasoning. Gently mix together, do not pack down.

This stuffing is delicately seasoned, still light when you spoon it out. It may be made the night before and stored in the vegetable crisper.

The New Cook Books

ILLUSTRATIONS BY PAUL MILLER

The new cookbooks range far and wide in presenting all the world's great cuisines on all levels of culinary skill and gastronomical taste.

A quick look at some of the newer ones:

San Franciscan Doris Muscatine, who did such a splendid job in her "A Cook's Tour of San Francisco," has followed that up with another success, "A Cook's Tour of Rome." It is both a guide to Rome's most interesting restaurants, and a cookbook collection of the recipes that have helped to make those eating places famous. One hundred and eighty recipes from 54 restaurants, ranging from a simple caffe to elegant ristoranti, are included. And the wines are not neglected. A big book, published by Charles Scribner's Sons, it sells for $7.95, and is well worth the price — especially for those who are Rome-bound.

"The Art of Oriental Cooking" by Mrs. Jung-Suck Choy (Ward Ritchie, $4.95) is a triplethreater, offering Chinese, Korean and Japanese favorites, all adapted for the Occidental kitchen. Mrs. Choy teaches Oriental cooking and operates Berkeley's The Korean Inn. She's an artist of gastronomy, and her media are the rices, meats, soy sauce, vegetables, etc. with which the Orientals turn out their subtle taste treats. Special pre-Christmas price — $3.95.

More and more of our foodstuffs are becoming available in frozen form. Taking note of that, Poppy Cannon has written "The Frozen Foods Cookbook" to help the American housewife take advantage of these convenience goods. Not only does she outline an array of palate pleasers whose preparation is simplified by the use of frozen produce, but she also makes the point that there is a far greater variety of frozen foods available to us than many of us realize. Published by Thomas Crowell and priced at $4.50.

An imaginatively planned, beautifully packaged cook book is Better Homes and Gardens' "Famous Foods From Famous Places" (Meredith, $6.95). You are taken on a cross-country trip with stops at the prestige eating places for the recipes which have won those restaurants their deserved reputations. Colorful illustrations are as tasteful as the recipes. This compilation of "specialties-of-the-house" makes up an especially exciting array of gourmet dishes.

Morrison Wood returned from a 10,000-mile tour of Europe last year with a huge collection of new recipes from that continent. He has used 300 of them for his newest cook book, "Through Europe With a Jug of Wine" (Farrar, Strauss, $4.50). Wood has the knack for finding outstanding regional dishes, and he whets your appetite for them by adding travel data about the hotels, the countryside, the chefs and the general flavor of the localities from which his delicacies come. There's also a chapter on European wines.

"The Food of Italy and How to Prepare it" by Edwin H. and Mildred O. Knopf (Alfred A. Knopf, $6.95) is one of the more comprehensive books available on the table fare of that land. Knopf provides a general discussion of Italian food as he found it in Italy, his wife then tells you how to prepare the dishes in your own kitchen. These are not the standard tomato-and-garlic dishes that some associate with Italian cooking, but a diversified, imaginative form of the culinary arts.

No matter how much you love the foreign foods, there comes a time when you want something definitely American. Then is the time to turn to one of the excellent Blueberry Hill cook books of Elsie Masterton. Her latest—"Blueberry Hill Kitchen Notebook" (Crowell, $4.95). Our dishes have their roots in many lands. But, Elsie of Blueberry Hill seems to give them all an American touch. And the result is good, solid he-man eating.

Harder to please than the most exacting gourmet is the palate of the finicky child. A trio of mothers—Mitzi F. Perry-Miller, Elizabeth Crossman and Margaret Nicol—have come to the aid of their beleaguered compatriots with "Clean Plates: Cooking for Young Children" (Scribner's, $3.50). It is a manual for the preparation of foods that youngsters will eat — and like. It begins with the baby foods and ends with party dishes for the 6-year-olds. The idea is to minimize the impact which a child's arrival has upon the family kitchen, without denying the small fry wholesome foods that are also, to their tastes, "happy" foods.

The editorial staff of Sunset Magazine has turned out a distinguished collection of recipes in a handsome format, tastefully illustrated, entitled "Adventures in Food" (Lane, $7.50). The 325 recipes are intended for the adventurous epicure and represent the kind of treats that are ordinarily found only in the deluxe restaurants — chicken Marengo, Chantilly parfait, for example. Until Christmas, this quality book sells at a special price of $5.95.

Russian cuisine is just beginning to enjoy the popularity it deserves in American kitchens. If you are among the new converts, you'll find Beryl Gould-Marks' "Eating the Russian Way" (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, $3.75) most helpful. It is an anthology of dishes to which the author was introduced by Russian friends, and which she liked best. What is stressed is the immense variety offered by

"Exotic Cookery" by Lilla VanSaher (World, $5.95) introduces you to the wonders of some of the world's more extraordinary delicacies. Mrs. Van Saher lists recipes for 120 dishes that are the products of "far-away lands," yet can be turned out in the home kitchen without undue difficulty. Tortilla de Banana, for instance. This is a good one for the person who likes to "experiment" in the kitchen and surprise the palate.

Like America, Israel is a "melting pot." Naturally, then, its foods reflect the traditional dishes of many lands. And the special requirements of the Jewish kitchens have given those dishes a distinguishing touch. Molly Lyons Bar-David has collected 700 recipes of her country for her "The Israeli Cook Book" (Crown, $4.95). Historic and folklore backgrounds accompany many of the recipes, some of which date back to Biblical times. And for the less easily obtainable ingredients, substitutes are suggested.

Dr. George C. Booth is an American professor, but for many years he resided in Mexico. And while there, he became an expert on that country's food. The result is "The Food and Drink of Mexico" (Ward Ritchie Press, $5.95) which mixes recipes for the savory cooking of south of the border with Dr. Booth's research into the evolution of that cuisine. Good reading, as well as good eating. And highly authentic, ranging from the favored foods of the isolated villages to Mexico City's fabulous restaurants.

The accent is on hearty fare in "200 Main Course Dishes" by Marian Tracy (Scribner's, $4.95). The housewife's big hurdle is always the main course. If it's a success, so is the meal. Mrs. Tracy provides a variety of dishes using all kinds of meats, seafood, poultry, macaroni, cheeses, eggs, rice and vegetables. And for each, she adds a suggested menu of appropriate accompaniments that will make up a well-balanced, satisfying meal.

Blueberries Taste Their Finest When They Are Not In Season

Here's a refreshing idea for a holiday season breakfast or brunch—and one that's simple to carry out. Plan a cereal breakfast of cereal toopped with bananas or other favorite sliced fruits or berries.

With the crisp cereal include a tasty coffee cake, Blueberry Kuchen, served warm. Made easily using a white cake mix, the generous coffee cake is glamorized with a streusel topping of packaged corn flake crumbs, sugar, cinnamon, butter, nuts and blueberries. Bring on Blueberry Kuchen fresh from the oven, or bake it in advance and reheat it at mealtime.

BLUEBERRY KUCHEN

5¼ cups corn flakes or
1⅓ cups corn flake crumbs
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1⅓ tablespoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
⅓ cup soft butter or margarine

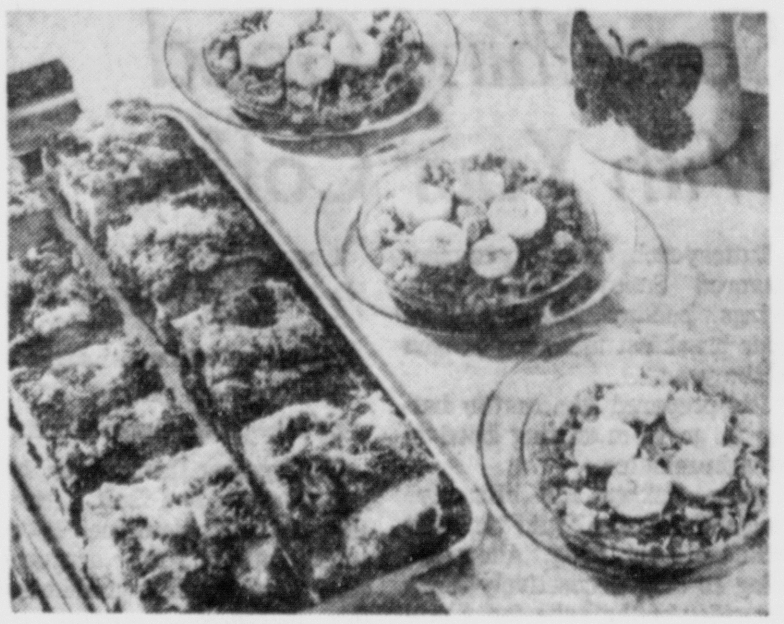

Drizzle Chocolate On Gingerbread

Drizzle chocolate-almond glaze over warm squares of gingerbread. Melt together 1 square chocolate and 1 tablespoon butter. Remove from heat and stir in 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 tablespoon hot water, few drops almond extract and ½ cup chopped almonds. Ladle over warm cake.

½ cup chopped nutmeats
1 package (1 lb. 4 oz.) white cake mix
1¼ cups (12-oz. pkg.) frozen blueberries, thawed or
1¼ cups canned blueberries

If using corn flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Combine sugar, cinnamon, salt and butter. Mix well with pastry blender. Add corn flake crumbs and nutmeats; blend thoroughly. Prepare cake mix according to package directions. Sprinkle 1½ cups of the crumb mixture over bottom of greased 13 x 9-inch baking pan. Spread cake batter evenly over crumbs. Sprinkle drained blueberries and remaining crumb mixture over cake batter. Using a knife, fold berries and crumb mixture into cake batter. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 40 minutes or until done. Cut in squares and serve warm or cold.

Yield: 12 3-inch squares.

THANKS TO THEIR luscious frozen and canned forms, blueberries are available even at Christmas time. From them, you can make Blueberry Kuchen, ideal for breakfast or brunch during the holiday season.

Something Good With Your Coffee

Buttery-rich, delicately orange-flavored Sunny Coffee Cake brings holiday festiveness to your breakfast table any season of the year.

It's prepared like muffin batter to go from mixing bowl to oven in minutes.

After baking the attractive ring-shaped cake "gild" it a bit with an easy icing. Allow the icing to drip decoratively down the sides of the cake for a professional touch. For crunchy goodness sprinkle chopped nuts over the icing.

Whenever you serve your family home-made coffee cakes and other flour products prepared from enriched flour you're also adding essential nutrients to their meals.

SUNNY COFFEE CAKE

1½ cups sifted enriched flour*
¾ cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
¾ cup milk
1 egg, beaten
⅓ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 cup confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons chopped nuts

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Stir in orange rind. Combine ¾ cup milk, egg and butter or margarine. Add liquid ingredients to dry ingredients, stirring only until well blended. Pour into well-greased 5½-cup ring mold. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 30 to 35 mintues. Cool on rack about 5 minutes. Loosen edges with spatula, invert and remove from pan. Stir confectioners' sugar and 2 tablespoons milk until smooth. Spread over top of cake. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Makes one ring-shaped coffee cake.

*If you don't sift and in the absence of other directions, spoon flour directly from container into dry measuring cup, level off, then remove two level tablespoonfuls, according to USDA recommendations.

COFFEE CAKE is a must for holiday entertaining—for guests who drop in, for family snacks, for the morning breakfast to get the day off to a festive start. Sunny Coffee Cake with its ring shape is a particularly cheerful accompaniment for your hot beverage.

Give Muffins Distinctive Flavor

A second call to breakfast won't be necessary when you serve Cranberry-Orange Muffins with the morning juice and coffee.

The aroma of freshly baked quick breads rouses even the most determined late riser. Round out the breakfast menu with orange juice, soft-cooked eggs, bacon, milk and coffee.

Delicious as plain muffins and biscuits are, explore the possibilities of adding other foods, as in these Cranberry-Orange Muffins. Fruits or vegetables add flavor as well as extra nutrients to your favorite hot breads, which are basically nutritious when made with enriched flour.

Much of the daily requirement of thiamine, niacin, riboflavin and iron is supplied by four or more servings of enriched bread products each day. Remember, too, hot breads are traditional at breakfast, but they are equally appreciated for lunch, dinner or at snack time.

CRANBERRY-ORANGE MUFFINS
12 muffins

1 cup coarsely chopped fresh cranberries
½ cup sugar
2 cups sifted enriched flour*
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted shortening or oil
1 tablespoon grated orange rind

Grease medium-sized muffin pan. Preheat oven to 425°. In small bowl combine cranberries and ½ cup sugar. Allow to stand while preparing muffin batter. Into medium-sized mixing bowl sift together flour, 3 tablespoons sugar, baking powder and salt. Blend together egg, milk, shortening or oil and orange rind. Add liquid all at once to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Stir in cranberries with last few strokes. Fill muffin cups ⅔ full. Bake 20 to 35 minutes, or until golden brown.

*If you don't sift and in the absence of other directions, spoon flour directly from container into a one-cup dry measure, level off, then remove two level tablespoonfuls, according to USDA recommendations.

Tom And Jerry Time Draws Near

A family recipe for Tom & Jerry Batter that she obtained years ago from an aunt was the prize-winning entry of Mrs. M. E. Ziebell of 110 Meriam Drive, San Rafael, in the Independent-Journal's search for outstanding holiday recipes.

A quantity can be made in advance, Mrs. Ziebell points out, so that there is always some ready when unexpected guests drop in.

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

TOM & JERRY BATTER

12 eggs, separated
2½ pounds granulated superfine sugar
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon alspice
Pinch salt
1 teaspoon brandy flavoring
½ teaspoon rum flavoring

Beat egg yolks, gradually add sugar beating very thoroughly. (Complete blending of the sugar is the secret of this recipe). Add spices, salt and flavoring and beat thoroughly again. Beat egg whites till stiff and fold into yolk mixture. Store covered in refrigerator. Stir batter each time before using as base for non-alcoholic or alcoholic Tom & Jerry holiday drinks.

Here's Traditional Drink For The Holiday Season

Mrs. Eric Askenback of 736 Panoramic Highway, Mill Valley, won an Independent-Journal prize with her recipe for the beverage. It came, she says, from an old Swedish friend.

The fruit and spices, she adds, seem to counteract the alcoholic effect of the drink, and glogg does not tend to intoxicate.

GLOGG

1 gallon Burgundy wine
20 cardamon seeds
20 whole cloves
2 3½-inch sticks cinnamon
peel of 1 orange
½ pound blanched almonds
½ pound seedless raisins
1 pound lump sugar
1 pint brandy

Pour wine into a large pan with cover. Tie spices and orange peel in cheesecloth and drop into wine. Cover and bring to boil very slowly, let simmer 15 minutes. Add almonds and raisins, cover and simmer 15 minutes more. Remove from heat and take out spice bag. Put lump sugar into strainer with handle and hold over pan of hot spiced wine. Pour brandy over sugar to moisten. Carefully light the fumes and ladle wine over the sugar till dissolved. Put out flame by covering with lid. Ladle hot punch into glasses (a silver spoon in glass will prevent breaking) and serve with almonds and raisins.

A Zesty Holiday Salad—

This Pineapple Creation Is S.F. Product

The sweet, tangy flavor of canned pineapple chunks blends with an exotic array of vegetables and herbs to create this exciting new holiday salad.

It's a San Francisco original . . . as zesty and colorful as the city itself.

Pineapple, Italian green beans, mixed sweet pickles and celery come together in the dill and garlic accented dressing. Chill it several hours or overnight, thoroughly to blend all the flavors. Then add festive finishing touches with shiny red tomato wedges.

Many holiday meats, such as ham, turkey, duck or beef, are compatible with this make-ahead show stopper.

PINEAPPLE VINAIGRETTE, NOB HILL

1 (9-oz) package frozen Italian green beans
1 (1-lb 4-oz) can pineapple chunks
1 (12-oz) jar sweet mixed pickles
½ cup wine vinegar
¼ cup salad oil
¼ tsp dried dill
⅛ tsp Tabasco sauce
¼ tsp garlic salt
1 small green pepper, cut in strips
1 cup thinly sliced celery
1 large tomato, cut in small wedges

Cook green beans as package directs just until crisp-tender. Drain and cool. Drain pineapple and pickles. Combine 1/3 cup syrup from EACH with vinegar, oil, dill, Tabasco and salt. Blend well. Combine cooked beans, drained pineapple, pickles, green pepper and celery. Add dressing; mix gently until thoroughly combined. Cover and chill several hours. Garnish with tomato wedges. Serve cold. Makes about 10 servings.

COMPATIBLE WITH most holiday meats is this zesty salad of pineapple, vegetables and herbs. It's a San Francisco product.

Cranberry Fruit Sauce

Drain syrup from a 1 lb. 14 oz. can of fruit cocktail into a saucepan; add ¾ cup fresh cranberries and cook about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in fruit cocktail and chopped nuts. Serve warm or chilled with turkey or ham.

Yogurt Salad—It's Low In Calories, High In Taste

A salad that she originated herself—Yogurt Molded Salad—and that has become a favorite on New Year's Day in her home, has won for Mrs. Wilbur Ertman of 28 Meadow Drive, San Rafael, one of the 25 awards in the Independent-Journal Recipe Contest.

Holiday COOK BOOK RECIPE CONTEST WINNER 1964

The colors, Mrs. Ertman points out, are appropriate for the holiday season. And the taste never fails to delight her guests.

YOGURT MOLDED SALAD

1 package red gelatin (raspberry or strawberry)
1 package lime flavored gelatin
1 small carton yogurt (¾ cup)
1 small can crushed pineapple, drained
1 can mandarin oranges, drained
½ avocado, diced

Prepare red gelatin according to directions on package, pour into a 7 cup mold, or use half of it only, in a 5½ cup star mold. Allow to set. Prepare lime gelatin according to instructions, decreasing water ¼ cup, let cool, add yogurt and blend thoroughly. Chill this mixture, and when ready to set, add orange, avocado and pineapple. Pour carefully over red gelatin. Chill in refrigerator until set.

A Carrot Pudding That Can Sub For Traditional Dish

An old family favorite from her mother's recipe file, for Carrot Pudding, was submitted by Mrs. Vernon H. Wheeler of 273 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo, to the I-J's recipe contest.

And it won for her one of the 25 prizes.

It has the advantage, she says, of being "not as rich as plum pudding." Furthermore, it does not require the long hours of steaming that is needed for plum pudding. And it can be made ahead of time and reheated when wanted. It freezes well, too.

CARROT PUDDING

1 cup grated raw carrot
1 cup apple, finely diced
1 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 cup dry bread crumbs
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teasp. cloves
1 teasp. cinnamon
½ teasp. nutmeg
1 teasp. baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
1 cup seedless raisins
½ cup currants

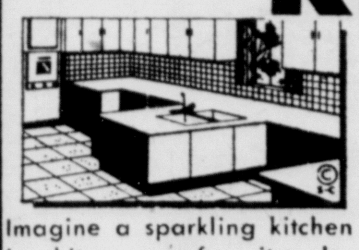

Prepare carrot and apple. Cream butter and sugar together, add egg and beat thoroughly. Add bread crumbs and flour which has been sifted with the spices, baking powder and soda. Add raisins and currants and mix well. Pack into a greased 9x5-inch loaf pan or a 6-cup mold and bake 1½ to 2 hours at 325 degrees. Serve hot with hard sauce or lemon sauce.

Pickles Add Salad Zest

For a new twist on almost any salad mixture, toss in a few pickles! Try different types with various dressings —for instance, candied pickles with cream dressings and fruit salads, sweet pickles with thousand island, French or Russian dressings, and dill pickles with vinegar and oil.

Pickles will add new zest to salad mixtures of egg, tuna fish, and chicken, too. Even vegetable salads will respond tastefully to a pickle pick-up.
